Dr. Roland Williams honors his mom

It was a beautiful tribute of love when Dr. Roland Williams feted his mother at a surprise birthday brunch at the Johns Hopkins Club recently. It was almost a surprise but this is nothing new for Ronnie who had that fabulous affair in 1979 for his grandparents Dr. and Mrs. M.L. Barksdale and at other times has feted his parents. Ronnie has just com,leted two of graduate study of the NYU Baruch School of Public Administration.

Guests gathered at high noon for morning cocktails with Christmas music played by Mrs. Charlotte Swan who was at the organ. He then pinned his mother with a corsage of her favorite flowers designed by Richard Traversarra.

Grace was by Thelma Ashe; musical solo by Marion Smith; tribute by Anne Larkins; and surprises by Christine Moore.

After a buffet lunch guests gathered for surprises at a fashion show coordinated by students and grads of the Community College of Baltimore.

Sally DiMarco was coordinator; Beverly Brown, instructor with Ronald Bailey, designer and Yvonne Hardy knits and suede designer.

Needless to say Ronnie's gifts to his mother presented in surprise package by the models included everything from Gucci, to furs to cash.

Models were Theresa Forney, Sonae Seymour, Tereva King.

Guests about were Ellen Howard, Mae Wright Peck, Florine Camper, Charlotte Mebane, Pauline Watts, Ida Peters, Thelma Bando, Magnolia Williams, Nikki Randolph, Del. Lena King Lee, Mary Pitts, Sen. Verda Welcome, Mattie Gardner, Mildred Smith, Mildred Campbell, Lucille Cephas, Jean Bernard, Saretha Greene, Mary Ellis, Camay Murphy, Elizabeth Jones, Evelyn Barksdale, Bernice McDaniels and Harriett Trader.

COLUMBIA CAPERS

KAPPAS MARK 10TH ANNIVERSARY

The Columbia Md. Alumni Chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi, Inc, recently celebrated the 10th anniversary of its chartering. The affair was held at the Fort Meade Officers Club.

The Fraternity's Grand Polemarch, Robert L. Gordon, of Ann Arbor, MI. was the guest speaker. During his speech he challenged the members and their guests to get involved in Community Education and Political Activities at both the local and national level.

The challenge was continually given by Gordon's question, "Do You Really Give A Damn?" which was the title of his speech. He observed that the problems Blacks are experiencing are basically a result of activities of complacency on the part of all elements of the Black Community.

Prior to Gordon's talk the group was enthralled by a solo rendered by Lisa Corbett, daughter of chapter member Cleveland Corbett. She accompanied by Rayna Woodford, wife of the Chapter's historian reporter, Dr. Carroll S. Woodford.

More than 180 Kappa and their spouses and friends attended the affair, which was chaired by Eugene Hubbard who welcomed the participants. Other committee members were Roderick L. Bingham, Johnnie Matthews, Otis D. Watts and Rufus Clonzy.

William A. Ross Sr., founder of the chapter's History as the occasion. A charter was presented to the Columbia MD Chapter November 9, 1979.

Charter members in addition to Ross are: Walter Lewis, Thomas Briscoe, Dr. George Woodland, James A. Dorsey, Charles K. Price, Donald D. Hogan, Arthur Rochee, Don M. Coleman, Dr. Claude M. Ligon, Mayfield K. Webb, Charles Wandy, Leroy Bronner, Stewart A. Brooks, Dr. Ernest J. Colvin, James F. Cooper (Deceased), Marion E. Guyton, Charles R. Kelly, Jesse W. Kensler, Dr. Richard F. Tyson, Thomas D. Wallace, and Llowellyn W. Woodford.

Followed by the chapter's history was another selection by Lisa Corbett, this time she sang Gershwin's "Summer Time" from Porgy and Bess.

The invocation was given by Samuel B. Cooper, followed by a sit down dinner of filet mignon with all the trimmings, after which, former Polemarch Dr. Claude Ligon recognized the Silhouettes. (Kappa wives) Each proud lady received a long stemmed rose.

Special guests attending the well planned affair were: Dr. & Mrs. Samuel Massey, (Gloria). Dr. and Mrs. (Hazel) G. James Flemming, (Hazel); Mr. and Mrs. Robert Draine, (he's Baltimore Polemarch); Clarence Nelson, Eastern province chief, who made a presentation to the Columbia Chapter, "A Hall Mark of Excellence" for many deeds and services rendered. Also past polemarch Ernest Davenport and his lovely wife Lucille from Washington, D.C. The Annapolis polemarch was also in attendance.

The chapter is highly regarded because of its many community service projects which include proceeding parole and probation counselors, aiding Red Cross fund raising projects, delivering surplus government foot to Senior Citizens, sponsoring a youth baseball team, and arranging youth outings in conjunction with Department of Juvenile Services.

Some of the chapters on going activities are man a check point for Ride-a bike for Retarded citizens, delivery of salvation army Christmas food baskets, providing student scholarships, soliciting memberships for NAACP, Career Counseling, assisting with Association for Retarded Citizens, Membership Campaigh, Distributing Christmas toys and achievement awards for High School students.

Recognition of these achievements were displayed in photographs, plaques, citations and letters of commendation. The display was prepared by Thomas H. Briscoe, the chapter's polemarch.

A plaque was presented to the national grand polemarch Robert L. Gordon, and recognition also went to soloist Lisa Corbett.

Officers of the chapter are: Donald D. Hogan who presided over the Founder's Day Celebration and is the chapter's very able polemarch; Garfield E. Hubbard, vice polemarch; Louis Diggs, Keeper of Records; Wilbur A. Crable, Keeper of The Exchequer; Jerome E. Biggs, Strategus; William N. Parham, Jr. Lieutenant Stratgus; Carroll S. Woodford, Historian - Reporter.

Directors of the board are Robert Birdsong, Rufus Clanzy, and former polemarch Henry Dee Gill.

To my faithful readers: I would like to wish you the gifts of Christmas-Peace-Goodwill, and Abiding Happiness in the years to come.

ELIZABETH COOPER'S XMAS COUP

Longtime friends of Elizabeth Cooper gathered during the holidays at her beautiful home for a lively luncheon. The guests were warmly greeted and relished the charmingly festive atmosphere. Those present looked at photos and reminisced about the days around their neighborhood and the college days at Morgan.

The delectable menu featured a seafood casserole, other goodies and scrumptuous homemade cheesecake.

On hand for the festive occasion were Alice Rasbury, Peggy Ammons, Brenda Johnson, Loistene Parham, Barbara Waller, Sarah Jerkins, Genevieve Jackson and Rita Selby.

RINGING IN THE NEW

There are New Year's celebrations of every kind. But none is so warm nor festive as the kind spent with small groups of old friends.

Such was the case on New Year's Eve when George "Wimpy" Johnson and wife Brenda hosted an intimate gathering for old friends at their Forest Park Ave. home.

The menu, which included an exquisite salad, seafood stew, chicken wings, potato salad, rice, and the traditional black-eyed peas, was topped off by cocktails and, at the ringing in of the New Year, champagne with many toasts.

Guests buoyed up by the food, dancing and warm hospitality of Brenda and Wimpy (& their daughter Gyl) included Bertha Roy, Brenda and Leon Conley, Reatha and Donald Smith, James and Patricia Lucas and yours truly.

It was a super holiday round of parties. I enjoyed them all to the hilt.

Here's to a happy and prosperous New Year for all.
