Cleavon Little

Cleavon Little guest on 'One of the Boys'

Appearances by guest stars Cleavon Little and Barney Martin — as a pair of "Heavies" — and entertainment by series star Mickey Rooney and co-stars Scatman Crothers, Dana Carvey and Nathan Lane highlight the concluding half of "Don't Bank on It" on NBC-TV's "One of the Boys" Saturday, April 17. Francine Beers, who plays landlady Mrs. Greene, is the other series co-star.

Stopping at the bank to make a small withdrawal while en route to a show they have arranged for some senior citizens, Oliver and Bernard are deluged by thousands of dollars that the automatic cash dispenser inexplicably coughs up. Oliver, Bernard, Adam, Jonathan and Mrs. Green are in a tizzy over what should be done with the money.

Hate-filled teenager poses problem

John Michael Murphy (series star Merlin Olsen) reluctantly accepts custody of a hate-fulled teen-ager, Lijah (Mykel T. Williamson), who humiliates Moses Gage (Moses Gunn) and breaks his spirit, in "Establish Thou the Work of Our Hands," on NBC-TV's "Father Murphy" Sunday, April 18. The series is designed primarily for children.

While trying to nurse Gage back to normal, Murphy sets out to teach Lijah a useful trade — with tragic results.

Survival 'Evening With' huge success

By Gertrude Steele

Project Survival played before a capacity crowd at it's fourth annual "Evening With" held at Martin's West Wednesday evening.

This year's honoree was Jim Parker, former offensive lineman for the Baltimore Colts, and a special tribute was paid Allen "Dickie" Burke, founder of "Operation Champ," a widely recognized neighborhood youth program.

City Council President Walter Orlinsky presented checks for $10,000 to the Sam Lacy Scholarship Fund and $15,000 to Project Survival.

Bill Fogle standing for Mayor William Donald Schaefer presented the two men citations and pewter plates.

Other citations were presented by Senator Robert L. Douglass, representing Gov. Harry Hughes and Sen. Clarence Blount of the 41st District, who brought greetings from the Urban Services Commission and a plaque from the Maryland Senate.

Also, Mike Bush for Robert Pascal, Anne Arundel County executive.

Margaret Murphy, state delegate read House resolutions as did Walter Dean also a state delegate and member of the Belvedere Institute.

American flags were given by U.S. Senator Charles McMathias, presented by Elsie Simmons and Sen. Paul Sarbanes presented the honorees with pen sets along with Congressional Record statements.

Silver cups, a gift from the Chosen Few were presented by Robert E. Lee, the president. Lenwood Ivey, executive director of the Urban Services Agency gave the honorees silver. Project Survival and the Concerned Citizens continue the trend of silver cups mounted on trophies.

Victor Julien and other members of Anheuser Busch, Inc. received the usual oohs and ahs when they presented sets of inscribed Clydesdale horses and $1,000 each in the name of each honoree to Project Survival.

Contributors of these funds asked to remain anonymous.

Another monetary contribution was made to Project Survival in the honorees' names by Jerry Pollino of Allegheny Pepsi.

Harlow Fulwood Jr., agent, Baltimore Police Department and consultant for McDonald's Cooperative, presented Mrs. Wahseola Cain a check for $3,600 from McDonald's to support the Sugar Cain Basketball Clinic.

Cong. Parren J. Mitchell invited the honorees to be his guest for lunch when he will present them awards on the steps of the congressional building.

Harvey Kaseff, president of International Distributors and Colonel Bishop Robinson, deputy commissioner, Baltimore Police Department, introduced the honorees.

Parker and Burke received plaques from John H. Murphy, III, chairman of the board of the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers; Lee Douglass, president of the Eastern District Community Relations Council and Stanley Tucker of the Golden Bears Association.

Sports figures Vince Bagli and John Steadman kept the audience entertained with anecdotes involving both honorees. Steadman described them as All-American athletes and All-American citizens.

The surprise of the evening came when Vernon Wolst, director of Project Survival presented members of the Concerned Citizens Committee with huge plaques mounted with a clock and silver cup trophy.

Recipients were Gertrude M. Steele, chairman of the hostess committe for three years and wife of Alvin Steele, with whom the idea of "Evening With" originated; Wahseola Cain, wife of former honoree, William "Sugar" Cain and chairperson for the souvenir program committee and William "Bobby" Fowler, a former member of Colt 84 and co-chairman of the souvenir booklet committee.

Sam Lacy, first "Evening With" honoree and for whom the scholarship award is named introduced the scholarship recipients.

Mark Wilson of Calvert Hall, who has received a full scholarship to the University of Minnesota; David Wingate of Dunbar and Rose Willis of Walbrook were the recipients. Ms. Willis and Mr. Wingate received $1,000 scholarships.

Additional presentations were made by Clarence "Du" Burns, representing the East Baltimore Community Corporation and the City Council; Ernest Murphy of the Merotocrats, Inc. and "Deacon" Jones of the National Football League who traveled 3,000 miles to present Jim Parker a plaque.

Also from out of town was the Rev. Dr. C. Dexter Wise, III, a former member of "Operation Champ." He is the minister of Shiloh Baptist Church of Columbus, Ohio. He gave the invocation and benediction.

Earl C. Banks chairman of the Concerned Citizens Committee, was the master of ceremonies. Other chairpersons were Suzan Harrison, publicity; John H. Murphy, vice chairman; John Unitas, honorary chairman; James A. Gordon, scholarship, and Wahseiola Cain, souvenir booklet.

'Eraser' and 'Dr J' cage camp

The Golden Bears Association, Inc. will host the Julius "Dr. J" Erving and Marvin "The Human Eraser" Webster 1982 Summer Basketball Camp on the campus of Morgan State University, July 25-30 and August 1-6.

During the first session Dr. J will serve as director and Webster will appear at one day of Erving's camp, and the following week Webster will direct with a one day visit from Erving. Both, Erving and Webster will personally instruct each and every day during their week.

Camp facilities include: Outdoor and Indoor basketball courts; Large indoor swimming pool; Spacious modern dining hall and kitchen; along with comfortable rooms (two campers per room). Complete accident (medical and liability) insurance included in registration fee.

Registration fee will be $190 for boarding students and $125 for day-campers.

Orioles set tryout camp

The annual Baltimore Orioles Tryout Camp will be conducted in the Washington Metropolitan area on Sunday, June 27. The camp is being co-sponsored by the D.C. Department of Recreation and the Baltimore Orioles.

Players ages 16 to 22 will begin tryouts at 9 a.m. at the Banneker Recreation Stadium, 800 Euclid St., NW.

High school players are welcome to tryout. Those presently playing in the Junior American Legion baseball program will be required to bring written permission from their coaches or post sucommanders.

The camp will be directed by territorial scouting supervisor, Jim Gilbert, and his staff. Participants are asked to bring their own personal equipment. No expenses will be paid to anyone attending unless the player is signed to a contract by the Orioles following the tryouts.

For additional information concerning the tryouts call 673-7611.

BANNERED IN BOSTON — Jo Jo White, a key man on two NBA championship (1976-76) teams, last weekend became the 12th member of the Boston Celtics to have his number (10) retired and raised on a special banner to the Boston Garden rafters.

Cage bill set at Carver Sun:

A basketball double-header featuring some of the area's popular sports and entertainment figures, will be played Sunday at Carver High School.

The first of the two games will begin at 5 p.m. The nightcap will follow, presumably at 7 o'clock.

In the opener, the Columbia (MD) Old Timers will oppose a Sportsmen's Lounge All-Star team.

Skip Campbell's All-Stars will meet a Baltimore Colts five in the second contest.

Ford Motor Company talks about quality, and the people on the assembly line make it happen.

We use special gauges and measuring devices to check the fender and door fits of every car that comes down the assembly line to make sure they meet the designers' exact specifications.

But even more than that, quality comes from careful attention to detail.

There's a new spirit at Ford Motor Company. And everyone is involved—from the man in the corner office to the people on the assembly line.

This dedication to quality is already paying off. Overall, a 25% year-to-year improvement in quality, as reported by our new car owners.

At Ford Motor Company, Quality is Job 1.
