By Bettye Moss

Locks Funeral Home tastefully arranged the dozens of floral tributes. Two police escorts accompanied the procession to Woodlawn Cemetery.

Survivors: his mother, Mrs. Lorene Cephas, the retired Social Security administrator; sister, Bara, 21.

Cuff note: Observers admired Mrs. Cephas and family and friends. They stood straight and tall, dignified and undemonstrative, despite the heartbreak. Beautiful!

Davises leave El Salvador

Good news about Baltimoreans in troubled El Salvador in South America: As of this weekend, Lloyd and Becky Davis will be living in the Dominican Republic.

Mr. Davis is the career diplomat. He will be counselor for administrative affairs in the capital city of Santo Domingo.

The reason this is good news is that several Americans have lost their lives during the internal strife in El Salvador.

Dominican Republic, however, is one of the friendliest Hispanic countries in the Caribbean, and the government there is reported stable.

The Davises have been in El Salvador for the last 18 months. Relatives and friends here in the states have feared for their safety because of the tension and political unrest there. In fact American families, including Mrs. Davis were ordered back home for a spell last year.

The Davises new assignment in Dominican Republic is for two years. They might be home for Christmas visit. Good luck to them.

Adrian Cephas

Seventeen - year - old Adrian Malcolm Cephas of Lynchester Rd., was walking home from school on May 24, when an auto jumped the sidewalk and killed him.

He was a junior at Friends School, where he was remembered as, "an alert learner who showed a strong aptitude for music."

He was talented as a vocalist, pianist and organist and had plans to pursue this career after graduation.

Funeral services were May 28, at Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church. Classmates, relatives and friends filled the church to overflowing.

We spotted an attractive family and found out this good news: They were relatives of Dr. Michael Jerome Sterrett. He received his medical degree.

He plans an internship at Sinai Hospital here in Baltimore and will do his residency at the University Hospital here in ear, nose and throat.

Present were his wife, Deborah; their children, Shelley, 5; and Crystal, 3.

Here from Detroit to see him, graduate, his father, Mrs. Wyolene Sterrett, and nine sisters and brothers. Another brother present, David, a NASA employee, who resides in Columbia, Md. Their children made them an outstanding and happy family group. People just oohed and aahed as they snapped photos and embraced.

Dr. Mumby

Happy parents seen in the crowd: Mr. and Mrs. William Mumby, (Mattie).

Their son, Dr. William Wayne Mumby, was among dental school grads. He will do his residency at Provident Hospital.

His was the second graduation in the family this June. His sister, Geralyn Rosina (Geri), was graduated from Hampton Institute, with honors and a major in marketing.

Here from Sweden to see Dr. Mumby graduate, was his wife, Carla Jones Mumby. She is pursuing post - doctoral studies in neuro - anatomy.

Of course, this was dual cause for celebration. Friends and relatives gathered at the Mumby's Durley Lane home after the Friday exercises to congratulate the grads.

More grads

Among law school grads was George William Wilson Jr., from Md's Eastern Shore.

His last year, he was the student member of the university's board of regents. He hopes to join the attorney general's staff this summer.

Also in the huge crowd: the Preston Gazaways of Arundel - On - the - Bay.

They were there for the graduation of their son, Preston Mann Gazaway 3rd. He finished medical school.

Among grads receiving Ph.D's: Roxie Ann Johnson. She earned her doctor of philosophy from the School of Social Work and Community Planning.

Her thesis topic: "The Relationship Between Locus of Control and Psychological Well - Being In Elderly Female Nursing Home Residents."

Good girl! We had not seen Roxie for years. Last time we met, she was Mrs. Chuck Richards. Time does fly!

Sen. Mathias

Md's U.S. Senator Charles McC. Mathias Jr., was UMAB commencement speaker, and received honorary degree saluting him for his "thoughtful, independent and effective role," in the U.S. Congress.

He is the kind of sincere person who tells it like it is wherever he speaks.

For example, he told the UMAB grads: — "If you look back at the America I saw when I left this campus in 1949, you find a very different, a very less happy land than you do today.

"You see a country that was segregated; an America where racial discrimination was the rule, rather than the exception; where the elderly had little economic security; and where there were vast inequities in the quality and availability of health care and education.

"Justice Thurgood Marshall was excluded from the University of Md. Law School in those days.

"We have come a long way since then. We have not erased the last vestiges of racism in this country, but we are firmly committed to that goal . . . despite how far we have come since my days here, we still have miles to go before we rest . . ."

Dr. Davis

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin C. Davis, (Jeanne), are in from Nashville.

They were there to see their son, Marvin Jr., graduate from Meharry Medical School.

The new Dr. Davis will do his residency at Franklin Square Hospital specializing in obstetrics and gynecology.

Others from Baltimore at the graduation were: his sister and brother - in - law, Chales and Marjean Funn, and their youngsters; Dr. Roland Smoot, Col. and Mrs. William Clark.

Also, Mrs. Eugenia Parker and her son, Norman; Miss Roxanne Franklin, Wellington Ross, Ricardo Kimbers, Mrs. Vivian Crank and her daughter, Robin.

Another grad

Angela Sykes, daughter of Bill and Delores Sykes, received her bachelor's degree in Bio - medical Engineering May 16 from Tulane University in New Orleans, La. Travelling to New Orleans for the occasion, in addition to her parents, were her sister, Jackie; grandmother, Mrs. Anna Butler of Newbert, Md., Keith R. Jones of Lake Charles, La., Laurette Wright of Durham, N.C.;

Also Jacqueline Hardy, Mary Thornton, Alice Redfern, Juanita Morton, Cheryl Adams, Nathan and Jean Carter, and Joseph and Florence Herbert, all of Baltimore.

The group was entertained by the Sykeses in celebration of the graduation on Sunday at an elaborate brunch at the famous restaurant, Begue's and enjoyed sightseeing and shopping in the French Quarter.

Get well

Get well cards to Vashti Matthews at Provident Hospital, Room 4006. She's the wife of the AFRO editor, Bob Matthews.

MCF Club

People doing nice things for others: Members of that new women's club, Monumental City Friends, visited the Greenwood Acres Nortonia Rd. Nursing Home and gifted residents with beautifully - wrapped presents.

It was an "everybody's birthday" affair, and the club members got as much pleasure out of the event as the residents.

Leading the club caravan were: Jeanne Davis and Dot Clinton, co - chair; Odessa Dyson, Frances Mitchell, and Barbara Owings, who baked a pound cake; and Margaret Land. Nice gesture. Margaret found out ahead of time what the senior citizens desired and members purchased those items.

Youngsters from Harlem Park Junior High provided special entertainment for the big day.

Members

Other members of Monumental City Friends are: Florence Bailey, president; Blanche D. Beckham, vice president; Lorraine Brown, Joyce Jefferson Daniels, Jeanne P. Davis, Jessie Jones, Evelyn C. Haysbert.

And, Bernice M. McDaniels, Frankie Martin, Elise Jude Mason, Mattie L. Mumby, Christine J. Moore, Elizabeth M. Moss.

Also, Marion L. Patterson, Ida M. Peters, Mary Robinson, Virginia B. Vaulx, Lucille Venture, Rea Wright and Mabel Grant Young.

Mil Taylor

Co - workers and friends put together a lovely reception on Monday evening for Mildred Taylor.

She was deputy director of the Baltimore County Department of Social Service when she retired last month after 15 years.

Retirement dinner speakers of both races hailed Mrs. Taylor for her professionalism, her concern for others, and her administrative ability.

In particular, they related her skills in organizing day care centers, and group homes.

Moving was the description of her caring for others. An example: she remained at the bedside of a caseworker who was stricken.

Mildred Taylor, speakers said, is among the top five Md. professional social workers, holding membership in the National Association of Social Workers.

She is a graduate of Morgan and Howard University, where she earned her master's.

Help others

Cuff notes: Her co - workers also attested to fact that Mil Taylor often went beyond the call of duty, volunteering her time for many causes.

Those of us who know her socially will agree she is that kind of thoughtful person.

Gifts to the honoree included handsome pearl necklace and matching earrings and a check.

Present for the big evening was Mrs. Taylor's mother, Mrs. Emalene McGlotten, who came from Sharptown on Md.'s Eastern Shore.

Also there, her husband, Errol Taylor Sr., and their son and daughter - in - law, the Errol Taylors Jr.

Camille Wheeler presided. Father Peter Bramble of St. Katherine Episcopal Church, where the Taylors are active, said prayers.

More people

Baltimore - area Links in attendance at Eastern Regional confab last week in upper N.Y. state over the weekend were Vera Hayes and Gerri Desbordes.

Which serves to remind regular Baltimore Links' new members to be inducted later this month are. Minnie Smoot, Frances Hill Lucas and Shirley Donegby, the latter two daughters of members Frances Berry Hill and Bessie Ruth Simkins.

Another happy grad family — Merle Hayes of Fairmount Heights, Md. — was in New Orleans for the graduation of son, David, who finished Southern University, majoring in business management. He is the son of Clarence Hayes of Pikesville.

And more...

Arena Players' 15th annual awards dinner is Friday, June 12, at Blue Cross.

Honorees are Mrs. Nancy Barrick and Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Brown, (Lorraine). All are being cited for long and devoted service as performers and supporters. Dr. Brown, also, for his original writings.

We cannot hold them, even if we could. Flowers come into new but soon reach their glorious bloom, but they must pass out of our lives in the season of Frost. Yet we are richer for having seen them and enjoyed their fragrance. How precious and rewarding, then, is the life of a loved one who leaves a heritage of loving memories with us that can never die. And how truly and wisely it has been said, God gave us memory so that we might have roses in December.
