work in the areas mentioned above.

The $25 tuition charged to students enrolled in the review program may be waived under certain circumstances, Dr. Roder said. Some of the criteria is that the student received free lunches during this school year and that their principals verify hardship exists inabling him or her to pay.

The review program is open to students in grades 9 through 12.

The second program, the student enhancement program, offers a wide-range of courses at 15 different schools and sites around the city.

A minimum of 20 students are needed for each class, otherwise it will be cancelled, Dr. Roder said. The tuition for each class is $100 and students in grades 5 through 12 may enroll in the classes.

Summer school classes will be conducted from July 1 through July 29. Registration will take place at the student's home school between May 20 and June 15.

For more information about the programs and for registration procedures, call the Office of Information and Communication at 396-6867 or 396-6859.

Some of the classes that will be available in the enhancement program are marching band and swimming; urban and human ecology; micro-computers and BASIC programs; foreign language enrichment in Spanish and French; techniques in research; experiences in theater; plumbing; ABC shorthand-typing; and mass communication.

The classes will be offered at Patterson High, a field class at the Baltimore City Zoo, West Baltimore Middle School, Bragg Nature Study Center, Chinquapin Middle School, Walbrook High, Fallstaff Middle School, Northeast Institute; Hamilton Junior High, Southern High, Poly High, Mergenthaler Vocational-Technical High and Carver Vocational High.

Baltimore, there are only two women."

Mrs. Goslee was admitted to the practice of law in 1973 and served as an attorney and advisor for the U. S. Civil Rights Commission (Age Discrimination Study), 1976 to 1977.

She was also a federal prosecutor for the criminal division of the Eastern District of Missouri and is now working as a private trial lawyer.

Mrs. Goslee was a panel member of Square Off and host of Sunday Live. She says she hopes to be a compassionate, but firm judge." "It is only through the exercise of compassion, equally applied to victims as well as defendants, that justice can be truly served," Mrs. Goslee said.

"I want victims of crime, as well as perpetrators of criminal acts, to know that when they step into the courtroom of Judge Goslee that justice will be meted out. While I can fully understand and appreciate the sociological problems which may serve as a causation of criminal acts, I want knowing perpetrators of those acts to understand and appreciate that once they are convicted they owe a debt to society for their behavior," she said.

"I also hope to be an activist judge in seeking to provide assistance in the primary prevention of crime. I will accomplish this by not confining my judicial function solely to the courtroom. I will maintain a high profile, by going out into the community, to the schools, PTA's, neighborhood associations to do my part in demystifying the judicial process," Mrs. Goslee said
