Lee scores at Eastwind

By Brion Tyson

A four-bout boxing card at Martin's Eastwind Wednesday night called "A Night of Entertainment" honored Senator Joseph Bonevegna and Councilman Dominic "Mimi" Di Pietro for outstanding community service.

The two honorees received awards minutes before the main event which featured Maryland light-heavyweight champ, Mike Lee and veteran boxer, Eric Winbush from New York.

The capacity crowd showed great enthusiasm for each of the well balanced matches. Only one ended early. Roy Deal came on strong late in round one of the first prelim bout to KO Calvin Hardy. Both fighters threw plenty of punches. The round was praised for its action.

In other prelim bouts, welterweight Greg Hawkins beat opponent Jerry West unanimously in four rounds, and Jr. Middleweight Victor Davis stayed on top of Tim Davis to also win unanimously in four.

In the main event Mike Lee outpointed the veteran Winbush to win a ten-round decision.

...and this was only a part of the welcoming crowd of Bears' fans...

Chicago: a city gone bonkers

CHICAGO (UPI) — Hundreds of thousands of victory-starved Chicago Bears fans braved biting cold and frosty winds Monday to welcome home their Super Bowl champions and celebrate the city's first major sports title in 23 years.

An estimated 500,000 fans, clad in Arctic weather gear, patiently waited after a 90-minute delay for the start of a ticker-tape parade along the LaSalle Street financial district and a rally at Daley Plaza, which was renamed "Bear Plaza" during the Bears' championship season.

The festivities were delayed because the Bears' plane from New Orleans landed at 2:45 p.m. CST at O'Hare Airport, about 90 minutes later than scheduled.

Even the 5-degree temperature and icy northerly winds that dropped the wind-chill factor to 31 below couldn't keep Bears' fans from celebrating the moment the city had been waiting for since the pre-Super Bowl era, when the Bears won the NFL title.

Signs saying "We're warm, Go Bears" could be seen on signposts along the parade route. Fans barked their approval with the team that made barking famous after the Bears' defensive players revealed they sometimes woofed at their opponents to psyche themselves up.

Chartered buses, preceded by mounted police, snaked their way through the financial district as fans clung to lamp posts, leaned out of windows and huddled on the street chanting, "We're No. 1" and "Let's Go Bears."

Lanier to Hall of Fame

Ex-Bear thrilled by choice

RICHMOND, Va (UPI) — Willie Lanier, nicknamed "Contact" because of his fierce tackling style, said Tuesday his election to the Pro Football Hall of Fame sums up everything he had hoped his career would be.

"Happiness, elation, joy all rolled into one," Lanier, now a stockbroker, said.

Lanier, 40, who was raised in Richmond, spurred the Chiefs' defense over the heavily favored Minnesota Vikings in Super Bowl IV. He became the starting middle linebacker in his fourth game and did not relinquish that spot until the last three weeks of his career.

The Chiefs' victory over Minnesota was the second straight Super Bowl in which the champion from the upstart American Football League defeated their National Football League counterpart. The previous year the New York Jets stunned the NFL's Baltimore Colts 16-7 in Super Bowl III.

Lanier was a second-round selection of the Chiefs in 1967, the first year the leagues conducted a combined draft. He retired after playing 11 seasons.

Joining Lanier as 1986 inductees are running back Paul Hornung, defensive back Ken Houston, quarterback Fran Tarkenton and running back Doak Walker.

The 1986 class will meet at the Pro Bowl in Honolulu on Feb. 1-2, and will be formally inducted at the Hall of Fame on Aug. 2.

Lanier, who played at Richmond's Maggie Walker High School and Morgan State in Baltimore, said he would spend the day accepting the realization of being honored.

"I'm going to let this sink in."

Morgan-Coppin clash highlight of weekend

The Morgan and Coppin State basketers are confronted with a busy weekend, one that is highlighted by their first header meeting in Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference competition.

The Bears are returning to the MEAC ranks after a four-year absence; the Eagles are in their rookie year in the league.

The men's and women's teams of both schools clash tomorrow (Saturday) at Morgan's Hill Field House.

Going into the men's contest the Eagles are 3-2 in the league standings. The Bears are 2-2.

Before the Saturday game, the Morgan women have an independent assignment. They host the Lincoln University women tonight (Friday) at 7 o'clock.

And on Sunday they leave along with their male counterparts for Daytona Beach, Fla.

There on Monday both the Bears and Lady Bears take on Bethune-Cookman in MEAC competition.

Refs quit game at Morgan

Wednesday was not a good night for Morgan basketball. Both its teams had problems, the men at home with officials and the women on the road with the opponents.

At Hill Field House, with Delaware State ahead, 66-61, and :37 seconds left to play, referees James Williamson and Bob Tomlinson walked off the floor after having assessed six technical fouls against Morgan coach Nat Frazier.

At the moment, the game is classified as "suspended" in MEAC records.

Meanwhile, at Jersey City Morgan's women's team was absorbing an 68-53 shellacking at the hands of St. Peter's.

The Lady Bears were never a threat, trailing 40-27 at halftime.

HACKER'S CORNER by Don Haskins

The easiest and simplest way to define Tempo is to state that the overall speed of the swing, commencing from the institution of the forward pass to the backswing and follow-thru, is what Tempo is all about. Tempo is the total elapsed time it takes for the execution.

As there are many different shapes and sizes of players, there will be a diversity of swings.

Consider if you will that many of us have different nervous temperaments and blood pressure levels and it is this differentiation of anatomy and pathology that will produce slow, fast or faster swing pace.

The real importance of discussing Tempo is to understand that in the final analysis it is to remind that the individual should not fight the natural tendency to look and swing like someone else because it looks better.

In golf we should be what we are and take that and work with it, getting everything we can extract from it.

Now for Timing:

Timing develops because everything that is done in the golf swing is accomplished with the underscored purpose of having the club head reach the ball through the unhinging of the wrists at the precise moment before the body has had a chance to get in the way of square contact.

It works like this: The shoulders and hands swing the club back with the left hand and side in control of the club while the left knee turns behind the ball allowing the ball of the right foot to restrain the further movement of the transfer of weight.

The legs are shifting weight from one foot to the other while the shoulders are turning completely to the right...that is for right handed golfers. Good timing results from good mechanics-the coordinated movement of the feet and hands-arriving at the impact zone simultaneously. I do not care how good your hand eye coordination is. To have consistently reliable pace and timing, you must use your legs.

I know what you are going to tell me... "That is easy for you to say and do because you know how and your legs are in good shape." To which I might predictably retort:

"How in the world do you think I learned, and more, got my legs in shape? Certainly not be osmosis!! I am confident you got my drift!! Leave the car home...Go for a long walk... Do some knee bends. Jog if you feel disposed. But by all means get off your backside."

Ashe's 'Hard Road to Glory' scheduled for Sunday TV

On Sunday, at 5 p.m., WMAR-TV, will be airing "A Hard Road To Glory," the one-hour made-for-television special on the history of the black American athlete. The program has cleared 18 of the top 20 markets and will air in over 25 percent of the country.

The special traces the history of the Black athlete from his early days in Africa through his years in American slavery to today. Tennis star Arthur Ashe is the on-camera host.

The special is based on his three years of research on the black American athlete.

Acclaimed actor James Earl Jones is the narrator and Grammy award-winning singer and actor Lou Rawls performs the theme song.

"Unlike the athletic history of other racial and ethnic groups, the wins and losses in black athletic history had a direct bearing on the advancement of our people as a group in society," said Ashe.

"A Hard Road To Glory finally brings to television a part of black history that has never before been chronicled in its entirety."

The Hulk and Junkyard Dog featured at Civic Center

World Wrestling Federation heavyweight champion Hulk Hogan again dominates the action when top talents are spotlighted in the seven-event competition at the Baltimore Civic Center Saturday night.

Hogan will be tested by tough Terry Funk as he continues his fast-rising progress in his bid for a top rating.

In co-featured support, a one-hour, time-limit match brings back Tito Santana, intercontinental heavyweight champion, to defend his title against the fiercely aggressive Randy "Macho Man" Savage.

Special added attractions include a 45-minute, time-limit bout between the Junk Yard Dog and the aggressive Adrian Adonis and a 30-minute, time-limit bonus match between Corporal Kirchner and The Iron Sheik.

Three opening 20-minute, time-limit supporting events list Scott McGee vs. Hercules Hernandez; Superfly Snuka vs. Barry O. and Pedro Marales vs. Les Thornton.
