Lightning hits in Baltimore

Lightning struck at the Civic Center Wednesday night. Unfortunately, it didn't hit much.

Baltimore's newly acquired pro basketball team, known as the Lightning club, made its debut as a Continental League franchise. But, to the chagrin of coach Cazzie Russell and owner, Dr. Seymour Kilstein, fewer than 6,000 fans turned out to watch the night-after-Christmas testing of the waters.

The Lightning, now based in Lancaster, plans to move here next season for its CBL schedule.

On Wednesday, they defeated Toronto, 119-116.

MEAC enrolls Coppin

The Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference has announced the admittance of a second Baltimore College.

Coppin State University will join Morgan State in the enlarged conference.

MEAC Commissioner Ken Free made the announcement at the conference's all-star football banquet Tuesday night. Free added that the new pact does depend on Coppin gaining NCAA Division I status this summer.

Coppin State's acceptance brings the MEAC membership to eight institutions, the most it has ever had in its 17-year history. The MEAC members include Bethune-Cookman (Daytona Beach, Fla.), Delaware State (Dover, Del.), Howard (Washington, DC), Maryland-Eastern Shore (Princess Anne, MD), Morgan State (Baltimore, MD), North Carolina A and T State (Greensboro, NC), and South Carolina State (Orangeburg, SC).

"We are happy to expand to eight teams," said Free, "it makes for a better basketball conference, eliminating a bye, and we are happy to have Coppin as part of it."

Coppin athletic director Ronald DeSanto added, "We're thrilled about joining the MEAC. It is a natural for Coppin State, and we hope that we can make a contribution to the conference."

Ex-poet Reggie Lewis stars for Northeastern Univ. five

BOSTON, Mass. — Former Baltimore Dunbar High star Reggie Lewis is currently leading the Northeastern Huskies in scoring as the Huskies emerge from the holiday break with a 3-2 record.

The 6-7 Lewis, who played under Bob Wade and helped lead Dunbar to back-to-back undefeated seasons, tops all NU scorers with his 21.4 points-per-game average. Lewis finished second last year in scoring with his 17.8 ppg average to graduated NU player Mark Halsel, a fourth round draft pick of the Chicago Bulls.

The Hiskies woh their first three games this season with wins over Vermont, Suffolk and Arkansas-Little Rock in the Champion Holiday Classic. Northeastern has dropped its last two games to Montana (81-80 in finals of Holiday Classic) and Massachusetts, 67-66.

Lewis, the 1983-84 ECAC North Atlantic Rookie of the Year, was selected to pre-season NAC team and was also chosen to the All-New England squad. In five games, the sophomore has led NU four times in scoring while averaging 7.4 rebounds per outing.

The Huskies journey to Providence for the Fleet Basketball Classic on December 28-29 and will face Missouri Valley co-champion Illinois State in the first round. After the New Year, Northeastern will jump into the North Atlantic schedule as it travels to Maine (January 3) and hosts Niagara (January 5).

Golf pro saluted on retirement

Golfers of every size, sex, age and complexion are expected at Blue Crest North tonight (Friday) to honor Walter "Chink" Stewart as he marks his retirement after 33 years at the Carroll Park Golf Course.

Stewart whose reputation as a teacher of the game is recognized throughout the east and south, enjoyed the longest tenure at one location than any public course pro in the area.

Among his students were Ron and Tony Terry, the former a touring pro and the now aspiring to gain a PGA card; Gordon Chalvis who went on to become pro at the Forest Park course, and former women's champion Alma Arvin, now his wife.

Vernon Terry, father of Ron and Tony and himself a one-time state champion is scheduled as the main speaker.

Also planned are testimonials from the various local clubs-Monumental, Pitch and Putt, Carroll Park, Paragon, Wake Robin, Colonial and Forest Park, etc.

Lite SPORTS ACTION

Everything you always wanted to know about sports. And more.

Lite NFL Man of the Year

They are often smothered in adulation. They bask in the glory of their deeds. Some are very caring. Some stay to themselves. Seldom do they have enough time for themselves and yet, the National Football League breeds many young athletes who contribute their time and energies to countless, vital community projects.

For some, the time is devoted to the Special Olympics. For others, the Diabetes Foundation or a campaign to prevent drug abuse. Whatever the cause—the March of Dimes, Sickle Cell Anemia, or a drive to raise funds for a children's hospital, many of the NFL's top players around the nation come together to help call the signals for many meaningful civic programs.

Public Recognition

In the past, most player's off-the-field involvements were overshadowed by their feats on the gridiron. But since 1980, thanks to the Miller Brewing Company, Lite beer began sponsoring the NFL Man of the Year Award to recognize NFL players for their contributions on and off the playing field.

Selection Process

Throughout the exhibition games pre-season, and continuing into November of each year, ballot boxes are placed in NFL stadiums and where Lite beer is sold allowing fans to vote for their local team's Man of the Year. A winner is selected from each team. The NFL man of the year is ultimately chosen by a group of media representatives from among the five top vote getters.

Rolf Benirschke of the San Diego Chargers, the most accurate field goal kicker in the history of professional football, was the pick for 1983.

Benirschke was cited for his work as the national sports chairman for the National Foundation of Ileitus and Colitis. This disease has inflicted over 3,000,000 Americans and nearly caused the death of Benirschke himself, forcing him to sit out the 1979 season. Community organizations all over the nation contributed 289 pints of blood toward Benirschke's recovery.

Who Will Win In '84?

All 84 candidates for the 1984 Man of the Year have made outstanding off-the-field contributions in their community. Who will be selected?

It could be Reggie Williams of the Cincinnati Bengals for his work with the Diabetes Foundation and the Cincinnati Cerebral Palsy Telethon.

Devon Cherry of the Kansas City Chiefs does an outstanding job with the Special Olympics Program, the March of Dimes and the United Negro College Fund.

The Los Angeles Rams have a guy they feel is special in Mike Davis who is involved with the McBride School for the Handicapped Children's Hospital, the Ear Institute Telethon and the Retinus Pigmantosis Foundation.

Top honors could go to Robin Cole for his work with the American Heart Association. The Pittsburgh Steelers linebacker also devotes many hours to a number of drug and alcohol abuse programs. Multiple Sclerosis, and is a board member of the American Blind Association.

The winner will be announced at a Super Bowl press conference on January 15, 1985 in San Francisco. That NFL player will receive the prestigious Gladiator Trophy as the Lite NFL Man of the Year at the AFC-NFC Pro Bowl in Honolulu.
