The Living Church

St. James Church honors Fr. Wilson upon retirement

Rev. Donald Octavio Wilson has served the historic parish of St. James Episcopal Church for more than 23 years. The last procession marked the end of a service last Sunday, Jan. 11, 1987 which took place at the church, located at Arlington and Lafayette Aves. for the retired rector.

A native born Costa Rican, Rev. Wilson appears pleased at the program which featured greetings from the Bishop Eastman, the Council of Episcopal Churches, St. James Sunday School and the Baltimore City Fire Dept. Representatives from Johns Hopkins University, the Electric Club and the Boule were present as were as well.

A representative from the city's fire dept. Deputy Chief Henry D. Fowlkes, heaps another honor upon Rev. Wilson, who was a former fire chaplain.

Greetings from the church school were given by Edward Boston, while Pres. Vera B. Flint looks on.

Michael Courtney Watts is baptized by Rev. Wilson.

Black broadcasters gather in District for religious broadcaster convention

The 44th Annual Convention and Exposition of National Religious Broadcasters is scheduled for Jan. 31 to Feb. 4 at the Sheraton Washington Hotel.

Billed as one of the most significant gatherings of religious radio and television professionals, the four day convention will include workshops of all descriptions and a giant trade show.

The National Black Religious Broadcasters, an intricate part of the 4,000 member parent organization, has scheduled a battery of workshops in conjunction with the overall convention to address special needs of black and minority broadcasters. Creative and financing, black foreign broadcasts, black broadcast ownership and agency involvement are only a few of the areas that will be addressed by N.B.R.B. members.

"We are not separating ourselves," says Rev. Clay Evans, president of N.B.R.B. and Pastor of the Fellowship Missionary Baptist Church in Chicago, Illinois. "We must however come together to address specific needs that we as black broadcasters have. We are new to this area of international and national television ministries."

"We're playing catch up in many instances . . . They have the expertise and we must come here to learn from them . . . They own the stations . . . As blacks we've got to understand all the things we need so that we can own our own T.V. and radio stations . . . so that we can manage them properly once we have them, that's why it's important that we're here," he said.

Rev. Evans has announced a series of events planned for N.B.R.B. members beginning with a parade from the historic Bibleway Temple at 1100 New Jersey Ave., N.W. at 1:30 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 1. The parade will wind its way through the streets of Washington to the Sheraton Washington Hotel, site of the N.R.B. Convention, where at 2:30 p.m. in the Sheraton Washington Ballroom a gigantic Praise Gathering will take place.

Featured will be Donald Vails Salvation Corporation, The Bibleway Temple Radio and Television Choir under the direction of Dr. Pearl Williams Jones, Felicia Coleman of Chicago, Illinois Rev. Clay Evans and his 200 voice Fellowship Missionary Baptist Church Choir with Milton Biggham and the award winning Richard Smallwood Singers.

The service is free and open to convention delegates and the general public.

A Fellowship Banquet is also planned for Wednesday, Feb. 4th at 12:30 p.m. with guest speaker Anthony Evans of Dallas, Texas. Rev. Evans' appearance at last year's convention is still being talked about. He is heard on more than 65 radio stations across the country.

The convention's theme is "Communicating Christ to the Nations" and Rev. Clay Evans says black broadcasters will take that theme to heart and will leave this four day conclave with renewed determination to carry that message across the country and around the world.
