If you ask me

praised Dr. Sullivan.

In his keynote address, Sullivan hailed the work of Mayor Schaefer, bringing appropriate applause from the audience.

Sullivan, then looked in the direction of Governor Hughes and said, "I don't know your governor that well, but . . ."

There was laughter. Afterwards, Gov. Hughes and Dr. Sullivan shook hands and made a date.

This smile item was garbled last week. This is what we wrote: There was unexplained laughter when Sullivan told how, as a director of General Motors Corp., he had an opportunity to see new developments and went on to predict that in 20 years automobiles will be cushioned with air, computers at the controls.

"If you want to go from Baltimore to Chicago, you set your car on an electronic beam, go to sleep on the turnpike. When you get to Chicago, it will ring a bell and shake your seat and turn you over, he said.

Cuff note: Maybe the laughter was because the audience was mostly middle-age and this prediction was not within their realm of thinking.

Mrs. Alice Dameron

Howard pediatrician named to national office

Melvin E. Jenkins, M.D., chairman of the Department of Pediatrics and Child Health, Howard University College of Medicine, recently became a member of the executive council of the Association of Medical School Pediatric Chairmen.

The association is made up of chairmen of departments of pediatrics in medical schools in the United States and Canada. Dr. Jenkins will serve a three-year term.

Dr. Jenkins received undergraduate and medical degrees from the University of Kansas. After serving an internship and pediatric residency in Freedmen's Hospital in the District of Columbia, he completed a fellowship in pediatric endocrinology from Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

He was appointed to the staff of Howard University College of Medicine but later joined the Department of Pediatrics of the University of Nebraska as professor and assistant chairman.

Serving In Germany

Spec. 4 Leroy D. Mitchell, whose wife, Sharon, is the granddaughter of Lovely McKay of 905 Quakenbos St., N.W. Washington, has arrived for duty in Frankfurt, West Germany.

Mitchell was previously assigned at Fort Sill, Okla.

Mrs. Alice Dameron given 'Unsung Virginian' award

Alice Haynie Dameron of Heathsville, became the 15th recipient of the Unsung Virginian Award at the Winter board meeting of the VA, MD, and DE Association of Electric Cooperatives which sponsors the award.

Mrs. Dameron, who spent her 42 - year - career as a public school teacher, was cited for her concerns for her fellow men. Her actions, above and beyond the call of her job, range from Christian leadership to service in a host of civic organizations.

Over the years, she has served as both president and vice-president of the teachers association of her county. She was also a charter member of the Northumberland Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAAC).

As a member of the NAACP, she volunteered her services for a test case for equal facilities and opportunities. She also gave of her time to attend various meetings as she sought to improve the lot of her race.

Mrs. Dameron has also been active in the affairs of the Northumberland Retired Senior Volunteer Services and the County and state Red Cross.

She also has an active record of church service that extends over sixty years. She was the first editor of her church paper, Shiloh Speaks. She served as an usher in the Shiloh Baptist Church, as the first female supervisor, as the church treasurer, as the secretary - treasurer of the church construction program and as a member of the Missionary Society. She presently serves as the chairman of the Shiloh Baptist Church Finance Committee.

However, the unofficial humanitarian efforts of Mrs. Dameron go beyond her official capacities in the hearts of those who know her.

She has made her home an open door to those in need. She maked daily calls on the sick and shut - ins, and she visits homes and hospitals to assist the aged in filling out and filing legal forms which must be notarized.

Beyond this, she donated a station wagon to her church for the purpose of transporting pre - schoolers to attend pre - school educational classes.

And finally, Mrs. Dameron has made loans and donations of both-money and equipment where it has been needed to help students further their education.

The Creed of the Unsung Virginian is that this award is to honor some dedicated Virginian who has rendered services to the Commonwealth without thought of personal gain.

Psychologist joins Center for Sickle Cell

Dr. Anita C. Washington, clinical psychologist, recently joined the staff of the Howard University Center for Sickle Cell Disease.

She has been a clinical assistant professor in the department of pediatrics and child health since 1976 and has also been admitted to the medical-dental staff of Howard University Hospital.

Dr. Washington previously served as clinical psychologist to the District of Colu bia General Hospital.

A native of California, Dr. Washington received her M.A. and Ph.D degrees in clinical psychology from Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio. She has had wide experience in university, mental health, and hospital settings, including the Fisk-Meharry Medical College program in Nashville, Tennessee.

Dr. Washington was formerly the principal investigator and co-director of the Teen Parents Project, which was sponsored jointly by the Child Development Center, the Institute for Child Development and Family Life, and the Department of Pediatrics and Child Health, Howard University.

Dr. Washington lives in the District of Columbia.

St. Emma-St. Francis Reunion

The Alumni Association of the former St. Emma Military Academy and St. Francis De Sales High School for girls, both located in Powhatan, Virginia, will hold its 1982 annual reunion in Richmond, Virginia.

The reunion, hosted by the Richmond Chapter, will be July 16 through 19th, at the Richmond Hyatt House. Former students who attended either school are strongly encouraged to submit Names addresses and year(s) of attendance for additional information.

Interested persons may contact Ali Nkrumah, 5310 Fernpark Avenue, Baltimore, Maryland for more information or call 3001 - 468 -2414.

St. Emma Military Academy and St. Francis De Sales High School were founded during the mid 1890s to provide an education for blacks and Indians nationwide.

Black Catholics host "program of prayer"

"Jesus Made Us Free" is the theme of a unique, five-day program of prayer and celebration organized by and for the Black Catholic community of the archdiocese of Washington.

The 1982 Black Catholic Revival will be held on five consecutive evenings, beginning Sunday, Feb. 28 at 7:30 p.m., and continuing through Thursday, Mar. 4, at St. Matthew's Cathedral in northwest. Each evening's service will be patterned after a typical "revival"-type format, including prayer, music and readings from Scripture. On Thursday, evening, Mar. 4, the Revival will conclude with a Mass to be celebrated by the Most Rev. James A. Hickey, archbishop of Washington.

The guest speaker for the Revival will be Rev. Giles A. Conwill, former director of vocations for the National Office for Black Catholics in Washington, and presently a doctoral candidate in cultural studies at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga.

Father Conwill's five talks will take participants on a "Trek to Jerusalem," focusing on the Revival's themes of reconciliation and evangelization.

Music for the Revival will be held by a combined gospel choir and a traditional choir, made up of members of various parish choirs throughout the Archdiocese of Washington. The choirs and music are being coordinated and directed by Leon Ronerts, director of music at Ss. Paul and Augustine Church.

Also part of the Revival program will be a series of workshops and seminars to be held later in March, to be presented by the Evangelization Department of the National Office for Black Catholics.

Participants will be asked to make a commitment to evangelization— that is, to be actively involved in church ministry in their parish communities. Those who volunteer to make such a commitment on the last night of the Revival will be invited to participate in these workshops.

The Most Rev. Eugene A. Marino, auxiliary bishop of Washington, is chairman of the Black Catholic Revival Committee. Bishop Marino explained that efforts are underway to involve as many persons as possible in the preparation as well as for the Revival itself.

"The whole idea of this Revival is for the Black community to come together to celebrate their shared faith with the music and spirit that is uniquely part of the Black experience," Bishop Marino explained. "So, Black participation in all phases of the organization of this five-day Revival is vital to its success. For the past several months we've been putting together a network of people in the local parishes to get as many people involved as possible — in every phase from liturgy and music to organizing bus transportation for participants from distant parishes."

The Black Catholic Revival '82 is being cosponsored by the Archdiocesan Office of Black Catholics and the Council of Black Catholics, and the Evangelization Department of the National Office for Black Catholics.

For further information concerning the Revival Program, please call 265-4735.

Petersburg church marks 90th year

PETERSBURG — The 90th anniversary of the church and the second of the new pastor, Rev. Harry L. McCall, was observed recently by officers and members of Bethany Baptist Church on Wythe St., with a host of church members on hand to assist in conducting the program and serving as worship leaders.

The theme for the 90th anniversary celebration was "A Church with a Mission — A Pastor with a Message."

The "In Memoriam" portion of the program included a moment of silent prayer in memory of deceased members and the late pastor, Rev. W. Lloyd James, who served the church for a 30-year period until his death.

The words of welcome were given by Mrs. Joyce Massenburg and (the history of the church was delivered by Mrs. Carrie S. Myrick, church clerk);

Remarks were made by Deacon Uriah Pernell, chairman of the board of deacons and remarks and greetings given by Pastor McCall.

Other participants on programs included singing by combined choirs, greetings and remarks by members of the deacon board and the hospitality committees, and Pastor McCall.

Bethany Baptist Church had its beginning in the spring of 1891 when 10 men met for church service in the home of Peter Greene. Ten years later, Bethany Baptist, a frame building, was built on its present site.

D.M. Thomas reading at Writer's Center

The Writer's Center of Glen Echo, Md. will celebrate its fifth birthday Jan. 31 with a reading by D.M. Thomas, author of the best seller "The White Hotel."

Thomas is also the author of two other novels, "The Flute Player" and "Two Voices" as well as three books of poetry, "Logan Stone," "Love and Other Deaths," and "Honeymoon Voyage." In addition he has translated two books by Russian poet Anna Akhamatova into English. A birthday party - reception will follow the 2 p.m. reading.

Over the past five years the Writer's Center has grown from 50 members to over 1200 members, from giving three workshops to 34 in writing and graphic design.

Over the past five years such local writers as Stephen Goodwin, Davey Marlin Jones, Ann Darr, Allan Lefcowitz, Patricia Griffith, Joyce Konrblatt, Joseph McLellan, David McAleavey, and Edward Welles have led workshops in poetry, fiction, playwriting, and non-fiction prose at the Center. Workshops for the winter 1982 term begin Feb. 1.

In addition to the reading by D.M. Thomas, the winter series will include Peter Meinke, Susan Astor, open readings, publication readings by area small presses, and a staged reading of "Alvin Was A Mean Old Man" by local playwright Nancy Mitchell Nilsson.

Women seeking secure future through education

Continuing education for women is virtually becoming one of the most important programs of the eighties.

"Trinity College, the nation's oldest Catholic liberal arts college for women, reports that courses ranging from traditional English to innovative computer science and programming, culminating with the bachelor of arts degree, are on the agenda of working wives, professional women, mothers of young children and women in their fifties.

"According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, says Dr. Karen Kershenstein, academic dean at Trinity College, more than 50 per cent of all mothers of school-age children are working either full or part-time. More women are realizing that a college degree is the road to advancement.

"And, we've found that many women who interrupted their education because of a marriage, children or a job can return to college and pick up where they left off.

"Generally, their desire to achieve is greater than it was in their teens, and many faculty members have commented that most continuing education students at Trinity offer different perspectives and give an extra dimension to classroom discussion because of their experiences outside of the classroom."
