Men play basketball to God's glory

"It is a good way to fellowship with churches of all denominations and let them know there is only one God."

The spiritual advisor for the association is Elder Ronald P. Holden of Greater Faith Holy Tabernacle and the General Manager of GT Jammers.

White said they always pray before a game starts.

"We're seeking God and reaching out to the souls that are lost in the community and telling them what the truth is," he said.

"One of Holden's main roles is seeing young people come to Christ," White said.

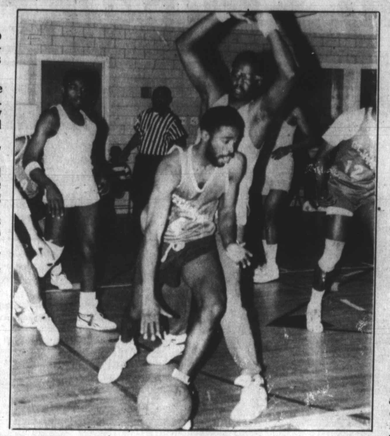
White was the leading scorer of the first half of the League for the Winter program, averaging 20.1 points per game.

Anthony Ford of St. John was voted the most valuable player for the All-Star game.

The summer program will consist of 12 churches.

Applications should be submitted as soon as possible to Rodney White, 1605 Homestead St., Apt. 1, Baltimore, MD 21218 or by calling 467-3431.

"As we venture into the summer program, we want our lights to so shine so some lost soul can see that Christ does live on the inside of us," said White.



Wednesday evening is the time of playing basketball to the glory of God for the members of the Baltiore Christian Men's Basketball Association.

from Baltimore, New York, and Washington, D.C. sing songs relevant to the scenes in the play.

Fields and Wright-Bey said they are motivated to travel from city to city because of the large number of people reached for Christ.

"We witnessed to over 60,000 people in New York alone," said Wright-Bey.

They said the audience responded to the performance by sending letters stating they had as a result of viewing the play returned to the church or sought help in being freed from drug addiction and alcoholism.

"It's in a format for non-church going crowd, but they get pure church," said Fields.

"We're like a help mate to ministers."

Fields, 36 of Harlem, NY said her daughter Kim Fields of the popular TV show, "The Facts of Life," will in April replace the parts she presently portrays.

Field, who did her first Broadway show at the Minskoff Theatre in Harlem in "Hello Dolly" said she will go back to Los Angeles to do songwriting for a rhythm and blues group.

Wright-Bey said he will be with the play indefinitely.

"Don't Get God Started" was first seen in Los Angeles at the Beverly Theatre in 1986.

It was also seen in Philadelphia and Washington, DC.

"The most rewarding thing that came out of this is God on Broadway," said Fields.

Jerry Dixon national tour stops at high school

By Ed Stephens Jr.

From the windy city of Chicago, IL. making a pitstop in Richmond before heading to Portland OR a male vocalist on a mission for the Lord named Jessy Dixon blessed some 450 souls Saturday, Feb. 6 at Lee Davis High School. The concert, sponsored by the Lighthous Christian Center Youth Department where the Rev. Grover Carpenter is the esteemed pastor, attracted born-again Christians who truly believe that they are on the "Winning Side," the title of Dixon's latest L.P. release.

Since 1979, Jessy Dixon, after producing The Thompson Community Choir's hottest L.P. "It's Going To Rain" launched-out on a solo career and since has reached thousands. Performing 200 soul-winning musical concerts annually all over the world, to include Israel, Spain, Europe and Africa, he has brought hope to down-hearted Christians through his music.

In performance at Lee Davis High School, Jessy Dixon presented what was defined as a spirit-filled blessed musical concert. Accompanying him on piano and as a background vocialist was Ms. Elsa Harris with the assistance of a musical sound track (prerecorded music on cassette tape). The school auditorium was transformed to a sanctuary as the crowd responded to the singing of the artist's first selection, "Sold Out".

From then on Jessy Dixon had the audience's attention and he used this opportunity wisely by singing his most favorite hits, "Let's Celebrate the Lord" shouted Dixon in a song of praise, for all the good things that He has done," Everyone stood and began clapping their hands to the rhythm while blending their voices to create a mass choir.

When ever a performer receives this type of response it encourages him to present every selection for the pleasure of his audience. This crowd undoubtedly knew all of Jessy Dixon's songs and those who didn't know the lyrics rejoiced anyway from the vibrations of the sweet Holy Spirit.

Selections offered were "We Are Going To Make It", "Jesus Is The Answer," "He That The Son Has Set Free", "I Believe In Miracles" and "Destined To Win". As you can note, these selections are positive images for Christians which fulfills the artist's intent as a songwriter. These songs are included in Jessy Dixon's repertoire while on his '88 concert tour, so that the world can begin to realize the real secret of being "sold-out for Christ" and fully committed. As Dixon expresses it in the song "Radiate", shine even though you are going to experience troubles and trials.

He has recorded 10 albums, the first and best seller was "It's Alright Now" and his recent recorded album. "The Winning Side" has been nominated for a Grammy in 1988. Also in this year July 7-17, Jessy Dixon will be in performance in Germany, whereby he will produce his first video from the same Grammy nominated L.P.

A member of Faith Tabernacle Church in Chicago, Dixon travels extensively in performances trying to tell Christians and sinners that with Christ all things are possible. He says that if he had the opportunity to blend his voice with any recording artist, it would be with James Ingram or Tremaine Hawkins.

My interview with Jessy Dixon convinced me that I too should realize that "Jesus Is The Answer", "If You Hold Out", because "We Are Going To Make It" if we will say on "The Winning side."

Metropolitan observe homecoming

Members of historic Metropolitan AME Church will observe Homecoming on Sunday, March 6, the official anniversary of their return to the M Street, N.W. edifice.

"Staying the Course Through Difficult Times" is the Homecoming theme; and the guest preacher will be the Reverend Lewis Anthony, Assistant to Congressman Walter Fauntroy.

The Metropolitan Church congregation was forced to vacate the premises during Advent in 1986 because damage done to the building by construction taking place next door rendered it temporarily unsafe.

Following shoring, which took place under a court order, the building was reopened to the large to the large number of members and friends who attend Metropolitan weekly.

Declared an historic monument, Metropolitan has been serving District residents for well over a hundred years. The only black church remaining in the "old downtown Washington" area, it is nationally known as "The Cathedral of African Methodism."

A pew is set aside in the edifice honoring Frederick Douglass, who attended the church regularly. There is one also honoring poet Paul Laurence Dunbar; and one will be set aside soon for famed historian Charles H. Wesley, who once directed the choir at Metropolitan.

The Reverend Dr. William P. DeVeaux, a product of Howard University and Vanderbilt, where he earned his doctorate in theology, is the Metropolitan pastor.

Dr. DeVeaux said that family communion, special music by combined choirs, the sermon by Rev. Anthony, and a fellowship hour following the morning service will be features of the Homecoming observance.

In organizing Homecoming, Metropolitan is emphasizing the "in-gathering" of members both old and new, according to Ambassador Horace G. Dawson, Chairman of the Homecoming Committee. "This gives both members and friends an opportunity to return, to share memories, and to renew old acquaintances."

Dawson, recalling that Metropolitan has played a major role in the political and social as well as the religious life of the Washington community, "This observance has significance well beyond the church itself although our main purposes are to protest the injury we have suffered and to provide meaningful fellowship to all our members, both old and new," he said.

received her Masters Degree in Divinity and Religious Education, and Bachelor of Arts Degree in Theology from the Virginia Theological Seminary.

She is the former secretary and registrar for the seminary (Maryland Extension) and the former Assistant Manager for The Baltimore City Housing Authority, Certified Public Housing Manager — NARO.

Rev. Phillips is an Associate Minister of Gillis Memorial C.C. Church, and is the present Assistant Pastor at New Bethel.

She is a member of the sanctuary choir of Gillis, President Emeritus of the pastor's aid, and President formerly of Self Help Housing.

She is a member of the Mayor's Professional Advisory Committee in city relations, and President Emeritus of the Board of Directors of the Lafayette Square Community Center.

Rev. Phillips is the recipient of "many" awards: Mayor's Citation for Outstanding Community Leader, Unsung Hero of Baltimore City, and numerous proclamations from the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore City. These are just a few of her many achievements.

Rev. Phillips is the Founder of "We Need Prayer Headquarters," and the annual prayer breakfast which is in memory of her parents.

She held the first Prayer Outdoor Altar Call Service in Druid Hill Park, which has become an annual event. Much, more can be said of the Rev. Mary Antoinette Phillips, but most of all it can be said that she is indeed a humble child of the most High King.

Rev. Phillips said the service on Sunday was beautiful and that she thought she wouldn't make it, but she did.

"When I accepted those honors, I accepted them on behalf of everyone that worked with me.... No man's an island," she said.

"They may have been there to pay tribute to me, but the honor and glory goes to God."
