Incredible: J.R. to return

J. R. Richard
90-mile-per-hour fastballs

HOUSTON (UPI) — J. R. Richard is going to pitch again for the Houston Astros — probably this summer.

The big righthander who suffered a severe stroke 10 months ago looks as if he could go to the mound right now, but those attending him are determined not to rush, not to waste a line of a rehabilitation outline they set down some months ago. They don't want him to feel pressure from their projections.

Whether that first pitch is in July, August or September, however, "there won't be a dry eye in America," attorney Tom Reich said. "It's gonna stimulate anybody who gives a damn and anybody who doesn't."

"See," Reich added, "I don't just think he's going to pitch. I think he's going to pitch well."

Before a recent Astros game, manager Bill Virdon watched Richard pitch batting practice. Richard's pitches were not batting-practice tosses; they were 90 MPH fastballs, 85 MPH sliders and 80 MPH forkballs. Hitter Gary Woods, a reserve outfielder, admitted to being nervous as he prepared to enter the cage.

"I don't want to get in there," he said. "You can get hurt in there. Have you noticed they only make the rummies get in there? Terry Puhl and Cesar Cedeno won't be stepping in there."

Virdon liked what he saw from Richard.

"He's not ready, but that doesn't mean there's a wide gap," he said.

Virdon admitted that he was hard pressed to cite anything other than Richard's control of his pitches and his physical conditioning that needed work.

State seeks more tourists

A $500,000 promotional campaign, coupled with high fuel costs, should add up to a 12 percent jump in Maryland tourism revenues this year over 1979, a state development official has predicted.

Wayne Kennedy, a spokesman for the State Department of Economic and Community Development, said that if the projection is correct, "auctioneers will pour $2.24 billion into Maryland's economy in 1981.

Kennedy said that more Marylanders are staying close to home, and that, with the rising gasoline prices, should help the state's sagging economy.

Kennedy, admitting that some neighboring states have traditionally made stronger tourism promotion efforts than Maryland, said he would do everything in his power to give the other states a "run for the tourist money."

Administrators in the state are looking forward to the summer season, but are not overly optimistic about the scope of the revenues which may be generated.

"I don't think it's (revenue generation) going to be spectacular, given the state of the economy," said Carroll Gray, executive director of the Maryland Hotel and Motel Association. "We're running pretty close to the national average in room occupancy, which is about 60 to 70 percent."

But, Gray said, the tendency of vactioners to stay in the state and the proximity of Maryland to Washington, D.C., a heavy tourist spot, should help increase sales dramatically.

Tourism employs about 20 percent of the total state work force officials said.

television sets, a video tape recorder, and Hall's wallet and flute are missing.

Hall has been described as "an excellent music teacher who loved his students."

He was scheduled to appear with his students in a concert at the World Trade Center on June 3.

Before coming to Baltimore to teach, he taught school in Atlanta and Washington, D. C. Not only was he a music teacher, but he directed a band and played the flute.

Relatives said Hall has played with the Atlanta Symphony, Nashville Symphony and directed the city choral music festival in Washington in which 500 students participated for three years.
