P.G. COUNTY REPORT

Outstanding educators honored

BY J. SMITH CASON

Prince George's County Chamber of Commerce honored administrators, teachers, parents, students, and business persons for outstanding achievement this past Friday.

The Fourth Annual Outstanding Education Awards Luncheon was held at the Greenbelt Hilton.

Chamber President Paul Rodbell and School Superintendent John A. Murphy awarded certificates to the following honorees: Dr. Gretta Burnett, principal at Rogers Heights Elementary School; Ron Hillard, principal at Bradbury Heights Elementary School; Carrie Irby, principal at District Heights Elementary School; Carol DeBardinis, a teacher at Rogers Heights Elementary School; Lydia Flynn, program coordinator at James Duckworth Special Center and Marian White-Hood, a teacher at William Wirt Middle School.

Also honored, Marilyn O'Dell, a teacher at Tall Oaks Vocational High School; Marian Westman, a student at Bladensburg Elementary School; Erika Scheig, a student at Eleanor Roosevelt High School; Xiang Wu, a student at Northwestern High School; Charlotte McQueeney, a volunteer at William Wirt Middle School and Clifford Lanham, chief of Research and Technical Applications at Harry Diamond Laboratories.

Rich Adams, editorial director of WUSA-TV Channel 9, was the keynote speaker. Adams stated that, "It is good to see the private sector and the school system working together for the betterment of the community." He would like the media to become more involved. The media is a business which depends on the community as a customer.

"We can't operate in a separate vacuum. We must work together," he said.

He would like to see more positive reporting and recognition of businesses and the educational institutions. Public opinion and public support are important to the media.

Adams believes there's no need to import people from other parts of country to staff positions in the area. Businesses and schools should collaborate on educating and training local persons to fill most positions.

Board of Education Chairman Thomas Hendershot and County Council Chairperson Hilda Pemberton, D-7th-Landover, were in attendance.
