Grow flowers from seed

By Pamela B. King
Extension Agent
Charles County

Pansies' little faces peek out of the windowbox, marigolds nod in the garden, coleus dance in the breeze. Brilliant flowers from Asters to Zinnias can brighten your block this summer with just a little know-how and tender loving care.

These favorites are annuals. They complete their growing cycle in one season. Although they must be replanted each year, they are inexpensive, produce an abundance of flowers, come in a wide variety of sizes and colors and are easy to grow.

Annual flowers grow best when planted in full sun, where they will get at least 5-6 hours of sunlight each day. Annuals grown in the shade will be tall, spindly and produce only a few flowers.

Good soil drainage is also essential. Flowers grown in heavy wet soil are often weak and never seem to grow properly. If your soil contains large amounts of clay, be sure to mix in several inches of organic material, such as peat moss or compost, before planting.

Prepare the soil well. If possible, take a soil test, available through your local Cooperative Extension Service Office. Turn your soil to a depth of 6-8 inches. Remove grass, weeds and stones. Add fertilizer and limestone as advised in the soil test results. If you are not able to have a test done, add 1½ pounds (three 8 ounce coffee cups) of 5-10-5 fertilizer per 100 square feet. Also add 5 pounds (ten 8 ounce coffee cups) of dolomitic limestone per 100 square feet if it has not been added in the past three years.

Most annual flower will not grow in cold soil, so wait until the soil is warm before planting (usually mid May-early June). Rake the seed bed smooth, removing stones and other trash. Plant seeds shallowly, covering them lightly with fine soil or sand. Water well with a fine mist. As soon as the seedlings have developed their first set of true leaves (leaves that look like those of the mature plant) they should be thinned or transplanted. Carefully dig and move the small plants or pinch off some to allow the rest enough room to grow. Most annual flowers will require 6-12 inches between plants, depending on the type.

A flower garden will require about one inch of water per week to grow well. If there is not one day of slow rain each week, then water gently and deeply. Sit cups around in the garden, then apply water to the area and when each cup has 1 inch of water in it you will know you have applied enough. Water before 5 o'clock in the afternoon, as night watering can encourage disease.

Pull weeds when they are small. Spread dry grass clippings, chopped leaves, straw or newspaper over the soil between the plants to act as a mulch.

Tall, spindly plants should be "pinched" to make them fuller and bushier. Cut each tall stem in half with a clean, sharp knife. Remove faded flowers from all plants before they produce seed pods to encourage the development of more flowers.

United Cable helps us sweep up!

United Cable of Baltimore has been extremely supportive of this year's CLEAN BLOCK Campaign. They have made a $350.00 contribution as well as supplied us with some push brooms, rakes, gloves, paintbrushes, pails and sponges.

As of today's writing, there is $6,070.17 in this year's CLEAN BLOCK Prize Fund. We received our latest shot in the arm from United Cable of Baltimore when they presented us with a $350.000 check and a host of things used to clean up!

Marilyn D. Harris-Davis, Community Affairs Manager of United Cable, presented Director Elvn Garrett with a $350.00 check recently, as Gary MacGregor, Director of Marketing for the organization and Glenda Holman, Harris-Davis' assistant, looked on. They also donated rakes, push brooms, paint, paint brushes, gloves, sponges and pails to advance our clean-up efforts in the city.

This is the type of support we must receive from the business and private sectors of our city if we are to continue to make a difference in our communities.

We are extremely grateful to United Cable of Baltimore and are still soliciting the support of others who wish to help to make Baltimore a cleaner, safer place in which to live and grow.

From a concerned citizen

Dear Editor:

Many neighborhoods, streets and alleys of Baltimore City are well-kept and enhance civic pride. Nevertheless, the announcement of the Schmoke administration to intensify its efforts to clean the streets and alleys of Baltimore City is welcomed. It is my suggestion that such efforts will include the up-grading of maintenance at the public schools, especially the yards and playgrounds.

A key complaint of BUILD was the skewed distribution of municipal service to areas of the city, especially in low-income neighborhoods. While there are many complex, difficult problems facing the new administration, to the attentive observer there is none more visible, widespread, and daily touching many lives than the unslightly trash-scattered and glass-splattered streets, alleys, playgrounds, and vacant lots. Yet the problem is manageable and resolvable with a small outlay of municipal resources.

Furthermore, symbolically and concretely, getting-and-keeping Baltimore clean can be one of the most tangible indicators that the Schmoke administration has rolled up its sleeves, is doing the peoples' business, and keeping the faith with those who fervidly believed in and voted for a new era in Baltimore City.

On the other hand, the citizens of Baltimore City are in partnership with their government. The city government can help, but we the people cannot rely on our local government to do everything. It is our business to pitch-in by keeping our immediate yards and fronts clean and placing trash and garbage in proper receptacles. Also it is our business to help keep our parks, playgrounds and neighborhoods clean and safe.

This site is representative of the type of problems that Lindsey is writing about in his letter to the editor. This truck load of trash was removed from a lot next door to the Furman L. Templeton Elementary School. The school is located at Pennsylvania Avenue and Dolphin Street. While the trash was being removed, huge rats ran from the pile in every direction.

It can be disheartening to city workers and diligent neighbors to clean-up and then have someone to thoughtlessly mess-up, over and over again. Somehow we have to try to break this cycle of trashing our environment by starting today with each of us. Each of us can refrain from smashing bottles against walls, throwing trash from cars, marking graffiti on walls, and dumping waste on vacant lots and waysides.

For those who would reach-out, express a thank-you to the next city worker seen cleaning the streets or collecting trash, support neighborhood clean-ups, and support the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers CLEAN BLOCK CAMPAIGN.

Help make and keep Baltimore clean, beautiful and safe.

Sincerely,
Herbert H. Lindsey
