The dollar reaches all time high

By Charles E. Bell
LONDON — Consumer confidence in the U. S. economy is improving. All industries have stopped the bleeding, except the airlines. A workingman's trip posting has a noticeable swell. Spring and summer should bring a release of some funds for special favors for the family. Finding the biggest bang for the buck will be the goal of those who have the mighty dollars.

And mighty the dollar is today. Ten years have past since the dollar was where it is today, again the West German money. The deutsch mark. In fact, the dollar is at an all time high this century against all European nations including Italy, Norway, Finland, France, and England. The dollar will buy more in these countries than it will at home. Their products sold in the country will be cheaper by American standards. It's also time to think seriously about helping out the U. S. airlines, like TWA and Pan American. Take advantage of a discount flight trip to Europe. Even visit one of the some 80 boys stationed overseas. God knows we got enough of them there. One needs not worry about high priced hotel rooms with American style comfort. Consider the Forum.

Forum Hotels are a "meeting place" around the world for business or pleasure travelers to take with the American standard of living at a modest price. Prestige service, fax, business, travel and entertainment information is available at the Head Hall Porter's desk in the London Forum.

Free international newspapers and a quick check-out system for the serious business traveler is for sure. Nine hundred and fourteen bedrooms each with private bath, radio, color TV and minibar-boom in the room; it is ready for any old or businessperson in London.

Located in the Royal borough of Kensington in London, it's only a thirty minute ride by bus from London's Heathrow Airport. Parking and fabulous pubs are within the hotel's precinct. Prices, lowest of American style hotels in London, is the speciality for staying at any Forum Hotel in London. Like any modern hotel, credit card can buy them out. The good news is that now the direction of the British pound is down, so that you actually make money by using the delayed settlement of the all too familiar statement at the end of the month.

How long will this good thing last? Like everything that goes up, it must come down. The dollar is doing its thing this year. You can do yours, if travel or business has been beckoning you to Europe. England speaks the Queen's English. Even does business the American way. Without the language barrier Great Britain is a bargain today for the vacationer or businessperson.

Federal Reserve Bank policy of tight money, high interest rates have wrecked inflation and tax incentives have instigated an industrial movement in America's economy. Evidence indicates credit should go to Congress and past President Carter's majority appointments on the Federal Reserve Bank Board for any economic rebound.

Since the most crucial criteria in the President's plan to get the economy going has not yet occurred, i.e. restoring saving as a habit in America, it is likely consumers will continue their odd habits and start spending this year. A smart start if you cannot kick the habit, is a sharp start this winter or spring, would be a European excursion for business or pleasure.

WHUR to host fundraiser for Fisk U.

WHUR Radio will start Feb. 5 a week-long fundraiser for financially-troubled Fisk University in Nashville, Tenn.

According to WHUR General Manager Robert N. Taylor, the fundraiser is being held "primarily because we feel that black universities have played a critical role in the education of black people in America, and if those black universities cease to exist, blacks throughout America and the world would be hurt."
