PARTYLINE

THIRD WORLD HALLOWEEN FUN

Halloween parties abounded in Charm City last weekend. One of the chummiest was hosted by the Third World and Minority Students at the School of Public Health at Johns Hopkins University. Held at the Ralworth Ave. home of Andrea Taylor, a third-year doctoral candidate in Health Policy at the university, and attended by a mob of merrymakers, the party, which began at 9 p.m., was still going "full steam ahead" at 3:30 a.m.

The zestful pot-luck menu boasted curried chicken, macaroni and cheese, assorted other munchies and goodies, and, of course, cocktails and other sippables.

Music for the revelers was provided by disco deejay Charles Anderson, and many tried their latest steps, in tune with the tone of the evening.

To add to the festivity, guests Sue Barbour, JoAnne Sweeney and Sheryl Henderson did a lip-sync to the Supremes' "Stop in the Name of Love" which was heartily enjoyed by all.

The fun fest Halloween bash was coordinated by Barbara Sugland and her committee.

GATSBY'S HALLOWEEN FOR KIDS AND ADULTS

The New Gatsby's 1817 N. Charles St. called all goblins, ghosts and monsters on Friday, Oct. 31, Halloween night, for their first Kiddie Halloween Party. The celebration was a great success.

Many kids appeared in a variety of costumes, from Wonder Woman to Teddy Ruxpin to King Kong.

A grand prize of $25 was won by the child with the best costume, and plenty of candy and other treats were consumed during the 6 until 9 p.m. event. The kids had such a wonderful time that many asked to stay longer.

Later on that night, from 10 p.m. until 5 a.m., the adults went trick-or-treating. A $100 grand prize was given to the best or scariest costume. To add to the fun, a special "Fright Show" was presented.

TAURUS, LTD. HALLOWEEN BASH

Another fun-filled Halloween party also held Friday, Oct. 31 was hosted by members of Taurus, Ltd. at the Liberty Social Club, 4600 Liberty Hts. Ave.

Nearly 100 folks came out (many in costume) to enjoy black-eyed punch, beer, munchies and food and sippables of the BYOB & F (Bring your own bottle and food) variety.

There was also much dancing to the disco music played throughout the evening, which began at 10 p.m. and lasted until 4 a.m.

Money prizes for the best costume and for the sexiest lady were awarded to two lucky winners. Cynthia Young won for "Best Costume," and Jean Boone for "Sexiest Lady."

Taurus Club president is James Watts.

SANDY'S FORMAL B'DAY DINNER

While everyone else was "into" Halloween festivities, Sandra "Sandy" East, whose birthday fell on Halloween decided to have an elegant formal dinner Sunday, Nov. 2 to celebrate her birthday.

With a table as long as a runway artfully decorated in three sections -one pink with black dishes, one rose with pink and white dishes and the other white with black and white flowered dishes, Sandy's guests, who arrived in formal togs at 4 p.m. sat down to gustifly savor and devour a sumptuous menu, all prepared by Sandy.

There was for each guest half a roast chicken stuffed with wild rice, baked sliced white potatoes, a spicy tomato salad, a broccoli and cauliflower combo, crescent rolls, applesauce nut cake and cream cheese pound cake with ice cream. Sandy must have stayed up all night to prepare all that delicious food. There were brandy alexanders and other sippables to tempt the palate.

Out to enjoy the delectables and camaraderie, as well as to celebrate with Sandy (who only asked unselfishly for gifts of money to her church, 1Providence Baptist), and to the AFRO's Mrs. Santa) were Nedra East, Jon Miji, Darcell Morris, Nathalia East-Roberts, Sheryl Woodland, Gene Roles, Marjorie Jennings, Leonard Boone, Valerie Dean, Linda and Charles Brown, Angie McClain, Andrea and Sherman Abraham, Vivian and Fred Bailey, Sandy Stefanos, Ricky Maker, Calvin Woodland, Timothy Wilson and Greta Parker and yours truly.

Guests lingered past the 8 p.m. deadline to chat and to add their own party panache to Sandy's.

MATINEE ENSEMBLE CLUB ENTERTAINED

The Matinee Ensemble Club was entertained this month during the second meeting of the club year by Roslyn Wood at her home.

Following the business meeting and luncheon, the group was enthusiastically inspired by a talk from Miss Denise Dorsey, Graphic Artist from the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspaper. Miss Dorsey gave a sketch of her responsibilities and what it takes to make a successful paper come alive.

Those guessts who joined the members in giving Miss Dorsey accolades were the Rev. Kelly Jackson, Miss Rose Kinney, Mrs. Phyllis Barnum, Iona Wood Collins, Twilah Williams Grant, Bertha Jordan and Albert B. Wood.

Many participants promised to take out subscriptions to the AFRO following the meeting.

Members present were Mrs. Odell Payne, Lucy Smith Swain, Esther Whyte Bailey, Sarah Darkins and Viola Jackson. Other members unable to attend were Mrs. Ruth Brown, Gloria Barnes Johnston and Catherine Dixon.

SIGMA GAMMA RHO PLANS FOUNDERS' DAY

During the Week of November 9-16, the Baltimore Chapters of Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority, Inc. will observe the anniversary of the collegiate sorority's founding.

The national Greek Letter organization was founded in 1922 on the campus of Butler University in Indianapolis, IN. Today, there are over 350 chapters throughout the United States, the Caribbean and Africa. The women of the sorority unite their efforts toward community service that improves human conditions. Priority considerations include support for academic achievement, leadership development and service to the elderly.

On November 9, members of Sigma Gamma Rho sorority will worship with the congregation of Union Baptist Church. On that afternoon at 4:30 p.m., also at Union, there will be a public meeting. Academic incentive awards for three Baltimore City Public Schools will be presented to principals Dr. Gwendolyn Cook, Mrs. Jerrell Francois and Mrs. Jean Owens. Talented students will perform and Dr. Freeman A. Hrabowski, Vice President for Academic Affairs, Coppin State College, will address the audience.

On the following Saturday at 12:30 p.m., the Founders Week observance will culminate with a luncheon and fashion show at the Forum, 4210 Primrose Ave. Ms. Yvonne F. Lansey, Executive Vice President, ideal Savings and Loan Association will receive the sorority's 1986 "Woman on the Move" Award.

Fashions presented will be by Pauline Brooks' Boutique. Subscription proceeds will go

Deltas' costume ball—colorfully festive!

ENNISE BLACK-BLOOM (R) holding her fruit headpiece of blinking lights and shining in her gold lame outfit as Carmen Miranada, won the prize for 'Most Creative' costume presented by Gloria Marrow, founder of the Baltimore County Alumnae Chapter, Delta Sigma Theta sorority at the chapter's second annual benefit costume ball held at Martin's West Friday, Oct. 31.

FOUNDER SORROR MARROW (R) laughs it up with a group of costumed revelers.

The red and white of Delta changed to orange and black on Friday, Oct. 31. It was Halloween and the Baltimore County Alumnae Chapter, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. held its second annual benefit costume ball at Martin's West.

Black and orange balloons with streamers waved down gaily from the chandelier on the nearly 400 Deltas and their guests. Tables were festooned with orange tablecloths and napery, and held colorful pumpkin centerpieces, orange witches' hats to identify sorors' guest areas and favor bags of candy corn, miniature pumpkins and Halloween stickers for each guest.

The beat went on all evening, with music by MUSZAK, replete with soulful vocalist Denise Randall.

Punk rockers danced with ballerinas, a Count Dracula with a speckled cat. Cave Man and his Cave Lady made the rounds, as did the black cat and his lady cat in white. The Pope and the graduate rapped at a table as they savored the fun on the dance floor. African princesses, (with several Cleopatras) and harem girls got a piece of the action, and nuns, ghosts, goblins, pirates and Indians cavorted merrily throughout the evening.

There was continuous open buffet and bar, with a cocktail hour of hors d'oeuvres preceding, during the 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. evening. Goodies for dinner included tossed salad, southern fried chicken, Shrimp Creole, hot roast sirloin of beef, rice pilaf, Italian mixed vegetables, a dessert of strawberry mousse, and beverages, with the coffee station open during the entire affair.

All were merry and filled with the camaraderie of the evening. Many were winners.

During the costume parade competition, Eunice Black-Bloom won a print (picture) for 'Most Creative. She came as Carmen Miranda with blinking
