Smile Orchids

Smile orchids to Mrs. Jacqueline Kelly, an Emergency Room registration clerk at Liberty Medical Center. What a comforting manner she has.

We met her and other Liberty Employees during our stay last week and learned that they live up to the hospital's credo, "we do care." Read more about them below.

* * *

Lots of sunshine always in the voice of Mrs. Thelma Daley. She's the former national president of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority who co-chaired the organization's 75th anniversary luncheon on Saturday at the Hyatt Hotel in D.C.

It was a glorious celebration, with over 1,500 members in attendance, and she pulled the whole thing off with a smile!

Just as impressive was the prayer presentation by another former national president, Baltimore's Mae Wright Peck Williams, who keeps a smile in her voice.

* * *

More orchids to Alex McCamey, senior account exec at WEBB. He's a young man who takes time to encourage others and to work in his community. Right now, he's vice president of Fulton Baptist Church male chorus.

They're planning a benefit concert to raise funds to help restore the North Ave. church which was destroyed by fire last year. They're worshipping at Coppin State College. His stepdad, Rev. Douglas Wilson is pastor.

* * *

Mailbag: Lawrence Kelly of Fulton Ave., writes:—" James Cantor is always such a nice, considerate man. He makes you feel good when he delivers the mail."

Please share names of persons whose smiles encourage you. Write, Smiles, If You Ask Me. AFRO-AMERICAN, P.O. Box 1867, Baltimore, Md., 21203, and smile, please.

UB Honors

The 490 grads at the University of Baltimore's 64th commencement Sunday afternoon at the Lyric had a detailed lesson in racism.

It came from commencement speaker Dr. Benjamin C. Whitten, the recently retired president of the Baltimore Urban League.

He quoted from statistical reports to illustrate the cancer of racism in our city and nation and urged the predominantly white audience to help effect change. The university awarded him an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters.

UB president, Dr. H. Mebane Turner drew sustained applause when he awarded a Doctor of Laws degree to former mayor Clarence "Du" Burns. He called him "a remarkable example to this community, a fair and colorblind man . . . a great friend. . . "

Among the grads was Mrs. Edith P. Horsey, the Urban League's fiscal officer for the past 23 years. She received a degree in administrative management.

Families

Family members there: Her husband, Clarence Horsey, her mother, Mrs. Myrtle Sye, her dad, Spencer Edmonds.

Also, her son, Rev. Anthony Horsey, assistant minister Christ-Edmondson United Methodist Church; her daughter, Miss Sherron Horsey, her sister, Mrs. Karen Jackson, and her brother, Rev. Herbert Sye, New Life Inspirational Church.

More faces in the crowd: Urban League board member, Dr. James Priest, and UL STAFFERS Joseph Washington and Richard Rowe, and Mrs. Maude Conaway and Mrs. Glenda Anderson, and Mrs. Whitten, (Lou).

It was a family gathering for our household too. Daughter Rev. Marie Phillips Braxton, now of Portsmouth, VA., was among grads.

Her husband, Rev. Ronald E. Braxton, pastor of Portsmouth's Emanuel AME Church, and their children, Shannon, 7, and Derek, 2, were in the crowd.

So were her sister, Rachael Humphrey and her friend, Sylvia Coleman of Atlanta, and her brother, and sister-in-law, Benjamin and Etvena Phillips of Columbia.

Guests

Among platform guests, Mrs. Vivian Washington, a member of the university's Foundation Board; and Dr. Ralph Waldo Emerson Jones, the UB staffer who was named last week by Mayor Schmoke to become head of the city's Department of Recreation and Parks.

Spied in the academic procession, Dr. Elizabeth Carruthers, the English prof. who has a reputation for encouraging her students to achieve.

Cuff note: U. of Baltimore, located at Charles St. and Mt. Royal in downtown Baltimore, has enrollment of 5,000 students, full and part-time. It boasts it is the only upper level college in the state which serves both junior-senior undergrads and offers graduate and law programs.

"We Do Care"

Ever since the old Provident Hospital became Liberty Medical Center, the signs on ads and in the Liberty Heights Ave. hospital have advised all, "we do care."

After a week's stay there we know these are not empty words. From the time we were rushed to the emergency room last Thursday, until our release a week later, we learned first hand that people at Liberty Medical "do care."

Guess it starts at the top — We noticed chief exec, William Jews, was cordial and paid strict attention as he answered an employee's query when he visited a ward.

And certainly the employees on 4 West have caught the message—everyone we observed was unusually kind, concerned and caring.

Typical of those we met: Mrs. Emmaline Woodson, R. N., the clinical nurse supervisor who very professional, yet friendly manner, impresses. Same is true of Mrs. Rose H. Hynes, R.N., an administrative supervisor.

More Care

Also exhibiting the "we do care" manner was Mrs. Lizzie Strickland, a nursing assistant with 29 years at Lutheran Hospital before it merged to become Liberty. She's member of Macedonia Church of God.

And, so did Roderick Jones, R.N., respiratory therapist who is proud of the training he got at Community College of Baltimore.

And veteran employees like Mrs. Harriet R. Lashley, emergency room medical technician for 30 years. Her pleasant voice lets you know she has other skills. We learned later she sings on choir at Southern Baptist Church, where Rev. Nathaniel Higgs is pastor.

Thirty-one years at old Lutheran before it became Liberty is the record of Mrs. Helen Merritt, whom we had not seen since the 1985 funeral of her husband, Simon Merritt, longtime AFRO pressman.

It was good to learn the children are grown and in meaningful careers. Daughter, Florence Scott is now a bank teller; son, Donald Merritt, heads a vacuum cleaner firm; daughter, Carla Smith is an IBM employee. Youngest daughter, Lelia, attends a county school.

More Ward 4 employees observed at work, exhibiting the "we do care" attitude: Mrs. Harriett Bunch, nursing assistant who is a member of New Psalmist Baptist Church; Jarrett Spruill, a dietary assistant with 29 years experience at the old Providence and whose "enjoy your day" makes patients relax.

Bring Joy

More: Who bring joy to ward 4 — Mrs. Gloria Davis, nurse assistant; and registered nurses, Judy Howell, Dorothy Holley, Myra Marshall, Sarah Canty, who is an IV therapist; and Roberta Ball, Elsie Evans, a houekeeping aide with 16 years service at old Provident.

And Sheila Williams, 17 years years at Old Lutheran; John Todd, the registered dietician, and Theodore Weatherford, lab assistant administrator, medical - surgical services.

* * *

Editor's note: We jotted these names down on the back of an envelope when we watched the persons mentioned here take a blood sample, change the IV feeder needle or wait on other patients. We can truthfully say they and others whose names we did not get are truly caring people and we're proud to know them. Thank God for them.

Extra nod to old friend Tony Ledbetter, one of first employees to cheer us in emergency room when we entered with a painful stomach ache.

* * *

Cuff notes:—Liberty Medical has V.I.P. (Very Important Patients) program, encourages you to call the number and let the hospital prove it is truly "interested in your care, comfort and well-being."

Volunteer in this department is Mrs. Edith F. Harris, the retired Dunbar High Middle School Department head.

Other volunteers spied on duty: retired school execs, Marvin C. Davis, and Miles Harrison in medical records; and Royal White in gift shop.

On the mend: Mrs. Gloria S. Stokes, the retired Clifton Park High department head, was in Liberty, is recuperating at home.

Interfaith

Racism and the need for continued dialogue among people of all faiths and colors were topics discussed at the 28th annual interfaith institute sponsored by the Baltimore Hebrew Congregation Sisterhood on Monday morning.

Episcopal Bisthop A. Theodore Eastman expressed his "particular concern; about race relations in our city. He called for more group meetings with other religions to lessen "one of the greatest gaps in our city"—black and white dialogues.

Baltimore Hebrew Congregation's Rabbi Murray Saltzman moderated. Other keynoters: Rabbi Mark Loeb, Beth El Congregation, and Catholic Vicar General, P. Francis Murphy.

Betty Nachlas is president of the Sisterhood. Marilyn Fisher chaired the event.

Faces in the crowd: Madison Ave. Presbyterian Church members there—Mrs. Leone Felton, Mrs. Bennie Roey, Mrs. Marguerite Daniels. From St. James Episcopal Church, Mrs. Beth Patterson.

From Edgewood United Methodist in Lutherville, Mrs. Clarissa Matthews, Mrs. Esther Jackson and Mrs. Ruth Smith.

Also there, Register of Wills, Mrs. Mary Conaway, who preached her trial sermon on Sunday.

Also, Mrs. Gladys Gross and Mrs. Karen Wilson, the National Conference of Christians and Jews exec, who took names of volunteerss to work in dialogue groups.

About People

Attorney Mary Sue Welcome is in her new post as Baltimore County Assistant Counsel.

* * *

Margaret and Theodore Hythe are praising the smoke alarmers in their N. Carey St. home. The detectors alerted them to a fire in vestibule of their home early last Friday and all occupants were able to escape unharmed. Smoke damage was extensive.

Cuff note: Mr. Hythe buried his brother, Leonard, this week.

* * *

Mrs. Charlotte Johnson, the Pulaski St. good neighbor, is in Union Memorial Hospital.

Also on the mend is Mrs. Bernard Harris, Sr. (Ethel), who marked her 90th birthday in November.

* * *

Travel note: Rudy and Noel Redd are in from a holiday in St. Thomas Virgin Islands. He's the retired Aberdeen Proving Ground chemical engineer.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. William Coffey of Ellicott City were in Raleigh, N.C. last week for the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Bessie Coffey. Mrs. Coffey is the East Baltimore businessman, Mrs. Coffey is the Morgan U. English prof.

Carver hosts Education Week

Carver Vocational Technical High School will celebrate "Education/National Education For Business Week" Feb. 8 through Feb. 12.

A continental breakfast will launch the first day's activity — a Kick-off Seminar Day, Monday. Seminars will be held for tenth, eleventh and twelfth graders. Participants will also tour the school's trade shops.

Mayor Kurt L. Schmoke will address the students the next day as part of the "City and State Government Officials Day."

On Wednesday, "Feeder School Day," eighth grade students will tour various trade shops to understand vocational and trade schools.

A fashion show, luncheon and cosmetology and needle trades exhibition will take place Thursday. On the final day, "Now You Know Why Day," students will visit business shops, participate in needle trades activities and a college fair.

Drugs and teen pregnancy will also be discussed.

For further information call Alethia Williams at 396-0565.
