Woman Power, Inc. holds annual Conference-Luncheon

AT THE WOMAN POWER ANNUAL CONFERENCE and luncheon held recently at the Baltimore Plaza Hotel are (L to R): Dorothy Brunson, who was guest speaker; Erla McKinnon and Bernice White.

The Woman Power Civic organization held its annual Conference and luncheon recently. This year the group marked its 27th year seminar.

The workshop was held in the Baltimore Plaza Hotel, with the conference registration taking place from 9 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. Then a swift break was taken, and the luncheon was held right afterwards.

Woman Power's very own guest speaker at the luncheon was Dorothy Brunson, owner and director of WEBB Radio station. Ms. Brunson presented a speech that held every woman's ears and attention. She brought facts from the hard, but good old days back again. Reminiscing was certainly portrayed in the minds in attendance.

Ms. Brunson spoke out on strategies to remedy both aspects of poverty — Hiring and Training the poor to help themselves. The presentation was powerful and meaningful. Hiring the poor and unemployed to serve the poor is a fundamental attack on poverty in an automated age.

Ms. Brunson pounted out that it will (a) markedly reduce the manpower shortage in education and social work; (b) provide more, better and "closer" service for the poor and reach the unreached; (c) entrepreneurs should strive to rehabilitate many of the poor themselves through meaningful employment.

The strong message of delivery was creative and professional with Woman Power's VIP Lady showing them her strength of character and professionalism.

The Woman Power, Inc. luncheon and workshop had a tremendous attendance. The ladies' theme for 1985 is "Networking for Social, Political Change Targeted for 1986."

President is Erla McKinnon. Councilwoman Victorine Adams is the founder.

Other officers include Lillian Dorsey, first vice president; Clarice La V. Brooks, second vice president; Hortense Press, third vice president; Hortense Henry, treasurer; Shirley Fisher, corresponding secretary; Faye Cochrell, recording secretary; Betty Warren, financial secretary; Gladys Barbour, chaplain; Sammie Green and Victorine Adams, historians; Bertha Anthony, research director; Bernice Carroll, Members-at-large.

Bernice White was luncheon chairperson. Co-chairpersons were Lillian Dorsey and Barbara Holt. Finance Committee chair was Anita Sterrette.

Hostesses were Clara Coates, Bertha Anthony, Ruth Bydume, Gwen Brown, Lula Clark, Mary Queen, Marie Nealy, Eva Patterson, and Phyllis Walston.

In charge of Publicity were Mikki Johnson and Twilah Scarborough. Voter Registration and Voter Education were handled by Barbara Jackson.

FLAIR MODELS are ready for their fourth annual Lush and Lovely Fashion Show to be held at the Baltimore Plaza Hotel, Sunday Nov. 17 at 4 p.m.

In Style—Flair models 4th annual Lush and Lovely Fashion Show

Take a look at today's modern, mature models - and you'll be more than surprised. You'll be amazed at all the sleek, contemporary styles for the more mature woman - and man.

More mature in age (over 30) or size (14 and above) is the standard for Flair Model's Lush and Lovely Fashion Show which will be seen at the Baltimore Plaza Hotel on Sunday November 17 at 4 p.m. Following the fashion offerings of area designers and specialty stores, there will be a wine and cheese models' reception.

A brilliant collection of originals for the mature figure will be shown by Designers John Lewis-Bey, "Lady Dar" Langley, B.A. Butler, Sabrina St. Clair, Jean Taylor and Charles Wells. Specialty stores that will feature their own image makers include Fashion Bug Plus (Route 40 West), Lexington Lady-Mondawmin; Roxie's Rack, Charles Street; and Ander's Men's Wear-Woodlawn.

Special recognition will be given Flair Model Ernestine Ward who will be named the first "Flair's Metropolitan Woman. Ms. Ward, a professional model, recently retired as a supervisor with the Baltimore City Department of Recreation. She is a gracefully elegant standard for the more mature woman.

Other recipients of awards will include Ruth A. Dean, Gussie Harris and Christine Ward, all young and beautiful models who are senior citizens. During the show, a model will be selected as the "Flair Woman of the Year."

The fashion show will be produced by the Flair Model's fashion team of Willia Bland and Andrea Bland-Travis.

Commentary will be provided by Artartus Jenkins, modeling and acting personality from Washington D.C. Production managers are Alice Tucker and Neal Wise.

GBC-BIG HOSTS AWARDS DINNER DANCE

Delegate Cummings was cited for his outstanding leadership as president of the Maryland Legislative Black Caucus. Under his leadership, the Caucus has mounted a frontal assault on discrimination in State employment and contracts and negotiated significant changes, the citation stated.

The citation also noted that, under pressure from the Caucus, the Department of Mental Hygiene increased a Black employment rate of 18 out of 100 employees hired to 208 of the 216 people hired last year. The Department of Natural Resources increased Black employment from 3 percent to 11.5 percent during the past year.

A Caucus-backed bill was passed designed to increase Black-owned franchises in the State 10 times over the next several years through loans of up to $50,000. Another law guarantees bonding to Black contractors who otherwise qualify.

Councilman Mfume was unable to attend the affair due to a family emergency. He was cited as one of the "area's most articulate and effective spokesman for the people" and "an independent voice on the Baltimore City Council."

"The two-term councilman from the Fourth District has become recognized for a style of leadership that combines the qualities of the teacher, the advocate and the ombudsman into an effective political force," the citation read.

An award was presented to Mildred Owens for her work as Regional Council President, this past year. She was cited for "launching the region on the path toward chapter building and organizing."

Also cited were 11 members who according to President Hunt had demonstrated outstanding efforts towards furthering the goals and objectives of GBC/BIG. They included Joseph Blackwell, Jeffries Carey, Dorothy Green, Sampson Green, Carmelita Hackett, Martha Howard, Robert Johnson, Barbara Motley, Herbert Roche, Darlene Smallwood and Bobbie Swann.

Warren W. Hewitt, Jr., Council President for Region 11, delivered a challenging after-dinner speech to the government workers and their guests. He was accompanied by several Regional officers and National Charter member, Ms. Ruby Fields.

It was noted that the occasion also represented the Fifth Anniversary of the organization. In a presentation on "Reflections from Year Five," Barbara Motley, vice-president for Federal Affairs, called for renewed efforts to make the organization an effective voice for Black government workers.

GBC/BIG is one of more than 100 BIG chapters around the country and is one of the largest. The organization seeks to provide a vehicle by which Black government workers at the Federal, State and local levels may coalese around common issues and goals. The elimination of racial discrimination in government employment is one of the paramount objectives of BIG.

The event was chaired by Ms. Dorothy Green, GBC/BIG Ways and Means chairperson.

For more information on BIG, call (301)747-4180, after 5 p.m., or (202)638-7767 in Washington, D.C. before 5 p.m.

GLITTERING GRAND ENTRANCES
Nothing catches the eye or fascinates like glitter. And everyone associates it with festive and gala occasions. What better way, then, to ensure your grand entrances this holiday season than starlit with glitter-laced makeup.
In a season when lame, metallic sheen and opulence are fashion's favorites, shimmer-spun makeup is a must, beauty experts agree.
World beauty leader Avon has created the total head-turning look: Night Fantasies. It's a make-up collection of four products to design a vibrant, glowing aura. Passionate frosted shades highlight and emphasize lips and nails creating a dramatic contrast against our darker skin. And there are overglazes to top shades dazzlingly, or shimmer alone.
Add new dimensions to your makeup with Face and Body Powder. It puts Moonsilver Sparkle on eyes, cheekbones, or anywhere you want to shimmer. And for extra dazzle, Sparklers for Nails offers twenty twinkling rhinestones you set into your manicure — a spectacular effect.
No matter what skin tone you have, Night Fantasies enhances it with all the suspense and surprise you need to devise your most glamorous holiday looks. Ask your Avon Representative to show you how. If you don't have one, call 800-858-8000.

By Brion M. Tyson
AFRO Staff Writer

Last Sunday, Nov. 10, St. James Episcopal Church, located at Lafayette Avenue and Arlington Avenue, held its Annual Women's Day Celebration. Over 300 members and friends attended this glorious celebration held to give honor and recognition to the many dedicated women of the church.

Smiles could be seen on the faces of the many members who attended this memorable occasion as they happily joined in worship and recognition of the women of St. James Episcopal Church. It was undoubtedly a joyful day for the women, the result of nearly a year's planning and several months of hard work. Anticipation was in the air at the 10 a.m. service, but by the end of the day, no one was disappointed.

Present as the Women's Day speaker was one of the most outstanding black women of this century Dr. Deborah Partridge Wolfe. Dr. Wolfe, who currently serves as a professor of education at Queens College in New York, is a former education chief with the Committee on Education and Labor of the House of Representatives.

Noteworthy is the fact that during her tenure in that office, 35 laws affecting education were effectuated.

Dr. Wolfe also currently serves as the permanent representative to the United Nations for Church Women United. During her presentation at St. James' she proved to be the riveting speaker that all had anticipated. Her oration generated a tremendous amount of enthusiasm among the congregation.

Also on this day the St. James' Women's Day Committee paid tribute to the women of the church by honoring 22 church-women, all of whom were 80 year old or older.

The honorees were Mrs. Weida Alston, Mrs. Carrie Armstead, Mrs. Irene Bennet, Mrs. Laura Butler, Mrs. Bertha Chapman, Mrs. Jeanette Christmas, Mrs. Beatrice Collins, Mrs. Rachael Cooper, Mrs. Mamie Cosby, Mrs. Ethel Covington, Mrs. Lucretia Evans, Mrs. Ethel Hucles, Mrs. Jemina James, Mrs. Edythe Myers, Mrs. Alice Parham, Mrs. Bessie Reavis, Mrs. Freda Service, Mrs. Hattie Tilghman, Mrs. Ethel Watts, Mrs. Alice William, and Mrs. Florence Wright.

The congregation cheered and showed great approval for the honoring of these senior women who have given years of dedicated service to this outstanding West Baltimore Church.

ENON BAPTIST CHURCH

Also last Sunday, Enon Baptist Church, located at Edmondson Avenue and Schroeder Street, observed its Annual Women's Day. The church received a large turnout. Everyone seemed to enjoy the celebration.

With appreciation, the large congregation packed into the church's sanctuary at 11 a.m. to hear the Women's Day speaker, Baltimore Circuit Court Judge Mable Houze Hubbard, who is also a member of Huber Memorial United Church of Christ. Her speech was a thoughtful and very interesting one.

"Yes, I think that she was an excellent speaker for Women's Day. Not only is Judge Hubbard a great speaker, she's a good Christian and outstanding role model as well!" said Annie Freeman, who attends Enon Baptist Church.

At 3:30 p.m., the Women's Day Committee presented "Women In White" Rev. Agnes N. Fields, associate pastor of Psalmist Baptist Church was the guest speaker. It was a fantastic presentation and a pity for all who missed it.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF BACKRIVER, MD

For the first time in history, 12 women preachers will be speaking at First Baptist Church, Backriver, MD.

This historical event is being sponsored by the International Bishops' Conference Inc. and the A.E.W. Institute. Both of these influential organizations were given birth in Baltimore and are very proud of their accomplishments thus far.

A.E.W. Institute is chaired by Eugene Glover, who is also bishop of The Cathedral of the Living Word. Bishop Glover oversees churches in England, Florida, and has his sights on Barbados. He is also a member of the International Bishops' Conference. As a point of reference, A.E.W. is named in memory of one of the I.B.C.'s late and distinguished women preachers, Rev. Amanda E. Williams.

"I have no problem with anyone who preaches Christ, male or female," said Bishop Glover.

The International Bishops' Conference is headed by Isaiah D. Hill, who is also bishop of the First Baptist Church in Backriver where this historical event will be held beginning Tuesday, Nov. 19 at 7:30 p.m. The event will end Dec. 21. However, these women preachers can be heard on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursdays only.

"Our fight is not against blood, but principalities and wickedness in high places and rulers of darkness," said Bishop Hill.

"As long as the message is being spread and people are being helped, we are happy. If we're not careful, we as Christians can become hung up on petty things and forget what the Gospel is all about," Bishop Hill said.

The schedule for the 12 women preachers will be: Nov. 19, Rev. Carol Fields, assistant pastor of Union Chapel A.M.E. Church; Nov. 20, Rev. Victoria Gibbs, associate minister of Mt. Calvary Holy Temple Church; Nov. 21, Rev. Dorothy Thomas, associate minister of Whitestone Baptist Church; Dec. 3, Rev. Virginia Henry, assistant church mother of Mt. Calvary Holy Temple; Dec. 4, Rev. Florence Cornish, associate minister of First Baptist Church of Backriver; Dec. 5, Rev. Inez Murray, associate minister of Mt. Calvary Holy Temple; Dec. 10, Rev. Asdean Johnson, associate minister of Cornerstone Baptist Church; Dec. 11, Rev. Dorthea Coleman, associate minister of The Cathedral of the Living Word; Dec. 12, Rev. Karen Watters, minister at the Upperoom of Christ; Dec. 17, Rev. Mary Ann Harris, associate minister of Community Baptist Church; Dec. 18, Rev. Sandy Moore, associate minister of Grace A.M.E., and Dec. 19, Rev. Carol Glover, associate minister of The Cathedral of The Living Word. also, there will be choirs visiting each night. The church is located at 1613 Hopewell Ave. in Backriver, MD. All are welcome.

HERITAGE UNITED CHURCH OF CHRIST

On Sunday, Nov. 24 an important event will take place at Heritage United Church of Christ, 3106 Liberty Heights Ave. Speaking on this long - awaited day will be the dynamic Consuela Newton. Her topic will be "Seeing the Inner Mirror of Our Daily Life."

Mrs. Newton's popularity as a guest lecturer and workshop leader for colleges and organizations is evident in her overflowing classes and the repeated demand for her appearance across the country. Her lecture will provide a vital learning experience.

She has appeared on television and radio nationally and is the originator of the Integrated Awareness Technique — a special process to link the intuition and the conceptual mind for rapid control of inner awareness in five days and is taught internationally.

"This popular, dynamic speaker will stimulate us to examine the mundane experiences of our lives and family for a full understanding that even the smallest effect in our lives exists according to our silent but charged commands. Methods to channel these commands to produce a more productive and error - free existence will clearly be stressed," the AFRO was told.

This innovative lecture will begin at 8 p.m. Admission will be $5 at the door.
