The classes will be held on a monthly basis and are open to all interested parents. Classes are free. Interested parents should call 233-4500 between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.

Volunteer 'Judges' Needed

The Better Business Bureau, Inc. is expanding its pool of community arbitrators who will be trained to hold hearings and make final decisions in consumer - business disputes.

The BBB conducts an artibration program in which a customer and business may settle a dispute by taking it before a community volunteer who holds an informal hearing and then makes a final decision of the dispute.

All of arbitration hearings are held during regular business hours and most of them are held at our 401 N. Howard Street office.

A training session will be held Jan. 8, 1987 from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Persons interested in volunteering their time should contact Margaret Baldinger at 347-3986 or 1-800-492-2101 for more information.

Rights Leader To Speak

Mary Frances Berry, distinguished Civil Rights leader, academician and formerly U.S. Assistant Secretary for Education will address the Baltimore Hebrew Congregation on the topic: "Civil Rights: Past and Future" as the Rabbi Morris Lieberman lecturer, Friday, Jan 9 at 8:15 p.m.

She will be introduced by the Rev. Benjamin L. Hooks, Executive Director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, whose national headquarters is now Baltimore based.

Dr. Berry is Professor of History and Law at Howard University in Washington, D.C. and since 1980 she has served as Commissioner on the U.S. Commussion on Civil Rights. In 1983, when President Reagan fired her, she was reinstated by a Federal District Court.

Subsequently she was reappointed by Congress. Dr. Berry has also served as a Provost at the University of Maryland, College Park, and then as Chancellor of the University of Colorado at Boulder.

Dr. Hooks assumed his present office with the NAACP in 1977 after serving on the Federal Communication Commission. As a lawyer in Memphis he was an Assistant Public Defender and later the first Black judge to serve there in the Criminal Court.

He also is the Chairman of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, a broadly based coalition of national Civil Rights, Human Rights, Religious and Labor organizations.

The Rabbi Morris Lieberman Lectureship was established in loving memory of Rabbi Morris Lieberman who served as the spiritual leader of the Baltimore Hebrew Congregation from 1937 to 1970. It seeks to perpetuate his ideals, devotion to free inquiry, and pursuit of excellence.

CONTINENTALS REV UP FOR XMAS CHARITY BALL

The Baltimore Chapter of the Continental Societies, Inc. met last month at the Palladium with Sue Jones, Helen Quarles and Emily Peck as hostesses. A top item on the agenda was discussion of plans for the group's annual Christmas fundraiser set for Sunday, December 28th at Martin's West.

The much anticipated affair again promises to be one of the best of the season. Guests will dine from a bounteous smorgasbord, dance to the music of Bobby Felder's band, renew friendships and celebrate the festive occasion—all this while contributing funds so that the civic-minded Baltimore Continentals can continue their projects for disadvantaged youngsters.

The Continental Societies, local and national, are committed to aid underprivileged children. Last year the Baltimore chapter made cash contributions to AFRO Charities, Camp Farthest Out, Camp Glyndon for Diabetic Children, Scout Camperships, House of Ruth, Kidney Foundation, Echo House, Florence Crittenton Services, League for the Handicapped, Inc., Family and Children's Society and Blue Chip-In. They are also currently funding two $1,000 college scholarships.

In addition, members used their time, energy and skills to implement the organization's national HEER (Health, Education, Employment, Recreation) and Arts and Humanities Program. Two segments of these projects garnered awards at the Society's national conclave in Richmond last June. HEER activities included:

HEALTH — Adopted the Louis T. Murray School during the Baltimore Special Olympics and served as "Huggers" form handicapped children — sent letters and cards to chronically ill children in a "Mail for Tots" program — sponsored an outing to the Barnum and Bailey Circus for 25 young people suffering from sickle cell anemia.

EDUCATION — Sponsored arts and crafts classes and tutoring sessions at the Maryland Educational Opportunity Center for students from school No. 60. Theme for the year was "Learning to Follow Direction by Reading, Listening, and Observing."

EMPLOYMENT — Culminated a three - year employment readiness program begun with 50 tenth grade students in 1983 (25 from Douglass High School and 25 from Edmondson) — provided with the help of local businesses job experiences for students who had never worked before - took students on a field trip to AAI never worked before - took students on a field trip to AAI Corporation in Cockeysville, Maryland, where students were interviewed by company officials, using resumes the students had prepared - held reception for students and their parents and awarded certificates for achievement to all graduates who had participated in the program.

RECREATION / CULTURAL ARTS — Worked with children from Montrose in the following ways: sponsored a workshop on make-up and skin care - held Sports Day at Montrose and gave awards to participants - took children from Montrose to participate in the "Citizens Celebrating Baltimore" program.

DELICADOS WESTERN STYLE

Recently, The Baltimore Chapter of Delicados, Inc. hosted their fourth annual Western Nite Dance at the Pikesville Community Hall to benefit their Scholarship Program and Health Project.

This year's scholarship recipient was Miss Kimberli Hammonds, a senior at Morgan State University.

The Baltimore Delicados will also be volunteering their services, contributing needed items and making monetary donations to some of Baltimore's local Nursing Homes.

Previous contributions, assistance and service accomplishments of The Baltimore Chapter of Delicados, Inc. include: The Committee for Sickle Cell Anemia, United Negro College Fund, Adopt-A-Family Program, Mount Washington Pediatric Hospital, patients at Spring Grove Hospital, Laurence Pacquin School for Teen-Age Mothers and presenting smoke detectors, Thanksgiving and Christmas food baskets to needy families.

The Western Nite theme was well executed. The guests and Delicados wore western attire. The Community hall was adorned with chuck wagons, corn stalks, hay, Indian corn, pumpkins and cowboy hats to capture the effect of the evening. Much of the food served depicted the old western days.

Country, western and contemporary music was provided by Disc Jockey, L.J. Unlimited.

In addition, gifts were won by some of the guests. It was truly a fun-filled evening for all.

The Baltimore Chapter of Delicados, Inc. wishes to acknowledge their officers and members for the fiscal year 1986-87: Gloria Herndon, president; Berna Stephens, vice president; Helen Walker, recording secretary; Helen Robinson, corresponding secretary; Ruby Jackson, treasurer; Nikie Boyd, financial secretary; Annie Mountain, chaplain; Gwendolyn Scott, sergeant-at-arms; Barbara Bess, parliamentarian; Doris Smith, historian and Carveretta Parker, presidential advisor.

Other members are Mary Goode, Ruth Horried, Doris Jones, Mellasenah Morris, Cynthia Pope and Madie White.

GLORIA HERNDON (C), president of the Baltimore Chapter of Delicados, Inc., presents Scholarship Award to Kimberli Hammonds, senior at Morgan State University, as Delicado Helen Robinson looks on.

United Presbyterian Women host luncheon—fashion show
