'Hi-rise' for elderly, handicapped is dedicated

The Allendale Center, $9.3 million hi-rise housing complex for the elderly and the handicapped, was officially dedicated by Mayor Schaefer on Dec. 10.

Located at 3600 W. Franklin St., the 12-story facility is comprised of 164 one-bedroom apartments including 22 units for the handicapped.

The project was financed through the Maryland Community Development Administration.

The fully-occupied Allendale Center also includes a medical clinic, laundry room, lounge, community room and a 41-space parking lot.

Joining the mayor during Tuesday dedication presentation were Thomas Hobbs, regional director of the Baltimore Office of Housing and Urban Development (HUD); Theodore Rogers, project developer; Marion Pines, commissioner of the Neighborhood Progress Administration (NPA), and Margaretta Harriston, interim president of the Allendale Tenant Council.

Notary Public renewal asked

The current notary public commissions will expire on July 1, 1986. Because of the tremendous workload the Office of the Secretary of State will incur during the upcoming months we are now looking ahead in an effort to facilitate the renewal process.

To ensure that all 66,000 renewals of notary public commissions are processed in a timely and efficient manner, the Secretary of State has placed a moratorium on the processing of all new notary applications received after December, 1985.

The new applications will be received but will not be processed until after the renewal process is completed. The moratorium will allow the office to fully direct its energy towards the renewal process.

Holiday Time is... PARTYTIME!

TRIPPING the light fantastic was the order of things at the Christmas party given by the Committee X. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Scott were among the enjoyees.

William Lockwood and Mrs. Elaine Brown try out for the dance floor during the festivities. The Committee X Christmas is a production of the Committee X—which was formed for this express purpose.

Mrs. Alice Payne and James Dorsey are into an animated conversation as they swoop and swirl across the dance floor. No word on whether they indulged in the good old "dip."

Mr. and Mrs. George Barrick take a turn on the floor, and are agreed that the Committee X's mission — throwing a Christmas party — is an admirable one. It should continue forever.

Alpha Wives

THE ANNUAL Christmas party of the Alpha Wives was indeed a gala occasion, as the officers lined up for an official picture. (L to R) Mrs. Margaret Driver, vice president; Mrs. Catherine Adams, chairman of the party committee; Mrs. Mildred Campbell, president; Mrs. Ellen Johns, treas.; and Mrs. Catherine Stansbury, secretary. Mrs. Margaret Land, fin. secy., is not shown.

Pausing to smile for the photographer are Mrs. Dorothy Brown, Mrs. Harriet Jones, Mrs. Olivia Dixon and Mrs. Frances Jolly. They were participants in the annual party given by the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity wives, which was held at the Fontaine Bleu recently.

PARTYLINE

(NOTE — Elizabeth M. Oliver is guest columnist this week during Pattie's absence)

What with Yule parties already scheduled, enjoyed and planned for, don't lose sight of the January galas coming up in a few days after your New Year's Eve bashes. There are some after - the - Christmas celebrations you must not miss.

JO ROGERS SLOAN RETIREMENT BANQUET

The invitations are in the mail so don't get them mixed up with unopened greeting cards or you will be late for the grandest affair which opens the January season. Set for Jan. 10 at the Forum is the gala evening marking the retirement of Jo Rogers Sloan who leaves the Red Cross as an administrator and puts behind her one of the longest and most illustrious careers in the field of Social Service across America and abroad.

She is the wife of Bar Association Secretary Atty. David Sloan and Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority Epsilon Omega Chapter and the vivacious Grammateus.

Joy of her life is Jo's granddaughter Niki of course and the memories of the time in her career when she placed children of all nationalities in wonderful homes for the Pearl Buck Adoption Foundation.

50TH ANNIVERSARY CITYWIDE YOUNG PEOPLES FORUM

Dec. 27 is the date set for the 50th Reunion of the members of the Citywide Young Peoples Forum which really began Baltimore's NAACP and the fight for full citizenship and involved all the leaders of that era as well as today in school, church and the community at large.

The stellar event will be at the 4304 St. Paul St. residence of Dr. Keiffer and Nanette Mitchell. At 7 p.m. the expected 100 and distinguished guests will be greeted by Atty. Juanita Jackson Mitchell and then there will be delicious food, reminiscences from everyone, programs and photos and pictures and memorabilia from that long ago day when Dr. Carl Murphy, local jurists, ministers and teachers led the way.
