timore audiences, having performed here many, many times. Cecil Taylor, however, is something of a mystery.

Really can't remember the last time he played Baltimore, although he has been in Washington within the last five years. If you are not familiar with his work, you'd really be amazed at the sound he creates from a piano.

Then on December 2, the legendary Miles Davis comes to town for a concert at Towson State University.

Since his return to the music scene—he dropped out for a few years—he has played D.C. a few times. We caught him at the Kool Jazz Festival when it last played the Kennedy Center—but Baltimore has been bypassed.

Miles will have his own group, and on the program also will be the Herbie Mann group, with O'Donel Levy, guitarist as featured artist.

The Left Bank Jazz Society on Dec. 2 will have Art Blakey and the Jazz Messengers. The group is essentially the same as it was during his appearance at the Harborlights Festival at Pier 6 this past Summer—so you know it will be a scorcher.

And, at Gentlemen 10, Jr. Walker and the All Stars will be in a benefit concert for Project Survival.
