THE KING CONGED ONE! Senior Marty King opened the Engineers' baseball season with a blast. The southpaw first baseman hit a solo homer in the third inning, sending the Engineers on their way to a 10-4 win over Calvert Hall.

Poly has bright prospect...

Stanley Gasque has the sinewey, cat like body of a sprinter. In fact, he is Polytechnic's top runner in distances up to 400 meters.

He also moves with effortless strides, as if he had been sprinting for years. Yes, in fact Gasque, a 10th grader, has run since the sixth grade.

Poly coach George Maeby thinks Gasque is a natural, posessing the qualities that make a speed burner.

"A sprinter comes along naturally. As a coach, all I can do is help define body mechanics to help him do what he does as effortlessly as possible." Maeby said after a recent workout.

The rhythm with which he moves his legs, that is something he is given at birth," Maeby added.

Gasque is only a sophomore, yet he has set his sights at the top of the area's competition.

"I'm hoping to win the MSAs in the 400 (meter event)," he said Tuesday.

Although he feels he is one of the best schoolboy runners in the city, he recognizes serious competition exists.

"There are two people I have to worry about, Paul Brown of Mervo and Alfonso Henson of Northwestern," he said.

Paul Brown, the tall, middle distance runner from Mervo topped Gasque by more than two seconds in a 400 meter encounter earlier in the season.

OFF TO A GOOD START — Stanley Gasque, a Poly sophomore, has hit 50 seconds flat in the 400 meter run, and 22.5 in the 200 meter dash so far this season. The young runner is expected to improve through the season.

...and Western does, too!

"I don't like to say I'm fast. I would rather wait until the race When you say you are fast, that is when you get knocked down," the attractive Western runner said.

Connie "Birdie" Hitchcock, a member of the Western High track team, spoke of her abilities in measured phrases, careful to avoid any overstatement.

The Western coach put it directly. "She is my best sprinter," Bishop said Wednesday afternoon, during a track meet with Douglass High at Western.

Across the field a group of long legged girls took their mark for the 200 meter dash. Among them was Hitchcock who, a scant 26.2 seconds later, flashed across the finish line, leading teammates Vicki Proctor and Susan Reynolds in a 1-2-3 Western finish.

The Doves won the meet easily, 108-19, and extended their undefeated record to 4-0.

"Most of our practices are at seven in the morning," Bishop said, explaining that neighboring Polytechnic has use of the field for practices after school hours, and adding "most of the girls make the practices."

"Those that are serious and dedicated show up, and those that are not fall by the wayside," Bishop observed.

So it is in much of life.

Engineers flip Cards

The Engineers finally got a chance to show what they can do on a baseball diamond Tuesday afternoon, after being shut out all last week by the weather.

The Poly nine erupted for 10 runs on 10 hits, he'd the Cardinals to four tallies, and coasted to a 10-4 victory over host Calvert Hall in their season's opener.

Senior Marty King was the offensive star of the game. The big left hander swung the bat with authority, collecting a homer and two singles, and tallied two rbi's.

He scored three times, and only a single strikeout denied him a flawless offensive outing.

After the game, his teammates treated him to some good natured razzing.

"Do you want me to hold the door for you, Reggie?" one youth shouted as King entered the locker room.

"Are you sure your cap is still going to fit you," cried another.

King held his ground, however, parrying the barbs with a grin.

The southpaw said he had been eager to get the season under way, but added the cold weather which had postponed last week's contests allowed him to get in a few extra practice swings before each one began to count.

"We got postponed a few times last week, so I got extra time to work on my hitting," King said in the lockerroom, his voice all but lost in the din of the lockerroom.

King, who plays first base, said he had a slow start in training, and had looked forward to opening the season with a bang.

"I had been having some trouble in practice, so I wanted to get off to a good start. I got myself psyched up for the game, put my head into it, and got going," King said.

Indeed he did. His first at bat resulted in a booming home run, opening the game's scoring in the third inning.

ONE OF THE CITY'S BEST — Mervo's Paul Brown has a reputation among trackmen around the city as one of the best middle distance runners in the public school system.

Towson relays Tuesday

Track teams from across the state will assemble on the campus of Towson State University Tuesday afternoon for the annual Towson Relays.

The early season meet will allow coaches a chance to evaluate other teams, as well as their own charges. Runners will get a chance to evaluate their own performance in relation to the state's top competition.

"We will use it as a good learning experience," Western coach Breezy Bishop said recently.

She added the meet can be a motivating challenge for runners who discover while spending a race watching their competition's backside, they need more work.

As many as 150 teams may be represented, and both boys and girls events will be offered.
