The Measure of a Man

"The ultimate measure of a man is not where he stands in moments of comfort and convenience, but where he stands at times of challenge and controversy."

MARTIN LUTHER KING JR., 1929-1968

Douglas raps Assembly leaders promise to Douglas regarding the treasurer appointment.

The constitution states there can be no deals made when appointing the chief deputy state treasurer, Mitchell commented.

"I served with John for many years and he did a great job on the Joint Budget and Audit Committee," Mitchell said. "I was surprised by his resignation,"

Douglas said he resigned to protest the unfair treatment black legislators have received.

"These disclosures here today and the bringing of this system into the public's eye, will hopefully, force it to mend its ways and to, in the future, treat black legislators fairly,' Douglas remarked.

The list of former state legislators and their new jobs include:

Paul Alpert, Court of Special Appeals; Carl W. Bacharach, District Court, District 1; John J. Bishop, Jr., Court of Special Appeals; John Hanson Briscoe, Circuit Court, 7th Judicial Circuit; John Carrol Byrnes, Circuit Court, 8th Judicial Circuit; John Printz Corderman, Circuit Court, 4th Judicial Circuit; Gerard F. Devlin District Court, District 5; William T. Evans, District Court, District 8; Sol Friedman, District Court, District 1; John J. Garrity, Court of Special Appeals; Darrow Glaser, District Court, District 11; William J. Hinkel, Circuit Court, 3rd Judicial Circuit; Jerry H. Hyatt, District Court, District 6; Leonard S. Jacobson, Circuit Court, 3rd Judicial Circuit; Martin A. Kircher, District Court, District 1; Rosalie Abrams, Office on Aging.

John Bambacus, Frostburg State University; Kay Beinen, Department of State Planning; Bert Booth, General Assembly Maryland; Torrey Brown, Secretary, Department of Natural Resources;

William Burkhead, Maryland Automobile Insurance Fund; William B. Byrnes, Department of Transportation, Motor Vehicle Administration; Arthur S. Drea, Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission; Cornell Dypski, Department of Transportation, Motor Vehicle Administration.

Marilyn Goldwater, Department of Health and Mental Hygiene; Frank Heinz, Public Service Commission; Ann Hull, Governor's Staff (Governor Hughes); William James, State Treasurer; John J. Kent, Department of Health and Mental Hygiene; Charles Krysiak, Workmen's Compensation Commission; Alfred J. Lipin, Department of Licensing and Regulation; Lucille Maurer, State Treasurer; Daniel Minnick, Department of Licensing and Regulation; John F. X. O'Brien, State Roads Commission; Department of General Services; Department of Personnel; Office of Governor Hughes;

Joseph Owens, Department of Licensing and Regulation; Robert Redding, Workmen's Compensation Commission; Frank Robey, Department of General Services; Lorraine Sheehan, Secretary of State; Fred Wineland, Secretary of State; John Wolfgang, Maryland Parole Commission; Ernest A. Loveless, Jr., Circuit Court, 7th Judicial Circuit; Thomas Hunter Lowe, Court of Special Appeals; James S. McAuliffe, Jr., Circuit Court, 6th Judicial Circuit; Alan M. Simpkins, Circuit Court, 1st Judicial Circuit; Edward O. Weant, Jr., Court of Special Appeals; Frederick Wright, III; Circuit Court, 4th Judicial Circuit.

State-of-State high on education

blems and provide long-term solutions."

Schaefer proposed an 11-year, $368 million plan to reform the state prison system.

The most important and controversial proposals facing this session include a higher education plan to consolidate 11 public colleges and universities; a $290 million light rail transit system which will run from Glen Burnie to Baltimore; a statewide mathscience high school; a change in the judicial election process; and an 11-year $330 million prison program.

Although the first day of the Assembly was ordinary, legislators had different views on the coming days of the session.

"Education will be very high on the agenda," said head of the Ways and Means Committee Delegate Tyras S. Athey D-32.

"There's sort of a feeling in the air of getting things moving a little quicker than we usually do," he continued.

But some members disagreed.

"I think this will be a more raucous Assembly," commented Senator Clarence Blount D-41. "The transit rail system will be a very controversial issue. The D.C. metropolitan and rural counties will try to stop it because they think it will take money from projects in their areas. The Governor will have a hard time trying to get it passed."

The Black Caucus was pleased that Morgan State University was not included in the 11 school consolidation plan because that is what Morgan wants, Blount said.

Blount added that Morgan could be in or out of the plan and not receive any additional money.

"What's important is they get the funds they need," he continued.

Legislation concerning Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome and education about AIDS should be introduced because the disease may destroy the black community, Blount stated.

"Blacks don't believe it's a dangerous disease, Blount continued. "It's gonna wipe us out if we're not careful."

"We're gonna have to change our own moral code for self preservation," Blount said. "We used to talk about 'The Man' trying to commit genocide on blacks but now that we've got AIDS there is no need for 'The Man' to talk about genocide."

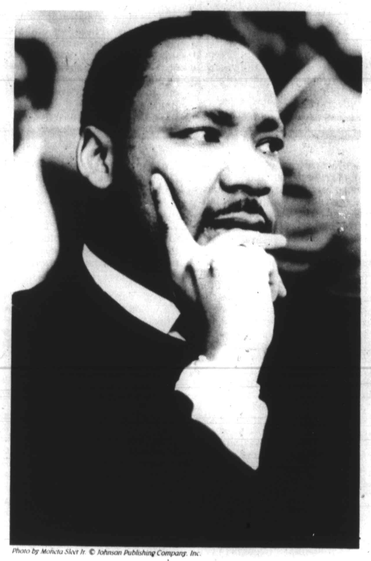
Topics of proposed bills which may affect the black community include abortion, stricter penalties for those prosecuted for enterprises with controlled dangerous substances and driving under the influence, alimony and child support enforcement, responsibility of grandparents concerning child support and group day care.

Mosher Little League registration

Youngsters are encouraged to come out for the James Mosher League, a West Baltimore baseball tradition for years.

The League, which usually boats about 235 boys and girls, will be holding registration Saturday, Jan. 16 at the Church of the Holy Trinity, Lafayette Ave. and Wheeler Aves.

Registration fees for youngsters ages eight through 16 are $15. Youths 13 through 16 must pay a $20 registration fee. Registration will take place from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.



"There is little hope for us until we become tough-minded enough to break loose from the shackles of prejudice, half-truths, and downright ignorance."

1987 MRS. SANTA CAMPAIGN

The Baltimore Chapter of Sigma Wives donated new toys to this year's Campaign. They were presented by Reva Lewie, President of the organization. She is pictured above with her grandchildren; Candice Thompson, Troy Thompson, and Christel Thompson.

The Retired Enlisted Association, Inc. Chapter 9 and the Chapter 9 Ladies Auxillary made a contribution of $225.00 to our program. They are pictured above making their donation to Elyn Garrett, Mrs. Santa Director. Pictured are: Marion Davis, Tres.; Amanda Trotter, Ways & Means Comm. Chair; Julius R. Govan, Trustee; Mrs. Santa; Betty Glenn, Pres.; Ruby Blutcher, Sec.; and Ed Chandler, 1st Vice Pres.

We received food baskets from the Agape Family Outreach Center during the Campaign. Shirley Royster, a member of the center brought the baskets in to us with the help of her son, Marlon Royster.

The Pasha Court No. 1 Drill Patrol contributed $100 to our efforts. Presenting their donation to Mrs. Santa's helper, Wanda Pearson is Dgt. Millie Benns, Dgt. Mary A. Murray, Dgt. Marie Davis and Dgt. Valerie Tucker.

Norman Watkins and Lonnie Hartley of Capitol Auto Insutance added $250.00 to this year's Campaign. They are pictured above making their presentation to Elyn Garrett, Mrs. Santa Director.

Members of the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Inc. added a boost to the Campaign when they brought down 19 food baskets, complete with meals, to be given to our participants. They also added $150 to our fund.
