If you ask me

By Bettye Moss

Hats Off!

Salute of the week to 18 - year - old Gail Lucas, a freshman at the University of Maryland, Baltimore County, (UMBC).

She is the young woman whose melodic soprano thrilled 1,000 guests at the seventh annual Martin Luther King Breakfast on Friday morning at the Convention Center.

What poise, what talent she displayed when she sang the Gladys Knight piece, "Memories," and, "Somewhere Over The Rainbow."

And to think all this came from a young woman who has just turned 18, stands 4 feet 10 inches tall, and weighs only 89 pounds!

More important, Miss Lucas was a last minute substitute. Originally, the Young Americans of Dulaney High School in Timonium were to appear.

Late Thursday, their director, William (Bill) Myers, called to say the snow would prevent them from coming.

He was able to persuade Miss Lucas to do the solos instead, and accompanied her on the piano. She was just beautiful!! The audience gave her standing ovations.

Began in church

Afterwards, we talked to Miss Lucas to find out if she had plans for a musical career.

Yes, she would like to sing professionally, and she loves to dance. Right now, she is majoring in business administration. She finished Dulaney High in June.

She began singing publicly under the direction of her mother, the late Thelma Johnson, who died two years ago. Her mom, sang on Mt. Ararat Baptist Church choir and worked at the telephone company.

Director Myers, himself noted as a musician, (he formerly appeared with Johnny Mathis), is Chairman of the Performing Arts Department at Dulaney High.

He organized the Young Americans group at the school, modeling it after a similar group he had observed on the West Coast. He said that Miss Lucas, began singing under his direction when she started high school.

He predicts she can go far if she keeps up her studies and works hard. Her pleasing personality should also stand her in good stead. Good luck to her!

Cuff notes: — Miss Lucas lives in Baltimore city with an older brother, Anthony Alphonos. She has an older sister, Patricia Lässiter, who lives in Columbia.

STANDING OVATION was given 18 - year - old Gail Lucas, substitute performer at Martin Luther King Memorial breakfast on Jan. 15. See, If You Ask Me for details.

To Fran too

The Martin Luther King breakfast, mentioned above, was sponsored by the Baltimore Area YMWCA, in cooperation with the King's Landing Women's Service Club (KLW) and the Jeffrey Fund.

Actually, the gut work is done by the members of KLW, a citizens' steering committee, which meets regularly, beginning in early September, and thus this event is sold out the minute tickets are printed.

It was so again this year. Those of us who have observed the hard work required can attest it takes many hours and much planning.

Key to the arrangements is the YMCA liaison person. He or she is the coordinator who has to bear all the hard knock and handle the gritty details.

That person this year was 29 - year - old Fran Hennigan — a YM bookkeeper who agreed to take on the task after the "regular" coordinator left and the YM staff was retrenched.

She and her assistant — H. Marie Robinson, 28, did a terrific job learning the ropes, getting to know the older people and carried the load for seven years.

Her good temper and her zeal to do things right, paid off. She deserves a great, big thanks from all who enjoyed this annual affair.

Remember this section of this column seeks to salute young people observed doing outstanding jobs.

Our theory is that too many of us older people fail to take time to commend them when they do well, but are quick to criticize them when they falter. Hats off!

Lion of Zion

The Rev. Dr. Leon Howard Sullivan became pastor of Zion Baptist Church in Philadelphia in 1950. It had 600 members. Today, it has 6,000 members.

The church is a beehive of activity - family counseling, credit union, day care, reading center. It operates an $8 million center for senior citizens, a multi - million $ community center; $2 million shopping center and million $ garden apartment complex, Zion Gardens.

Dr. Sullivan - often referred to as "The Lion of Zion, is also credited with organizing and implementing a $6 million housing and shopping center in Philly, an industrial park, and a number of other enterprises.

He is noted as a distinguished spiritual leader, humanitarian, businessman, counselor, and as the author of the Sullivan Code of Ethics for American Companies Operating in South Africa

Founded OIC

He is also known for organizing and chairing Opportunities Industrialization Center, (OIC). He founded it in an abandoned jailhouse in west Philly in 1964.

Today with a staff of 2,500 OIC Centers operating in 140 cities across the U.S. and in eight foreign countries, where disadvantaged of all ethnic groups are trained to develop marketable skills.

To date, over 600,000 have been trained some 75 percent have found gainful employment, earning over six billion annually. (Billion is right).

Because he has been a success at building business enterprises and making job opportunities available to thousands, Dr. Sullivan is much in demand as a headvisor and speaker.

Plus, he sits on a number of prestigious boards, including the General Motors Corp.

This past weekend, he spoke at the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, (Thursday evening, Jan. 14).

Next morning, (Jan. 15), he was at Convention Center at 7:30 a.m., to deliver the Martin Luther King Breakfast address.

Afterwards, he was guest of Mayor Schaefer and Bernard Mannekin of the Greater Baltimore Committee at City Hall. There, he met and lunched with 20 members of the corporate community.

The same afternoon, he was in Washington to address a group of housing and human resource executives.

Sullivanisms

There was enthusiastic applause and amens when Dr. Sullivan told the 1,000 - plus breakfast guests:

"We have been through this discrimination and segregation stuff before, and we are not just going to go back to it again . . . If we do 25 million black Americans will rise up and we will close America down.

". . . . some 25 million of us will have to go on a national, black sitdown strike - we are tired of going back to that stuff anymore . . .

He gave his audience three C's to follow. One stood for confidence which he said Martin Luther King had when they said victory could not be won when he staged a bus boycott. He urged having confidence in yourself and teaching it to young people.

The other C's he urged them to develop competence . . . "in the past we've developed our skills from the waist down, the best dancers and runners in the world.

"Now, we must develop our skills from the waist up . . . and become the greatest thinkers . . . organizers in the world."

Funny

There was unexplained laughter when he told how, as a director of General Motors Corp., he had an opportunity to see new developments and went on to predict that in 20 years automobiles will be cushioned with air, computers at control.

". . . If you want to go from Baltimore, to Chicago, you can set your car on an electronic beam on the turnpike and go to sleep, and when you laughter was because the audience was mostly middle - aged, and this prediction was not within their realm of belief?)

On power

Sullivan's third C stood for cooperation. He observed, we need cooperation among American people in productivity and industry . . .

He recounted how the Japanese have demonstrated such cooperation . . . they are one of the most productive in the world, the yen being worth more than a dollar, and unless Americans learn such cooperation, they could wipe us off the map.

He suggested that Martin Luther King emphasized cooperation in human relations, and then he added, —

"Dr. King believed in black power. I believe in it. I have 6 feet 5 inches of it, but we can't survive with black power alone . . . nor with white power alone.

"But America can survive if we have black power and white power and God's power and build American power . . ."

Rev. Payne

By any standards, the Rev. Dr. Arthur J. Payne was an unusual person. His death this week at the age of 87, removes from the Baltimore scene a remarkable warrior.

The death notices recall Rev. Payne was pastor of Enon Baptist Church for 53 years, and minister emeritus for the last six years.

He was that and more. He was friend and counselor to hundreds, an ardent fighter for right, one who dared to speak out in segregation days when it was not popular to do so. (And, how he inspired us when he led pickets seeking to integrate Gwynn Oak Park.

Our memory goes back to citizens' meetings in the office of AFRO publisher, the late Carl Murphy, when strategy was mapped to integrate public facilities, support a voter registration drive, plan a mammoth NAACP meeting, arrange a conference with the police commissioner to protest brutality or seek appointment of black officers.

In these and other endeavors, Rev. A. J. Payne could be counted on to be present, to speak up and voice the group's concerns in a firm and articulate manner.

He was that way in the pulpit. It was a joy to attend his Sunday services. He did not dwell entirely on rewards in Heaven. Rather, he talk about the need to make things better here on earth.

Many remember Rev. Payne for the role he played in sharing his talents with younger ministers - he trained them and gave them an opportunity to preach at Enon.

Going home

On Saturday morning, (Jan. 16), Rev. Payne was at the breakfast table with his wife, (Odelle Watkins Payne), the longtime Douglass teacher. He announced in a firm voice, "I'm going home."

When she suggested that he was already at his home, he persisted. Shortly afterwards, he collapsed. Efforts to revive him at the hospital were futile.

Rev. Payne died in action — he refused to stop living, despite his advanced age.

We last saw him at the monthly board meeting of the Advance Federal Savings and Loan Association. He was a senior vice president who opened the meetings with prayer.

As late as December, he drove himself from his Catonsville home to Advance's Cold Spring Lane office. His voice was firm and resolute, just as in the old days.

He was a true and great warrior . . . May he rest in peace.

Pa Lewis

Arthur Lazarus Lewis, 86, was eulogized on Tuesday morning at Douglas Memorial Church.

For nearly half a century, he was an employee of the AFRO - AMERICAN. When he retired in the seventies, he was a foreman in the mechanical department.

But, more importantly, he was the head of a family of three who worked at this newspaper for a total of 90 years. His two sons, the late Tazwell Lewis, was a photoengraver. A surviving son, William, is still employed in that department.

John Murphy Sr., who founded this newspaper 90 years ago, urged that family members and other family groups where qualified should be given an opportunity to work. The Lewises met that criterion.

Pa Lewis, as he was fondly called by older employees, was an unusual person. First of all, he was quiet - spoken, a gentleman on all occasions, and he cared about people.

Gentle Man

In his eulogy, Rev. Marion Bascom remembered him as, "a tender, caring man . . . a good, gentle and strong man."

Mr. Lewis had been a member of Douglas since 1930. He sang bass on the choir and served on the Steward Board.

Rev. Bascom noted that Mr. Lewis was a shepherd and keeper . . .

A part of me lies dead because some people touch your life and give tenderness. His death is signaling my own.

Observing that he was glad so many friends were present, he added, "death without friends is an impossible nightmare. He observed that Mr. Lewis suffered interminably, adding, "I am glad he has gone to rest because he was such a tender man. The worse devils ease out of this world, and a caring, tender man suffered interminably . . . "

Choir tribute

Choir members who sang during the services include Howard Wright, soloist; and John Semlty, Mildred Williams, Matthew Jones and Edna Owens, Juanita Davis was at the organ.

Stewards and other church officials who served as honorary pallbearers were: Julius Bishop, Ralph Hooper, Ellsworth Langhorne, Gary and Warren Nixon, Theodore Stephens.

Also, James T. Dorsey, Clarence Jones, Carolyn McCadden, rnice Peoples, Nettie Jones, Maur Bernice Peoples, Nettie Jones, Maurice Walston Paul Scott, steward and Ellsworth Wilson and Arthur James, also longtime AFRO employees.

Active pallbearers were Fleetwood Chatman, Alfonso Cottman, Joseph Felton, I. Henry Phillips, Freddie Howard and Jesse Fears, the latter three also long AFRO employees.

Died 86 years

Cuff note: Mr. Lewis' wife of 66 years - Cora Louise Chatman died eight months ago, in May 1981. At that time, Pop Lewis was too ill to attend her last rites. He was confined to a nursing home.

In their active years, both Mr. and Mrs. Lewis were ardent supporters of this newspaper and she was a frequent contributor to this column, advising on about people doing nice things for others.

She and Pa Lewis spent a lifetime doing nice things for others

Roderick H. Tarrer Jr. headed medical group

Roderick H. Tarrer Jr., 48, national president of Chi Delta Mu Medical Fraternity, who was active in Washington and nationally, died following a heart attack on Jan. 1.

Tarrer, a D.C. resident since the mid 1940's was born in Huntington, W. Va., on Nov. 23, 1913. He was one of the sons of Roderick and Ive Tarrer and received his primary and secondary education in the schools of West, Va.

Tarrer served his country during World War II in the United States Marine Corps after which he returned to enter the Howard University School of Pharmacy, graduating in 1952. For the next two decades Tarrer worked as a pharmacist opening a prescription shop in 1958 with a co - partner at Ninth and Streets, northwest in the Odd Fellows building.

In the years that followed he also opened a drug store at Georgia Avenue and Kenyon Street, northwest. He added his final prescription shop in the early 1960s when he opened University Pharmacy at Georgia Avenue and Quincy Sts., northwest.

A long time member of the Pigskin Club of Washington, Tarrer also belonged to the Bachelor Benedicts Social Club. He was a life time member of the Disabled American Veterans.

Tarrer was one of the first blacks to serve on the D.C. Board of Pharmacy.

In 1969, Tarrer received the A.H. Robbins "Bowl of Hygeia" award for his outstanding dedication and service to pharmacy and foreign countries. This award is given annually to one pharmacist per state. He was a member of many scientific and professional societies and associations; among these were the D.C. Pharmaceutical Association, the National Pharmaceutical, the Washington Pharmaceutical Association, member of the D.C. Board of Pharmacy. He was president of the National Chi Delta Mu Medical Fraternity. The D.C. Pharmaceutical Association voted him Pharmacist of the Year in 1968. In addition to his professional affiliations, he held membership in local civic and community organizations.

Tarrer is survived by his wife, Hortense, and his children, Rise Z. Tarrer, Louise Neal, Tom Downing, Roderick Tarrer, Thomas J. Tarrer, Sherman L. Ragland, sisters, Aneda France, Lorena Griffin, Helen Martin, brother, Johnnie B. Tarrer; thirteen grandchildren and a host of relatives and friends.

Clarke asks clergy to help the homeless

Ward 1 City Councilmember David Clarke has sent a letter to local religious leaders, asking that they use their influence to have churches open their doors to the homeless to prevent people from freezing to death.

Clarke also has introduced emergency legislation to prohibit evictions when the temperature forecast indicates that the temperature will not exceed twenty degrees farenheit.

In a Jan. 15 letter to five religious leaders in the Washington area, Clarke acknowledged the Jan. 13 airplane and Metro crashes and wrote, "For the most part, we do what we can to avoid the deaths of notable persons and to provide safety for persons using our transportation systems. But there are some people dying because little or nothing is being done for them.

"They are dying because there is no place for them to go when it is deathly cold. They are homeless. Forty-nine people have died from exposure in the District of Columbia since 1976."

Clarke further wrote, "Whatever the government can or, because of limitations, cannot do, there is a crying human need which our churches can help address."

The letters were sent to the archbishop of the Catholic Archdiocese (James Hickey), the bishop of the Episcopal Diocese (John Walker), the bishop of the African Methodist Episcopal Second District (John Adams), the president of the Baptist Ministers Conference (Carey Pointer) and the executive directors of the Council of Churches (Ernest Gibson) and the Committee of 100 Ministers (Andrew Fowler)

Rev. David Eaton

Rev. David Eaton, senior minister of All Souls Unitarian Church and Hyman Bookbinder, area representative of the American Jewish Committee, will appear on WRC-TV's "First Light," Sunday, Jan. 24 at 7:30 a.m.

"First Light," hosted by Bernie McCain, will be devoting one hour to the topic of Black-Jewish relations and problems which have risen during recent years.

The purpose of the show is to understand the differences and values of blacks and Jews as well as the commonness of each group's objectives.

Eaton and Bookbinder will discuss the effects that the new administration's cutbacks have had on civic, social, fraternal and religious institutions and the resulting political and ethical responsibilities now facing individuals within the community. Questions will include the controversy over defense spending vs. domestic spending and the international attention and conflicts within the Middle East.

Simon Douglas was local realtor

Simon A. Douglas, 81, the owner and operator of the Simon Douglas Realty Co., and board member of the Industrial Bank of Washington died January 14 of a heart ailment at Howard University Hospital. He lived in Washington.

Douglas was born in Eolia, MO. He moved to Washington in the 1920's. He was a 1928 graduate of Howard University and earned a master's degree in business administration at New York University.

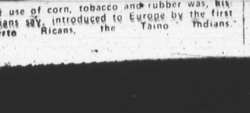
During the mid-1930's, he was a business teacher at Cardozo High School. From the late 1930's until 1964, he was a job placement counselor with the D.C. Schools.

From 1944 until 1959, Douglas worked as a real estate salesman with the John R. Pinkett realty Co. In 1959, he and a partner established the Douglas and Shamwell Realty Co. He opened his present firm in 1965.

He belonged to the Washington Board of Realtors and the Prince George's County Board of Realtors.

Douglas founded and edited the old upper Northeast News. He was a past treasurer of the D.C Federation of Civic Associations and a board member of the YMCA. He also belonged to the Michigan Park Christian Church and the Woodridge Civic Association in Washington.

Survivors include his wife, Vivian Collier Douglas of Washington; two sisters, Evelyn Parsons of New Hartford, Mo. and Alla Mae Caldwell of Chicago and two brothers, Bragg Douglas of Denver and Robert Douglas of Eolia.



The use of corn, tobacco and rubber was, historians say, introduced to Europe by the first Puerto Ricans, the Taino Indians.

Albright's day care marks 20th year

Albright Memorial United Methodist Church Day Care Center recently had its 20th Anniversary Kick Off. This event begins the celebration of a year of activities which spotlight 20 years of service to the Washington community.

The Center, located at 4th & Rittenhouse Sts., N.W., was opened in 1962 under the leadership of Rev. and Mrs. Wendrow Bartges, and has continued to be a meaningful program for the community.

The schedule of anniversary activities include: open house, fashion and talent show, parents luncheon where children will prepare the entire meal, graduation and spring program, kiddie olympics and anniversary banquet.

Rev. Horace L. Wallace is the pastor of Albright United Methodist Church, Elaine is chairman of the Day Care Committee, Majorie A. Kinard, directress, and Serafine Pink is the co-director.
