What should the NAACP be doing

launched an all-out attack on affirmative action—the use of numerical goals and timetables in hiring and promotion and has sought changes in orders and consent decrees in more than 50 jurisdictions;

● The Justice Department has negatively intervened in school desegregation efforts and enunciated that it would not seek to have children go to schools they did not wish to attend.

It is beyond Association resources to tackle the universe to protect our gains and pursue new initiatives in the many areas of black community life.

1. Should litigation continue to be a major Association thrust? (Yes/No)

If yes, in what areas should the NAACP focus its litigative thrust? (Examples: voting rights, employment discrimination, criminal justice, housing discrimination, veterans rights, etc. Please be specific and state the reason for your response.)

2. Should the NAACP become involved in more cases involving the denial of constitutional rights of minority defendants? (Yes/No)

3. What should the role of the NAACP Legal Department be in cases involving prisoner's rights?

4. What role should the NAACP Legal Department play in environmental matters?

5. To what extent should the NAACP Legal Department involve itself in housing discrimination complaints?

6. What should be the role of the NAACP Legal Department in securing quality education for black students in urban areas?

7. Should the NAACP's Legal Department attempt to assist veterans with benefit or discharge problems? (Yes/No)

8. What percentage of the NAACP's resources should be spent on legal programs?

necessary funds to operate their offices and to remit to the National Office their share from fundraising activities. Should our branches be allowed to receive grants for operational purposes? (Yes/No)

9. Should branches be permitted to use Combined Federal Campaign (CFC) funds for programmatic overhead? (Yes/No)

10. Should branches be permitted to receive state or local grants to operate specific programs? (Yes/No)

If so, why not?

I. WASHINGTON BUREAU

The Washington Bureau has sought the enactment and enforcement of Federal laws securing civil rights and to educate persons in grassroots legislative advocacy. It has also monitored the Voting Rights Act and Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act and provided technical assistance in redistricting and reapportionment.

1. As we approach the 21st Century, what should be the role of the Washington Bureau of the NAACP?

J. VOTER EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

The NAACP has played many roles in the area of political participation voter registration, voter education, get out the vote, pursuing legislative initiatives.

As blacks gain momentum in the political mainstream, what role should the NAACP play?

● Focus on voter registration with emphasis on adding new voters in Congressional Districts where the black population can be decisive in winning an election;

● Sensitize the public through marathon marches to highlight voter registration;

● Design and conduct voter education sessions to inform potential voters;

● Prepare materials for use by branches on "How To."

K. THE CRISIS

The Crisis magazine has been published continuously for more than 75 years. Many of the nation's black writers and poets were first published in The Crisis and it has served as a forum for issues concerning black America. (In earlier years, The Crisis carried pictures of black college graduates.)

1. What should be the role of The Crisis as we approach the 21st Century? (Please be specific.)

2. Should The Crisis content be diversified or should each issue be theme-oriented?

— diversified content in each issue

— theme-oriented issues

Give a rationale for your response.

L. YOUTH & COLLEGE DIVISION

The Association's Youth and College Division is over 50 years old. It has been the training ground for a number of today's black leaders.

1. What should be the role of the Youth and College Division during the next decade?

2. Should the Association view the Youth & College Division from a costs/benefit perspective?

M. LABOR DEPARTMENT

Employment remains the achilles heel of the black community. Many blacks are unemployed or underemployed. Black youth employment opportunities are bleak. Training programs, funded with Federal monies, have been cut, yet the opportunity for millions of black Americans to participate in the "good" life hinge on whether or not employment is a reality.

During the past decade, the Association's Labor Department has sought to use Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act to assist persons to fight employment discrimination.

1. How should the Association tackle the employment issue? (Be specific.)

2. What should be the function, if any, of the NAACP's Labor Department?

3. What portion of the Association's total budget should be allocated to pursue employment-related programs?

N. EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

The Association's Education Department has sought administrative enforcement of education laws; helped to educate the public regarding school desegregation; established test preparation clinics and focused on community education.

1. What should be the function of the Education Department as we move into the 21st Century?

● Focus on elementary and secondary education with a goal to improve the quality of education

● Move toward a focus on vocational and technical education

● Target higher education with a thrust toward building a supportive network to ensure that more blacks "get through" the higher education system

● Focus on retention of black teachers and administrators

● Other (please be specific.)

2. What portion of the Association's total budget should be allocated for Education Department activities?

It is obvious that it is impossible to cover all of the diverse areas of NAACP involvement in any questionnaire. For this reason, you should feel free in the space provided to include any comments you may have.

O. VETERANS AFFAIRS

As the World War II and Korean Conflict era veterans mature and reach retirement age, black veterans are increasingly seeking help from the NAACP. What should the NAACP's role be in this area?

Should our Armed Services & Veterans' Affairs Program be expanded? (Yes/No)

P. RELIGIOUS AFFAIRS

The NAACP depends on the religious community for support in a number of areas, e.g. Membership and fund raising campaigns, support in laundering direct action campaigns etc. Should our religious affairs efforts be expanded? (Yes/No)

MIGHTY CLOUDS OF JOY MOVE TO REDUCE CITY VIOLENCE

The Mighty Clouds of Joy, Grammy Award Winners, stopped in Baltimore last Monday to contribute to the efforts to reduce the violence and killings.

The group, which has been together for 25 years, contacted Billy Taylor, WWIN Radio Personality to advise that they were aware of the "Us Killing Us = Genocide" project being implemented by the Maryland Federation of Organizations.

The latest activities of the Federation include:

1. Preparation of a master tape for local radio use. Six young men will explain in their own words why the killing and violence is wrong.

2. The finalization of a television show on the subject of killing and violence.

3. The continued distribution of "Us Killing Us = Genocide" in the neighborhoods.

In addition, the Maryland Federation of Organizations saluted the Young Democrats of Baltimore, who initiated their school project on Tuesday, Oct. 22 in cooperation with superintendant of schools. The young men and women spoke to high school classes as they sought support for their efforts to curb killing and violence in our community.

A spokesman for the Mighty Clouds of Joy told Rep. Parren Mitchell at his office on Bloomingdale Road, "Your federation must continue its efforts because its purpose is in order with God's will. It's a long haul, but don't get discouraged."

The group is scheduled to appear in concert on Nov. 3 in Baltimore.
