CITY OF BALTIMORE
CONSULTANTS EVALUATION BOARD
PUBLIC NOTICE

The Baltimore City Consultants Evaluation Board has been requested by the Interstate Division for Baltimore City to certify the qualifications of firms to perform professional engineering services for the following project:

PROJECT NO. 357 Preliminary Engineering, Urban Design, Landscape Architecture, Hydrological Studies and Environmental Studies for a proposed 2.5 mile Interstate Connector between I - 95 and I - 170 in the Lower Gwynns Falls Valley.

Professional engineering services will be required in four areas of expertise provided by one firm or a joint venture. One consultant agreement will cover all four areas.

Civil Engineering — Demonstrated expertise on major interstate highway projects will be required.

Urban Design - Landscape Architecture — Demonstrated expertise in siting major highway projects in difficult terrain will be required.

Hydrological Studies — Demonstrated expertise in preparing hydrological studies will be required.

Environmental Analysis — Demonstrated expertise in preparing Environmental Impact Statements for major interstate highway projects will be required.

It is the goal of Baltimore City that for each consultant agreement, 10 percent of the work will be performed by a female owned consultant or sub consultant firm. For information regarding these requirements, please contact Mr. Robert D. Douglass, Interstate Division for Baltimore City, 225 North Charles Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21218, (301) 396 - 7299.

Baltimore City hereby certifies that it will affirmatively insure that in the evaluation of application questionnaires, any contracts ultimately entered into pursuant to this advertisement, minority business will not be discriminated against on the grounds of race, color, or national origin.

Copies of the draft scopes of work for the project can be obtained from Mr. Donald P. Kushner, Consultants Evaluation Board (301) 396 - 3350.

Firms desiring to be considered for such professional services should address a brief "letter of interest" to:

Executive Secretary
Consultants Evaluation Board
300 Municipal Building
Baltimore, Maryland 21202
(301) 396 - 3350

Upon receipt of this "letter of interest" each respondent will be sent an application questionnaire to be completed and submitted along with seven copies for consideration. The completed applications and questionnaires will be accepted by the Consultants Evaluation Board until until the close of business on March 26, 1982.

It should be noted that the completed questionnaire must include all subconsultants and or consultants who will work on the project. These firms must be prequalified to work in Baltimore City. In addition, the proposed MBE and WBE firms must be certified by the Maryland Department of Transportation prior to award of the agreement to the successful consultant.

The 1950s... really not that great!

Tuesday, March 2, 1981 will probably go down in Baltimore history as the day we were all overdosed in nostalgia about the 1950s.

Was this the date that MGM-United Artists held the world premiere of "The Diner" at the Senator Theatre. This Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer flick produced by Jerry Weintraub (he's produced 50 fabulous concerts for Frank Sinatra) was written and directed by Baltimorean Barry Levinson. Between March and April, 1981, "The Diner" was filmed in Baltimore.

According to "The Diner" press book, Barry Levinson is remembering what life was like in 1959 when everybody ate French fries and gravy... gasoline was thirty cents a gallon and fun was hanging out, bragging and planning schemes for becoming famous.

Especially featured are five friends who hung-out at the Hilltop Inn (now Brice's) the last week in December, 1959 looking forward to the world championship game Sunday, Dec. 27 between the New York Giants and the Baltimore Colts.

This all took place 23 years ago and most AFRO staffers were not even a gleam in their mother's eye. And like most of the majority of movie goers had not been born.

What this pix reflects is when Baltimore was a segregated city and blacks attended either Douglass High or Dunbar High. Most blacks were just beginning to move near Mondawmin.

The World War II baby boom was about to hit the city school system and the flight of whites to the suburbs was just starting. December, 1959 was the beginning of sit-ins and marches to integrate lunch room counters. By Feb., 1960, two months later, college students in Greensboro, N.C. started the sit-ins at Woolworths which by Sept. 1961, more than 70,000 black and white students would participate in sit-ins.

So what was so great about 1959 in Baltimore?

This past Tuesday had a chance to talk with Barry Levinson in his suite at the Hyatt-Regency.

AFRO: When the movie was shooting here in Baltimore in March, 1981 the AFRO spent half a day on location at VFW Hall in Govans where the Softones were filming. Are the Softones still in the pic?

Levinson: No, a good portion of that sequence had to be cut.

AFRO: Did you guys feel threatened because of the integration of the schools, block busting?

Levinson: No, at that stage in our lives there were only about a dozen blacks at our school (Forest Park) and you don't think about those things. You don't have an awareness. (Rod Armstrong who manages the Softones was a classmate of Levinson's).

AFRO: How long did it take to make "The Diner" and how much did you spend in Baltimore?

Levinson: We filmed over 40 days and spent about two and half million in hotels, rental cars, food and drinks.

Levinson began writing the script for "The Diner" about mid-1980 at the suggestion of film-maker Mel Brooks with whom he had worked as a writer on two-films "High Anxiety" and "Silent Movie".

Levinson has won three Emmy Awards for his work with the "Carol Burnett" television show. Also, he teamed with Valerie Curtin to write "And Justice for All" which was also filmed in Baltimore and used quite a few local actors and actresses. Aired recently on local TV many Baltimoreans will have to take note, that while they got paid, their work ended up on the cutting room floor.

Out of curiosity, asked Levinson did he base his characters on local judges and lawyers. He laughed and said that not all of the characters were made up. He did know one judge who got caught for making obscene phone calls... the characters were not "strictly truth".

It's no wonder the City of Baltimore rolled out the red carpet for Barry Levinson. Invitations were delivered in a real replica of The Hilltop Diner menu. Inside, prices for home-made pie was 20 cents; Crab Cakes, $1.75 and Spaghetti Dinner with Meatballs, $1.

Inside, Today's Special from Mayor William Donald Schaefer, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Durkee Enterprises was the invitation to the world-premiere of "The Diner" at the Senator Theatre. Tickets at $15 were to benefit the fund to save lives from smoke and fire.

The festivities started at 6 p.m. at Phillips Harborplace where guests included 120 film production and public relations staff from all over the U.S. including Canada, Hawaii and St. Thomas, Virgin Islands.

In this group were the producers, stars of the film, Barry Levinson and members of the Maryland Office of Motion Picture and Television Development Council.

If you listened to radio and TV Tuesday night you heard about the antique trucks and cars and the pitch by the Fire Fund to buy smoke detectors for needy families.

Trivia: Barry Levinson lived at 4211 Springdale Ave. from 1948-1963. He attended Liberty School 64; Garrison Junior High and Forest Park High School.

It'll be "nothing but a houseparty" this weekend, as Houston Person and Etta Jones head a group to be featured at the regular Sunday afternoon concert of the Left Bank Jazz Society.

By now, one doesn't have to explain what Houston and Etta are all about to regular night sceners, but we can tell you that on organ will be Jon Logan, with Billy James on drums.

...NIGHT SCENE SEEN

Heard a few carping complaints about the condition of Etta's voice on her last few outings in town. She seemed to be suffering from some sort of hoarseness, but hopefully, things will be ironed out, and we look forward to this set.

For planning purposes, here is the lineup of artists scheduled thus far for Left Bank:

March 14 — Sonny Stitt Quartet

March 21 — Dizzy Gillespie Quartet

March 28 — The Original Hoofers, a tribute to Baby Laurence

April 4 — Freddie Hubbard Quartet

April 11— Arnett Cobb Quartet

April 18—Mongo Santamaria or The Heath Brothers

April 25— Pieces of a Dream

May 2 — Horace Silver Quintet

The Closet is continuing its live jazz policy with Dave Hubbard the featured artist this weekend. He'll be there through Sunday night, along with Billy Murphy, drums, and Larry Lingling, bass.

Vocalist Ernestine Anderson is holding down the lead spot at the King of France Tavern of the Maryland Inn in Annapolis through Sunday night.

She'll be backed up by Dave Talomar, drums; Steph Scaggiari, piano, and Dave Wundro, bass. Annapolis seems to be having a hard time of it, what with the weather cranking up to shower precip on us all, but the place still swings.

One of the newest clubs in town, Hats, is moving up. They have now started to bring in live entertainment on weekends, and tonight, Friday, will present a local group called Blue Horizon.

Got a call from Bob Haynes of the Sportsmen's Lounge, who smilingly told me that he will be presenting pianist Albert Dailey for the next couple of weekends at the club.

Albert is scheduled to be at the club Fri and Sat. night, and also to hold a music workshop during the jazz jam Saturday afternoon. Andy Ennis and Bobby Ward will be on hand for the session.

Over in D.C., the Charlin Jazz Society is presenting a program called "The Blues," featuring the return of Bullmoose Jackson. His real name is Benjamin Joseph Jackson, Jr., in case you were interested.

Also wailing out the blues will be Nap Turner, along with Marc Cohen, piano; Tommy Cecil, bass, and Hugh Walker, drums.

The Mighty Invaders, the Baltimore-based reggae band is appearing at the Oddfellows Hall in Towson tonight (Fri.) and will be at UMBC tomorrow night from 10 p.m. until 2 a.m.
