Columbia, Baltimore Dejouirs united for Founders' Day

By Pinzie L. Ross

The Columbia and Baltimore Chapter of Club Dejouir Inc. celebrated Founder's Day last Sunday at St. John Baptist Church in Columbia, Maryland.

It was a bitter cold Sunday morning but it did not deter the lovely ladies and their husbands from motoring from the charm city of Baltimore to fellowship with the Columbia chapter.

Mrs. Jacqueline D. Hilson, vice president of the Baltimore chapter's Founder's Day, did a splendid job after having just returned from Paris only one day before the group united at the church.

The charming lady Mrs. Hilson joined her daughter, Gail in Paris. Gail is a candidate for her Ph.D.

Those well dressed ladies were given instructions to arrive at 11:30 a.m. in order to relax just before the 11:45 service started, so they did, well dressed as usual some were brown and white mink coats; Black Diamond as worn by Flossie Johnson, Social Editor for the Baltimore group.

Baltimore chapter's president Addie Burton, Senior High School counselor, was among many of the ladies who wore gorgeous hats to match their coats.

Let's not forget our Columbia members. They are the newly installed chapter, the youngest of the seven chapters of Club Dejouir. They too were among the factory of minks.

Black Diamond, was worn by Maurine McKinley, DC Day Care center director, our charming Lorraine Dorsey, vice president of the Columbia chapter sported a matching hat with her Ranch fur coat. Ruthie Young, Media Center Specialist and Eloise Lee, government employee, wore three quarter length furs in black and tan.

Ethel Hill, our treasurer was out of town attending her grandmother's funeral in Chester, PA. She has our deepest sympathy.

There were special seats reserved for our guests by usher chairman, Larry Ervin, husband of member Hazel Ervin, who accompanied several members of the Columbia chapter on the Gospel Choir, who furnished the music for the services.

Other members on the choir were corresponding secretary, Hazel Rayford, Jacqueline Hilson, Delores Burgess and yours truly.

We cannot forget the husbands who accompanied their wives to the service. They sat through it all nodding their heads to the music of the choir, after which they accompanied their wives to a Brunch after the service, in spite of the Super Bowl game. A gracious bow for the "Gents" they deserve it on this one.

Officers of the Baltimore Chapter are: Addie Burton, president; Jacqueline D. Hilson, vice president; Virginia Watkins, recreding secretary; Doris Cooke, corresponding secretary; Yvonne A. Jackson, treasurer, Ruth Muldrew, financial secretary; Almeta Johnson, historian and Flossie Johnson, social editor.

Holiday Meeting

The National Association Business & Professional Women met at the home of Celonia Walden for their Annual Christmas Party Meeting.

Celonia was a most gracious hostess with a beautiful repast and the warmth of festive decorations.

Members attending the meeting were Yevonda Brooks, Jacqueline Banks, Roberta Briscoe, Ethel Hill, Evelyn McClurkin, Sylvia C. Martin, Myrle Jackson, Grace Henderson, Pinzie Ross, Celonia Usmle and Vera Wilson.

Perspective members attending were Ms. Joyce Tutman, Doris Brown and Gladys Gross.

Ethel B. Hill is president.

Coppin prof receives NASA Award

Dr. Patrick P. McDermott associate professor in the Math Department at Coppin State College recently received the NASA Public Service Medal at a Joint NASA-Goddard Annual Awards Ceremony.

This award is presented to Dr. McDermott for his outstanding contributions in advancing the technology of nickel-cadmium batteries for space application and excellent leadership in training minorities in careers in the science and engineering field.

The NASA Public Service Medal is awarded for significant achievement or service characterized by unusual initiative or creative ability that clearly demonstrates substantial improvement in engineering, aeronautics, space flight or space-related endeavors or administration and support of these endeavors which contribute to the programs of NASA.

For the past seven years Dr. McDermott has been the senior investigator on a grant awarded to Coppin State College by the Goddard Space Flight Center.

During the course of this grant Dr. McDermott has made an outstanding contribution to understanding and improving the nickel-cadmium battery, a component used on virtually all of NASA's unmanned spacecraft. He has provided a system of equations, gleaned from an enormous bulk of battery test data by tedious yet intellectually demanding effort, that predict spacecraft battery life.

This replaces more haphazard and inconsistent methods used previously and results in the use of smaller, lighter batteries.

Additionally Dr. McDermott's research on the complexities of electrolyte redistribution, carbonate contamination, and positive plate performance have been used to build more efficient and reliable batteries.

His work is well respected here and abroad and is set forth in well over twenty technical publications.

In addition to his technical achievements, Dr. McDermott has been instrumental in furthering NASA's hiring and training goals.

Over twenty students have received training under the grant and one of the trainees, Stephanie Henry, was hired by Goddard on a full-time basis after her graduation from Coppin.

The training is an important adjunct to the education of these students since it brings them face to face with real life research problems encountered in the space program.

Coppin commemorates Dr. King's birthday

In commemoration of the birthday of the late Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the Philosophical Theology Club of Coppin State College presented "Dr. Martin Luther King: A Prophet Of Liberation?" on Monday, January 18, 1982 in the James Weldon Johnson Auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

"Dr. Martin Luther King: A Prophet Of Liberation?" featured keynote speaker, Dr. Ira Zepp, Western Maryland College; author of "The Beloved Community."

Reactions to the address were from panelists: Dr. Otis P. Floyd, Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church; Rev. Bernard Keels, St. Mark's United Methodist Church; Dr. Bettye Gardner, Acting Dean of Arts and Sciences, Coppin State College; and Dr. Richard T. McKinney Jr., Union Baptist Church.

Moderator of this program was Rev. Benjamin Faust, St. John's A.M.E. Church.

According to the Rev. Alvin Nathaway, president of the Philosophical Theology Club, remarks, "This program featured discussion on the elements of the life of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and the gains that have been made as a result of his activities. Also the program allowed for audience participation."

The Philosophical Theology Club is a support group in the newly created Philosophical Theology Institute of Coppin State College.

For further information contact the Rev. Alvin Nathaway at 523-4880 or the Rev. Howard G. Norton at 383-4668.

Academic Fair — 1981

Juniors and seniors from twelve Baltimore area high schools recently participated in Academic Fair '81 at Coppin State College.

Sixty eight students, all of who had at least a B average in the designated disciplines, competed in events in mathematics, biology, chemistry, persuasive speaking, essay writing and creative writing.

Each student had to make either a written or oral presentation.

First place winners in the six categories were Toren Hollis, Patterson (Mathematics); Sheila Thorpe, Walbrook (Chemistry); Crystal Gardner, Edmondson (Biology); John Blake of Walbrook for his original narration "A Modern Fairy Tale" (Creative Writing); Marguerite Bellamy, Northwestern (Essay Writing); and David Padgett, Milford Mill (Persuasive Speaking).

Dr. Charles Allen, Coordinator of English Programs for the Baltimore City Public Schools and Dr. Delores Kelley, Dean of the Lower Division at Coppin, praised the students for their perseverance and high academic achievement.

William Wards celebrate 47th wedding anniversary

By Marjorie R. Green

In the midst of all the commemoration programs held last weekend to pay tribute to Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., anniversaries and birthdays were also being celebrated throughout the community.

William and Geneva Ward, both Federal employees with a combined total of 70 years employment celebrated 47 years of married bliss with dinner at Miller's restaurant located in the downtown Hilton Hotel.

Their special day was January 15, 1935.

Accompanied by Avon and Etta Davis, their friends for more than 30 years, they also included the show "One More Time" showing at the Morris Mechanic theater, in their celebration.

In response to a question about retirement plans, Mrs Ward stated "I haven't made any plans to retire because I am still active and I feel good. If I stayed home, I would miss the group" she added.

Although the wedding took place in Morningstar Baptist Church, the Ward family has since joined the St. James Episcopal Church on Arlington Avenue.

Mr. Ward is active in the Brotherhood of St. Andrews Guild at St. James and holds membership in the Zenus Club. Mrs. Ward spends her spare time playing bridge and pinochle.

The Wards are parents of two children, William A. Jr. and Michael. They also have four grandchildren.

Happy Birthday Gino

January 15 was the day to celebrate birthday number nine for our loveable grandson "Gino" Green. More Happy Birthday wishes are sent his way.

Lady for a Day

Mrs. Lucille Gibson, a 1980 retiree from the Social Security Administration was named "Lady For A Day" by radio station WEAA in early November, 1981.

The honor came as a result of her daughter Donna's winning letter to the station in which she talked about what her mother has meant to her and why she should be named "Lady For A Day."

The prizes for Lady Lucille included a bouquet of flowers, a year's subscription to Metropolitan Magazine, two tickets to the Ritz Club, and several other surprising gifts.

Lucille has been doing volunteer work selling Baltimore through the Mayor's office two days a week.

Her promotion and tourism booth is located at the Pennsylvania Railroad station. "There is nothing like retirement," says Lucille. She now has more time to devote to her husband Emile who retired from the U.S. Post Office after 39 years of service.
