Dr. Harlan honored at champagne fete

Dr. Louis R. Harlan, a Maryland State Commission Afro-American History and Culture commissioner, received the state's highest honor June 27 at a champagne reception held in Annapolis.

The honoree who recently won the Pulitzer prize for his volume "Booker T. Washington, The Wizard of Tuskegee, 1901-1915," was given Maryland's Award of Distinguished Citizenship by Lt. Gov. Joseph Curran.

Ceremonies were held at the Commission's Banneker-Douglass Museum at 84 Franklin St. in the state capitol with Dr. Roland C. McConnell, Commission chairman presiding along with Museum Curator Carroll Greene.

Present were Mrs. Harlan and members of Dr. Harlan's family and various faculty members of the University of Maryland College Park where Dr. Harlan is a professor of history.

Dr. Harlan's Pulitzer Prize winning biography on Booker T. Washington is a second volume and a triple-crown winner having captured the Bancroft Prize and the Albert J. Beveridge Award of the American Historical Association earlier.

His first volume, "Booker T. Washington, the Making of a Black Leader, 1856-1901" published in 1973 also won Columbia University's Bancroft Prize. Both books are published by the Oxford University Press.

Dr. Harlan is a former chairman of the Maryland Commission.

He earned his Ph.D. at Johns Hopkins University in 1965 and joined the University of Maryland faculty in 1966. Another outstanding book is Dr. Harlan's "Separate and Unequal: Public School Campaigns and Racism in the Southern Seaboard States, 1901-1915" published by the University of North Carolina Press in 1968.

Dr. Harlan in 1973 was editor with Raymond W. Smock of the Booker T. Washington Papers, a 13-volume series.

The honors occasion for Dr. Harlan, the Pulitzer Prize winner was the second momentous occasion sponsored by the Maryland Commission.

Earlier in the month, the commissioners journeyed to Baltimore to dedicate the Joshua Johnson Marker placed at Hopkins Plaza in impressive rites.

Joshua Johnson, Baltimore's first black artist, was active in Maryland between 1796 and 1824 as a painter of the portraits of well-to-do Maryland families. He is best known as the first of early American portrait painters.

Today his works done in oils are found in private collections and museums including the National Gallery of Art, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Baltimore Museum of Art and the Maryland Historical Society.

The Johnson Marker is a part of the Historical Markers Program which is administered by the Baltimore Commission for Historical and Architectural Preservation. The Commission co-sponsored the ceremonies in Hopkins Plaza along with the Banneker Douglass Musuem Foundation.

Dr. McConnell presided. The invocation was by Commissioner Rev. James J. Fuller and the occasion by Curator-director of the Museum. Others on the program were Dr. Leslie Kind Hammond, dean of graduate studies, Maryland Institute College of Art; Diana Digges, coordinator, Baltimore City Historical Markers Program.

Also, Mrs. Pearl D. Brown, vice-president, Banneker-Douglass Museum Foundation. Commissioners are Former State Senator Verda F. Welcome, Dr. Elizabeth M. Oliver, William Kiah, Cambridge, MD; Dr. Harlan, Mrs. Phebe R. Jacobsen, Mrs. Angeline Williams, Annapolis; Mrs. Mary S. Johnson, Baltimore.

Museum Staff Members, Mesdames Gerry Blasingame, Jeanette F. Fauss, Richelle L. Thomas, Miss Barbara Jackson and Lawrence E. Hurst served on both of the occasions.

Banneker-Douglass Museum, 84 Franklin St., Annapolis has posted new hours: Closed Mondays, Tuesday through Friday, 10-3; Saturdays and Sundays, 12-4 Holidays, 12-4 except July 4, Thanksgiving Day, Christmas Day, New Year's Day, Election Day and Labor Day.

Special appointments may be made with Miss Barbara Jackson. 269-3968 (no toll from Baltimore).

400 attend Howard family reunion

Some 400 members of the Howard family of Montgomery County journeyed there last weekend for a reunion at the old home place near Sunshine, Md.

They arrived with their children from all points of the nation and Canada to remember their ancestors, the offspring of Jack and Polly Howard. Jack Howard was born a slave in 1814.

From the eight children of the original Howards came all the relatives, "cousins", who assembled at the graves of their forebearers July 1 and prayed, some of them in tears.

Among the eight children was George Enoch Howard who became one of the largest black landowners in Montgomery County and in terms of money in those days, was a wealthy man.

The others of the eight were Leatha, Greenberry, Susanna, Eliza, Mariah, Brice and Martha. The Howards who migrated to Canada were children of Leatha Howard and descendants of William Holland and Thomas John Holland.

At this 1984 reunion, a representative of the Hollands was Laura Josephine Holland, San Francisco, CA who is the granddaughter of Thomas John Holland. Among hosts were two sisters, Mable and Alice Howard, of Sandy Spring, MD, children of George Howard Thomas; and Harold Howard, descendant of Enoch George Howard and Mable Howard Lawson, daughter of Herbert Howard.

The scene at the graveside, when the throng joined hands in a circle, was impressive. The cemetery is just off Howard Chapel Road and nearby the old stone Howard house built in 1791.

Standing on the 500 acre land formerly owned by Enoch George Howard, the descendants sang "God Bless This House" led by Yale Pratt Lewis, great-great grandson of Eliza Pratt and Marian Crawley Newby, famed Toronto soloist. Mable Lawson placed the flowers from the ancient fields on the Enoch George Howard grave, "the flowers he had known in his lifetime."

Carroll Greene, the curetor of the Banneker-Douglass Museum in Annapolis and a cousin, reviewed the history and encouraged the descendants of the famed landowner to gather again and continue the records permanently in a booklet.

Among the Howards buried in the cemetery are Enoch George, 1865; Harriett, 1882; Mariah, Howard Oliver, wife of the late Dr. J. B. Oliver, Brazil, Ind.; Greenberry Sr., 1927; Rebecca, 1935; Greenberry Jr., 1915; Augustus Frederick, 1934; Herbert, 1923; George Samuel, 1961; Laura, 1967 and Harriett, 1965.

The above data and extensive records gathered by Harold Howard, London King, Mable Lawson, Elizabeth M. Oliver and the William Murphys and others will be placed in a booklet and published Greene said, under the Maryland State Commission on Afro-American History and Culture, of which he is executive director and Dr. Oliver a commissioner.

Among the many noted Howard descendants were Langston Hughes, the famed poet; Countee Cullen, poet, great-grandson of Leatha Howard and James Dyke, assistant to 1984 Democratic Presidential Nominee Mondale; former Judges William H. Murphy Sr. and William H. Jr. the first father and son jurists in the state of Maryland; Martha Howard Murphy, wife of the founder of the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers John H. Murphy Sr.

Descendants the 400 descendants of George Enoch Howard, Historian Harold Howard divides them into branches thus:

The John Henry Howard family; the Mary Alice Cason family; Martha Elizabeth Murphy family; Mariah Howard Oliver family; Greenberry Howards; the Leatha Howard Hollands; the William Henson Hollands; the Thomas John Holland family, descendants of Eliza Howard Pratt, the Mary Augustis Pratt Cook family and the Howard Pratt family.

OTHER NEWS NOTES

LADY LAWYERS are in the news prominently these days. Among them is Lydia Kaye Darr of Lanham, MD who recently opened her law offices at 5105 Baltimore Lane, Lanham and also at 110 East Madison St., Baltimore.

—Butler Palladium

Rather, it is a part of a full economic development plan which will enhance the flow of money in our community.

"I know that this effort will meet with major success because we are ready for a facility owned and controlled by us."

Berkowitz noted some time ago that he expected the UDAG grant for Butler to come through on the Palladium. Previously the city paid Butler a $25,000 advance for the architectural work he had done on the old A and P building that houses Butler's entertainment center and catering establishment at Park Circle.

The city also agreed to pay Butler $602,000 for the A and P building itself and three other properties he now owns in the Park Circle Industrial area.

Mayor Schaefer said the former Butler property at Park Circle will be used as an incubator facility for the industrial projects the city now plans. He said the property on the Liberty Heights Avenue side is more desirable for the Palladium.

Bob Nipp and Jack Flynn of Secretary Pierce's staff in Washington revealed that Mr. Butler's Palladium came through successfully for the UDAG grant, as did two other businesses which are in predominately black areas of Baltimore.

Johns Hopkins Hospital involved with the old McElderry Housing Project in East Baltimore was granted $373,194 for the building of town houses on that land which is in the city's Middle East Urban Renewal area.

Largest UDAG grant $1,796,250.00, went to the York Road and Belvedere Retail Complex to help the B'Y Partnership endeavors. The shopping center in Govans was rebuilt after a fire destroyed a used clothing warehouse. Located there are several other businesses and Rite Aide Drug Store, Dunkin Donuts and Chicken George.

Not selected at this time for UDAG grants were the Lord Baltimore Hotel project hoped for a 400-room plush hotel in the old building which has been empty two years; two proposed black-owned businesses including an Low cuisine firm by Raymond Hayabert; and an Eastside banquet facility by former Sen. Robert Douglass.

Secretary Pierce's office said the three proposed businesses did not have the necessary commitment of private investors. In order to fully qualify for federal funds those proposals must have the private investors firmed up. They may submit their revised HUD applications again in 90 days.

Mr. Butler is the sole owner of the Palladium which he promises will be the finest such banquet facility on the East Coast, will seat over 1,000 and include a mall with a bridal salon, formal wear shop, beauty and barber shops and high fashion boutiques. The mall will be ultra with every futuristic design and parking for 500 cars. The food will be superb, he states.

On Butler's board of directors are Dr. Robert Doyle, physician and a chief administrator at Mercy Hospital; Dr. Warren Hayman, a vice-president at Morgan State University; Jerry Lymas, owner of the Justin Development Corp., Fr. Joseph Sellenger, SJ, president of Loyola College from which Butler received an A.B. and Masters degrees in psychology in 1973 and Father Edward Miller, pastor of St. Bernardine's Catholic Church where Butler is a longtime member.

The board serves the Butler network of business firms called "the Butler Group" and includes Palladium Banquet and Catering; Butler Construction Co. which will build the Palladium; Management Services, Harrington Industries, Butler Productions; Butler Real Estate, Janitorial Services, Public Relations Firm; Palladium Eggs which produces 10,000 eggs a day at farms in Carroll County.

Butler is chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the businesses he founded.

Reputed to be a millionaire, Butler is a generous donor to his Loyola College where he was member of the Greyhounds Basketball Team and in his time won two championships.

He was among the five best athletes picked for the All-Tournament Team in 1971, and he was named the Most Valuable Player in 1973.

—Grandmother hears

However, when he arrived at the apartment of Mrs. Phillip he discovered that she had committed suicide and that the children would be placed in the care of their grandmother.

Police in their investigation concluded that there was no foul play involved in the incident and have completed their investigation.

When Mr. Phillips arrived at the scene, police reports reveal, he was very distraught when he discovered what had happened. He declined to comment on the incident when the AFRO contacted him over the telephone.

Also, when the AFRO attempted to contact Mrs. Harris at her home she was not available for comment. No further information was available at AFRO press time.

Delta group give $2,000 to UDC

The Washington Alumnae chapter of the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority made a $2,000 contribution to the University of the District of Columbia for student scholarships.

In a letter of thanks, UDC president Robert L. Green told Olivia V. Allen, chapter president, that the funds will go toward the support of a deserving and high achieving student."

He said the gift, along with the chapter's pledged $1,800 annual contribution henceforth, will be used to establish the Washington Alumnae Chapter, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority Scholarship at the University of the District of Columbia."
