Webster loses his teddy bear!

WEBSTER can't sleep without his teddy bear, and when his stuffed friend gets lost, he plans to sleep with Katherine and George until it's either found, or he grows up, on the ABC Television Network's "Webster," airing Friday, Dec. 2 (8:30-9:00 p.m., EST).

In "Teddy Bear Scare," while setting up camping gear in the apartment for his first boys' sleep-over, Webster confides to Katherine that he can't sleep without Teddy and doesn't want the guys to know. While Katherine is reassuring him that they can hide the bear in his sleeping bag, Jerry arrives to rush her off to a meeting. Webster is dropped off with George, who is playing poker at the Trocadero. Back home again, they realize that they left Teddy in a cab. While the search continues for the bear, Katherine and George try to convince Webster that he can sleep alone.

Susan Clark stars as Katherine Calder-Young Papadapolis, Alex Karras as George Papadapolis and Emmanuel Lewis as Webster. Henry Polic II co-stars as Jerry, Guesting are Richard Karron as Maurice, Bill Sands as Harry, Art La Fleur as Peanut Butter and James Cavan as old man.

—Compact Discs

na Summer; "Tonight" by the Four Tops; "Powerlight" and "Raise" by Earth, Wind & Fire; and "Friends" by Shalamar.

Mort Barnett of Record and Tape Collector states that the in itial batches of Compact Discs are mostly classical because "tehya "they are oriented toward those who can afford the high cost of th CD players which originally ranged from $800-$1300 and the cost of the recordings themselves which range from $16-$22 and more. Now th cost of machines is coming down and I think that the whole market is going to change radically. Sony will be bringing out a machine for Christmas that is supposed to retail for around $400 and I think that a lot more people will consider investing in this new and exciting product".

Gene Baron, who works at the Record & Tape Collector on Cold Spring Lane says "when the price of the machines comes down a little more, these things will sell like computers and calculators. At first few people could afford them; then when they became cheap enough, few people could live without them. Right now, all the companies are gradually bringing out new CD's every month, but the market will shift into high gear when the price becomes right. We have a CD player in this store and everyone who takes time out to listen to the dramatically different sound wants to buy one. To me, it's like going from a 78 to an LP in terms of the difference in reproduction qualities between CD's and LP's.

Interested? Well, why don't you spend some time this weekend checking out the latest and greatest innovation in the recording industry. Compact Discs are the wave of the future and, if you are a serious collector of black oriented music, you will undoubtedly want to purchase one when the price becomes right and when there is a greater variety of black oriented music available.
