Bowie State wins $50,000

In early October, 1986, Bowie State College entered a national marketing competition ("Excellence in Education Marketing Program") sponsored by Pepsi-Cola USA. This project called for a "total team effort" from the entire college community. Campus staff, along with technical assistance from John Hanson Savings Bank, came together and produced a product that was judged to be the best in the country. For this effort, Bowie State College was awarded the top prize of $50,000 by Pepsi-Cola.

When told of the award, James E. Lyons, Sr., president of Bowie State College, said, "This is a very happy day for Bowie State College because it shows what can happen when the 'college family' gets together behind an effort. It also points out the importance of the college/business alliance. John Hanson Savings Bank provided technical assistance to us on this project. Our people and their people worked together committed to showing Pepsi-Cola USA that there are indeed great things going on in Prince George's County at Bowie State College.

Tribble arrested for speeding

HYATTSVILLE, MD. — Brian Tribble, facing a trial next month on a series of charges leveled by the grand jury that investigated the death of basketball star Len Bias, is in legal trouble again.

Tribble is charged with driving twice the speed limit on a Hyattsville road Tuesday morning, and then fleeing on foot after leading police on a chase, authorities said.

An attorney for Tribble told Hyattsville police that Tribble would turn himself in early next week to face charges of speeding, reckless driving, fleeing, eluding a police office and turning off lights to avoid detection, police spokesman Lt. Wayne McCully said Wednesday.

The traffic violations could carry up to one year in jail.

Tribble's 1979 Mercedes 450SL was allegedly clocked at 71 MPH in a 35 mph zone on Queens Chapel Road Tuesday morning, police said.

The driver allegedly continued under police chase, turned off the car lights and abandoned the car.

The incident occurred at about 3:30 a.m., but pursuing officer Michael McKinney said he recognized the suspect as Tribble because of pictures he had seen on the news last summer.

"I have no idea (why he fled)," McCully said. "It was a routine matter that became very complicated."

No drugs or other illegal items were found in the car, McCully said.

Tribble, 24, was indicted by a grand jury last July on various drug and obstruction of justice charges in connection with Bias's death.

Tribble is charged with supplying the cocaine that killed the basketball star June 19, two days after Bias was drafted in the first round by the NBA champion Boston Celtics.

Withholding confuses taxpayers

Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said state income tax offices have been busy fielding questions from taxpayers confused by new federal income tax withholding rates reflected in paychecks issued since Jan. 1.

Many employees apparently believed their Maryland income tax withholding should have been reduced along with their federal withholding. The federal tax reform law changed federal withholding rates for paychecks issued in 1987.

"The new federal law does not affect Maryland withholding rates," Comptroller Goldstein said. "Employers should continue to use the Maryland Withholding Guide issued by the income tax division of our office to calculate correct withholding rates."
