Ueberroth chides U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth Tuesday suggested the United States use force against drug-producing nations in an effort to combat drug abuse in this country.

"We are losing the battle against drugs considerably," he said. "You are being misled by the political arena. A lot of politicians want to get re-elected right now so they are running around against drugs . . . until election day."

Speaking at a breakfast for the Association for a Better New York on the morning after the New York Mets won the World Series, Ueberroth praised the $1.7 billion anti-drug bill signed by President Reagan Monday.

"We need to dry up the source, with force, but preferably with diplomacy," Ueberroth said. "This first step needs to be done to make real progress. Some type of action must be taken with the countries that produce this rat poison. To me, as a parent, they are more of a terrorist than the one in Tripoli."

The commissioner pointed to baseball's success in handling the drug problem.

"I said baseball virtually eliminated the problem," Ueberroth told an audience speckled with Mets hats. "We won't have any more scandals. It should encourage schools and businesses. If one institution can defeat the problem, others certainly can."

Champion Marvelous Marvin Hagler and challenger Sugar Ray Leonard

Hagler lets Sugar Ray know 'no more playing around now'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Marvin Hagler has suspended diplomatic relations with Ray Leonard until after April 6.

Hagler made that clear Monday at a news conference to announce his middleweight title defense against Leonard, scheduled for 12 rounds at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas, Nev. The champion acted like the fight was sooner than five months away.

He made it clear that, for him, there's no more playing around.

"There's no friends in the ring," Hagler said. "This is war, and I come to fight. I've been looking forward to this fight for a long time. I've been saving my body and saving my mind just for this occasion.

"The only reason this fight is taking place is because I'm giving him the opportunity."

Leonard tried to thank Hagler for the opportunity. When he was introduced at the press conference, he proclaimed the bout "a promoter's dream."

"Before we start, I want to thank Marvin," Leonard said.

Leonard walked to where Hagler was sitting and extended his hand. Hagler stared straight ahead, ignoring the former welterweight and junior middleweight champ. Leonard shuffled back to the microphone, a bit embarrassed.

"Apparently he has his fight face on," Leonard said.

Promoter Bob Arum said Hagler is guaranteed $12 million and Leonard $11 million, making it the richest bout in history.

Hagler was listed a 4-1 favorite in the opening odds posted Monday at the Caesars Palace Sports Book. The lopsided odds are due to Leonard's inactivity and concern over his 1982 surgery to repair a torn retina in his left eye.

Since he publicly challenged Hagler on May 1, Leonard has been asked to defend his decision to re-enter the ring. He retired in 1982, and again after a one-bout comeback against Kevin Howard in 1984.

Leonard was examined by a battery of doctors, including three eye specialists, in Las Vegas Oct. 24-25, and was given a clean bill of health. The examination was required before the World Boxing Council and Nevada Athletic Commission would sanction the fight.

Assault rap dropped against 'Oil Can' Boyd

CHELSEA, Mass. (UPI) — Prosecutors have decided not to press criminal assault charges against Boston Red Sox pitcher Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, who was accused of attacking two police officers.

"The matter has been dropped," said George Kalafatis, Boyd's agent. "It's a relief for all of us. It was a distasteful experience to say the least."

The decision to drop the action was made at a hearing in Chelsea District Court to determine whether criminal counts of disorderly conduct and assault and battery should be brought against Boyd for a July 15 confrontation with two police officers who had followed him to his Chelsea condominium.

Assistant Court Magistrate Bob O'Leary said the right-hander's star status had nothing to do with the disposition of the case.

"Both parties agreed to the dismissal," O'Leary said. "Both of them must have realized nobody was going to gain anything by it. The Commonwealth sure wasn't."

"Whatever problems the young man had at that point appear to be behind him," Chelsea City Solicitor Simon Leeming said. The altercation in the suburb north of Boston occurred after Boyd had walked out on the team after learning he had not been selected for the American League All-Star team.

The team suspended Boyd, who was then 11-6, for three weeks.

Zina and Lori among top 15

Zina Garrison and Lori McNeil, proteges from the same Houston (Tex) tennis program, this week are among the leading 15 money winners of the women's pro tennis circuit.

Zina is in ninth place with 1986 earnings of $196,121. Lori, a late bloomer in world class racquet play, is 15th with $133,469.

Thorpe closes on Cal Peete

Jim Thorpe's victory in the PGA match-play tournament last weekend at Tucson netted a $150,000 pay check and a positive move upward among pro golf's money winners.

It also enabled the long-hitting Virginian to close in on fellow-black Calvin Peete.

Peete has picked up $374,953 and 12th place in 1986 earnings, while Thorpe has collected $326,087 for 15th place.

Calvin and Jim finished the 1985 season in third and fourth positions on the list of 100.

'Keep present assistants' is message to Bob Wade

By Sam Lacy

From all indications, the transition from Dunbar High School to his new post as head coach at the University is progressing smoothly for Bob Wade.

Wade and players participating in early workouts at Cole Field House appear to be drawing close each day. It could be that the bulk of the squad is made up of freshman and sophomore hopefuls who are themselves not for removed from the scholastic ranks.

The only thing still in limbo is the composition of Wade's understaff.

Three men who were on the staff of former coach Lefty Driesell-Oliver Purnell, Ron Bradley and Jeff Adkins -- remain on the scene (as of Thursday). However, only Purnell is said to have been made a job offer.

Bradley, though still around, has said his status is uncertain. There has been little or no determination with regard to Adkins, whose role is that of graduate assistant.

Friends of Wade are expressing a hope that he will retain both Purnell and Bradley.

As a rookie head coach, he very much needs someone who has been exposed to the tough Atlantic Coast Conference level of performance. The most logical solution, these friends feel, is for Wade to surround himself with some degree of experience.

The persistant rumor continues that Bob wishes to insert Lake Clifton coach Woody Williams into one of the assistant slots. But the question being asked is: why not suggest that Williams wait for at least one year while Wade "gets his feet on the ground" with help from the two men who already "know the ropes."

Maryland Chancellor John Slaughter has adopted a "hand's off" policy since the installation of Wade and Charles Sturtz as interim athletic director.

He insists that the completion of the coaching staff should be left to the discretion of those two.

Bears idle, savor win, await H.U.

Their equilibrium restored after briefly savoring their first win over the previous 30 outings, the Morgan State Bears were back at work this week making plans for their season finale next Saturday (15th).

That's when they meet traditional rival Howard at Washington, buoyed by last Saturday's 21-16 score over University of D.C., also at Washington.

Coach Jesse Thomas and his young Bears insist they are not intimidated by the task of facing a foe that is markedly improved, and which has defeated Morgan five times in the last six years.

The Bears' last win over any foe prior to the UDC victory was a 15-14 squeaker over the Bison in 1983.

Howard's improvement has been scary for all her opponents in recent weeks.

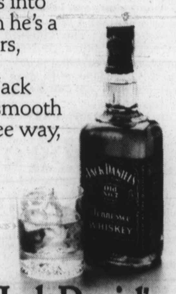
Last Saturday's triumph over Norfolk was preceded by three straight over tough foes — Winston-Salem, Virginia State and North Carolina A&T.

But the Bears say they are ready.

FOR A SOLID MONTH and ten days, this woodworker has focused all his abilities into handcrafting this bookcase. And though he's a bit behind schedule, he won't cut corners, because it must be done right.

This is the same spirit that thrives at Jack Daniel's. We still take the extra time to smooth out our whiskey the slow, old, Tennessee way, drop-by-drop.

So, when you try our Jack Daniel's whiskey, you'll find that, like a great craftsman's finished piece, our rare, smooth sippin' whiskey is the best.



It takes time to be the best. Jack Daniel's.
