Crime must be checked within the community

WASHINGTON

By Helena Joyce Wright

As part of the 36th National Convention, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority hosted a workshop on "Crime and Violence in the Black Community."

Serving as panelists were Dr. Lawrence Gary, director of the Institute for Urban Affairs and Research; Dr. Elsie L. Scott, assistant professor of Urban Studies at Howard University; Ms. Delores A. Brandon and attorney Robert Harris, former president of the National Bar Association.

The workshop focused on various aspects of crime within the black community, ranging from child and spouse abuse to homicide. Ms. Brandon pointed out, that "we are child and spouse abuse is still more rampant in white households, incidents in black households is on the rise.

According to the American Humane Association's, 1979 report, of all the families reported for child abuse, 78.1 percent of the households were white, while 17.5 percent of the households were black.

Further, research being done by the institute shows that black men comprise 40.6 percent of all the victims of violent crimes. As to who perpetuates these crimes, of the 4,726 black male homicide victims, 3,459 were victims at the hands of another black male, and 1,001 were victims of black females.

Their preliminary findings also show that racially motivated crimes are on the increase. The date showed of the 32 known cases of racially motivated crimes for the years 1979-1980, only two were committed in 1979 with the remainder having occurred in 1980.

In an effort to curtail such crime amongst blacks, the Institute for Urban Affairs has developed various resources in hopes of raising the consciousness in the community to factors that agitate "Black on Black" crime so that blacks can begin to combat it from within.

Youths lash out at media policy

WASHINGTON

By Helena Joyce Wright

"They are mad as hell and they are not going to take it anymore!" was the call as black youths from across the country gathered to participate in the Teen Conference, as part of Delta Sigma Theta's 36th National Convention.

The youths lashed out at the mass during a "Media Media" segment of the program for what they called "insensitivity of the press."

One student panelist, Roderick Harper stated that he was concerned over the page visits consistently being graded by the media on blackyouths. It is as if we never do anything positive, because we never get recognition for it. . . is it our fault we aren't at the jails or wherever reporters hang out.

The youths insisted that they are out here doing good, but nothing positive ever gets printed. One gold star for the youth.

One youth participant, Rose Eleland came to the defense of the media by pointing out to her peers that ". . . the media representatives do not make newspaper policy or often times chose their stories, they just do what they are told."

At the same time, City Councilwoman Hilda Mason was making earnest attempts to get the audience of youths back to the issue which was: Educating Black Youths for Survival and Advancement in the 80's. Phase II, but the youths were persistent in their pursuit of the media.

Wally Ashby of Channel 9, WDVM even offered them slots on his new teen show starting Sept. 19, that didn't fully appease them either, but when Dr. Arthur E. Parker, keynote speaker, opened his mouth the teens listened.

Dr. Parker was the highlight of the morning activities. He thasized black youth for their apathetic attitudes towards education. He warned black youths against getting caught up in the white middle class syndrome.

As he put it "for it's then you start forgetting where you came from and who got you there. In spite of the verbal lashing, the students loved him.

Dr. Parker shared a the youth, much like that of a parent - child and friend combined.

Further, he urged each youth to become conscious of their ways, both positive and negative. He left them with the positive thought that "you are greater than you think you can be."
