National Baptist Convention to launch million dollar fund drive

BATON ROUGE — For the third consecutive year, the National Baptist Convention, U.S.A. Inc. has called upon its members to embark upon a million dollar fund raising drive.

On Sunday, April 6, members of the 7.5 million member convention are asked to donate at least one dollar for "World Baptist Center Sunday."

The goal is to raise $1 million as the initial payment for the $12 million World Baptist Center planned for Nashville, TN.

Dr. T. J. Jemison, president of the convention, concluded plans for the event during a board meeting in Baton Rouge early in March.

Member churches are asked to life a special offering for this cause on the first Sunday in April. State conventions and district association are also asked to contribute.

The effort has already attracted substantial support. Two churches and one individual have already donated $15,000 apiece to the cause. An additional $80,000 was contributed for the building at a recent convention board meeting.

The NBC/USA Inc., under Dr. Jemison, is no stranger to large nationwide fund-raising efforts. Two years ago, Dr. Jemison called upon the convention to contribute $1 million to help save black Baptist colleges. That goal was met.

Last year, the convention sent $1.3 million from a special appeal to help the famine victims in Ethiopia. A chartered freighter took foodstuffs and other goods to the East African nation.

The center which will house a 500-seat auditorium, office for all the convention's auxiliaries and classroom space for the adjacent American Baptist Theological Seminary, would be the convention's first new building project since 1925, when the Sunday School Publishing Board offices were completed in Nashville.
