Provident Hospital receives Greenstein Award

DR. REBECCA E. CARROLL, (l), Health and Welfare Council board member, presents Harry Greenstein Organization Achievement Award to Dr. B. Wayne King, director, Provident Hospital's High Blood Pressure Program.

The 1982 Harry Greenstein Organization Achievement Award was presented to Provident Hospital's Church High Blood Pressure Program by the Health and Welfare Council of Central Maryland.

In making the presentation, Dr. Rebecca E. Carroll, Award Committee Chairperson, cited the program for "marshaling volunteers to meet a widespread health need primarily among the black community in Baltimore and demonstrating techniques that have also been applied in other cities."

According to Dr. B. Wayne Kong, director of Provident Hospital's High Blood Pressure Program, in accepting the $450 award and certificate of recognition; "When we started out in 1978, organizing a single church in East Baltimore as a blood pressure screening center, we certainly couldn't anticipate the tremendous growth that this project has experienced."

He added: "Now, over 500 church volunteers trained as American Heart Association health providers furnish free, reliable high blood pressure control services each year to approximately 10,000 individuals in 100 church centers in Baltimore City and 14 counties throughout Maryland."

The award was established by the late Harry Greenstein, of Associated Jewish Charities and one of the founders of the Health and Welfare Council as well as its first president.

It is presented each year to a voluntary or governmental organization in central Maryland (Baltimore City and Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Carroll, Harford, and Howard Counties) for a specific program of outstanding service to the community.

COLUMBIA CAPERS

Eastern High School celebrates National Women's Week

Last week culminated seven days of the National Women's Week celebration held at one of the oldest and largest schools in the City of Baltimore, Eastern High School, located at 1101 E. 33rd Street.

Dr. Vera Wilson of Columbia Md., the fantastic principal of Eastern High School outdid herself on planning such a needed celebration this time.

She chose for her women's week theme, "Women, Past, Present and Future — A Key to Our Survival."

The activities included exhibits, demonstrations, films, live talks, and concerts highlighting the theme.

As I walked down the corridor of the aged school, I could not help thinking of the past days of my high school training at Bethel High School in one of our southern states — North Carolina

The Southern Hospitality participants received extended by the lovely young ladies as they greeted us surely was "Southern Style," warm and friendly.

My memories could not escape me especially when I entered the room and saw the same type of seats that were used in schools years ago in the South I really enjoyed reliving those precious memories.

The week's activities opened in the auditorium with an assembly program featuring the beautiful Miss Kimberely Kelly in a musical concert, an honor student at Howard University.

Films Review included women of the past, their accomplishments, and women of courage were shown in the Library.

The following day, March 23, Dr Samuel Banks spoke on women — "The Key to Our Survival" followed by small group seminar.

Guests included Carolyn Brisco and Mrs Bronwyn Smalls, in medium "Contemporary Women in Arts; Ms. Debbie Taylor, designer from Washington, D.C. daughter of Dr. Wilson, showed designs, "Contemporary Women in Fashions;" Contemporary Women in Literature."

March 24 brought another group of distinguished ladies to Eastern. They were: Mrs. Yvonda Brooks, CPA, who spoke on "Contemporary Women in Business," Attorney Georgie Goslee, "Women in Law;" Mrs. Marguerite Cornhill, "Women in Government;" Miss DeVera Redmond, "Women in Private Industry."

March 25 and 26 climaxed the seminars, with "Women in Multi - Careers," by Pinnie L. Ross and Dr. Mary Thornton; "Contemporary Women in Volunteer Services" by Celonia Walden and daughter, Celonia Walden II who presented and read poems from her collection — "Women in Rhyme."

"Women in Sororities and Professional Affiliations" concluded the well organized women's week celebration.

In the center of the long corridor was a Constitution Hall Display of Famous Blacks.

Dr. Wilson took her guests in the small library where refreshments were set up and Register Book was placed on a small table for signatures of each participant and she gave each one a small gift and thanked them for participating in the week's celebrations.

Eastern High School is a public school aspiring Toward Excellence.

Provident nurses honored

A recent reception recognizing Baltimore nursing professionals by the Board of Trustees of Provident Hospital, Inc. was the first formal recognition of the nursing profession by the Trustees in the hospital's 95 years old history.

Catherine Burton, Vice President of the School of Nursing of Provident, described the event as long overdue and expressed the appreciation of the more than 100 nurses presently assigned to Provident.

Dr. Lorretta Richardson, Dean of the Helen Fuld School of Nursing, Coppin State Teachers College, spoke briefly of the many nurses at major hospitals throughout the country who received their training at Provident.

Dr. Richardson said Coppin presently trains nurses, who received their clinical training at Provident.

Judge William Murphy, Sr., Chairman of the Board of Trustees, introduced the Trustees present: Mrs. Naomi Lawson, Mrs. June Caldwell, Mr. Forrest Higginbotham, Mr. John H. Murphy, III and Judge Robert Bell.

Judge Murphy also announced Dr. Oakley Saunders will serve as acting Chief Executive Officer of the hospital for an interim period.

The nurses and guest enjoyed the excellent buffet and meeting old friends, Nellie Powell, Hazel Baily and Ada Haley who were nurses

Penda's Dinner Party

On the beautiful Sunday afternoon of March 21st the Penda Dancers held their dinner party.

The party was held at the home of the dance coordinator Mrs. Nan Jones.
