The Living Church

A WORD OF HOPE

Maxine L. Wallace
Church News Editor

"Let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering; (for He is faithful that promised)." Hebrews 10:23.

Often in life, we find ourselves plagued with questions and doubt. If God really loves me, how come I lost my job? If He really cares, why is it taking me so long to get married? Why didn't He give me that job I interviewed for in 1987? Why can't I afford a SAAB? If God is really real, why do I sometimes get depressed?

Beloved, hold fast to the profession of your faith. The Bible says that we are to trust in the Lord with all our heart, and lean not unto our own understanding.

Have faith in God. Know that in this life, you're going to have trials and tribulations . . . In this life, sometimes your body is going to be attacked by sickness . . . in this life, you're going to have to cry sometimes. But be of good cheer for God has overcome the world.

For a while weeping may endure for a night . . . behold, joy cometh in the morning. For behind every dark cloud, there is a silver lining. Hold fast the profession of your faith. Whatever your circumstances, trust the Lord to do it, and He will make it happen.

Faith is trusting God . . . It is believing God . . . Faith is standing on the promises of God. When you have faith in God, it doesn't matter how dim the lights are in today of your reality, for you already see the brightness of tomorrow.

God wants us to diligently profess our faith in Him. Therefore, beloved, when you are in a hopeless situation, speak words of faith . . . When you come to a dry place in your walk with the Lord, speak words of strength and renewal . . . When you feel like you are bound by forces from within and without . . . speak words of freedom and deliverance . . .

Know that speaking faith words is pleasing to the Lord . . . And not only professing them with your mouth, but believing them in your heart. for the Bible says that without faith, it is impossible to please God.

Hold fast to the profession of your faith. Do not allow anything to shake your faith in God. Be strongly rooted in the Word and pray without ceasing. Then will you be able to declare, "I'm going to be just like a tree planted by the water, I shall not be moved."

Did you know that God is faithful? If God said it, you can believe it . . . you can rely on it . . . you can have it . . . In fact, it is already yours. For God is not a man that He should lie.

God is faithful . . . the Bible says I have never seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging for bread. God is faithful . . . "If you delight yourself also in Him, He will give you the desires of your heart. God is faithful . . . He is a rewarder of them that diligently seek Him. God is faithful . . . He will make a way out of no way . . . He will open doors that no man can close . . . He will close doors that no man can open. God is faithful.

Stand on His promises today . . . Trust the Lord to heal your body . . . Trust Him to heal your relationships . . . Trust Him to give you His love, His joy, His peace . . . Trust Jesus, His only begotten Son whom He gave to die on the cross for our sins, to be your personal Saviour and the Lord of your life.

Church school tends young flock

The children sit half way in their seats. Their enthusiasm and energy make it possible to sit comfortably in their chairs. They must be certain that their teacher, June Brown recognizes their raised hands. Their gestures indicate their knowledge of the answer to the questions that the attractive, poised woman asked them.

"Who are you?" said Brown.

All 22 of the eight and nine-year olds answer: "God's children."

Brown smiles to express her satisfaction with their reply.

In another classroom on the third level of the building, Kathleen Gotha, speaking with a Caribbean accent, tells her nine and ten-year olds the topic of the lesson and the reading assignment as she writes the information on the chalkboard.

It says "The Christmas Story," Matthew chapter 2, verses 1-18.

The robust woman then turns to face the well-mannered yet playful pupils; signals order with a stern gaze.

Quickly, the children remember that they are not at the playground on this sunny and chilly Saturday morning, but at New Shiloh Baptist Church's Saturday School, 823 W. Lanvale St.

Now, under the leadership of Steve Tucker, general superintendent of the school, the children of the congregation receive a first-rate Christian education; one that goes beyond religious instruction.

"Saturday, we have a whole outreach program," said Tucker.

In addition to the weekly religious instruction, the 125 children of the school attend such classes as recording, writing, arts and crafts, typing, cooking, carpentry, and computer training.

"One of our proudest achievements in this church school is that many of its teachers are also teachers in the public school system," said Tucker. "They bring all that expertise here. There is nothing as powerful as having a teacher that can teach, be a Christian and who already knows about Christ and can really teach it."

The highly structured lesson—a prayer precedes it — taught in one Saturday class is a testimony of what Tucker says about his staff of teachers.

In a large room with a high ceiling, there are walls decorated with a poster of the 23rd Psalm, illustrations of Peter telling a crowd of people about God, the fierce wind on the high seas obeying Jesus command, and other educational Biblical material.

Those who occupy the room are having a discussion on the significance of Jesus' birthday. Then the two teachers of the class distribute art materials for the students' use.

The art activity assigned to the students is the making of a birthday card. The sentiments expressed on its cover and interior are all addressed to Jesus.

Shannon Smith, 8, writes a poem in which each alphabet of the word, Jesus, is used to write on the card a word representative of some Biblical person, concept, or action.

Inside the card, with multicolored crayons, the girl writes: "J is for Just Him, E is for Ever Lasting, U is for Uzziah, S is for Seek, E is for Easter, Jesus is My Lord."

The eight and nine-year olds of that class are 15 of some 300 children at the Saturday Church School at New Shiloh.

"This building (adjacent to the church) is totally inadequate to hold all of the children that we have in our church school," said Tucker.

The new building, now under construction, will open its doors on the first Sunday of Oct., 1988.

Currently, construction of the building is taking place on the corner of Monroe and Payson Streets. According to the superintendent, all 300 of the children of the school, as well as the 475 adult students of the adult school, will be able to occupy the building simultaneously.

Tucker is hopeful that New Shiloh's extensive religious curriculum will appeal to the immediate community around the site of the future building.

In the same manner that he won the membership of the church's area youth residing in the church's future community.

A few summers ago Tucker started a basketball program in which boys from the immediate community became team players, and ultimately, church members.

The beauty of that was, that they originally came in the church.....because they wanted to play basketball. But the requirements were that in order to play basketball, you had to go to the church school," said Tucker. "They came to church school to play basketball; but in the process, they were learning about Christ. The school was so good at what they were doing that, when the basketball program disbanded, the boys kept coming (to church school.)."

In addition, Tucker, one of New Shiloh's ministers and once a student of the Saturday Church School's adult division, said in-

Baptist church set apart

The Baltimore Bishops' Conference held a Setting Apart Ceremony at the New Revelation Baptist Church, 301 Independence Ave. on Saturday, Jan. 9.

Ceremonies as such are performed in the Baptist Church as a means of recognizing an individual church within the denominations as having the power to operate as an independent church.

The late George Perry, Bishop of New Revelation and former member of the Bishops Conference, was instrumental in founding of this local church body. However, he died before Recognition ceremony could be completed.

While the church is in process of electing another minister, the congregation felt all Baptist procedures should be followed before calling a minister.

The ceremony, which was opened to the public, consisted of the Bishops' listening to resolutions, approving acting officers, giving of charges to permanent officers and charges to the congregation.

A message of encouragement was delivered by Bishop Molester Hunter, New Hope Christian Church.

He took his text from the familiar passage of scripture found in St. Matthew 16:18: "...Upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

The following bishops participated in the service of worship: Al Dandridge, Alex Young, Frank Bell, Bernel Hall, Samuelson Donaldson, David Tomlin, Eugene Glover, Theodore Fickling, and Isaiah D. Hill, who was the moderator.
