★1988 CLEAN BLOCK CAMPAIGN★

Clean Block. . . .Teaching Habits of Cleanliness That Last!

Rules and Regulations

PURPOSE

The purpose of this campaign is to help create a clean living environment throughout the summer.

EXPLANATION

A block is a row of houses between two cross streets. For the purpose of this campaign, a block includes the houses on both sides of the street.

There must be three or more houses before there is a block.

A clean block is one which steps and sidewalks are washed once a day and the streets are kept free from trash.

Windows should be kept clean and curtains hung neatly.

Garbage and trash cans should be removed as soon as they are emptied.

Porches and window-boxes should have flowers or plants.

No one should sit at the front window or on the front steps, unless his clothing is neat and clean.

A beautiful block must have flowers in it and must be clean, in the back and front.

Do not whitewash trees or curbs; only the backyards and fences may be whitewashed.

JUDGES

Judges, appointed by the director, will choose the winning blocks in the following ways:

1. The appearance of the block at the time of inspection.
2. How the block has improved since the beginning of the campaign.
3. The beauty of the flowers.

Judges may make as many inspections as they see fit. The director's decision will be final in all cases.

BLOCK ORGANIZATION

The captain must get as many members of the block as possible to sign up and send their names immediately to the AFRO - AMERICAN Newspapers.

He or she must call a meeting of all adults and children and elect a president who will act as an advisor.

Each block must elect a secretary, who will record what is done at each meeting and send written reports to the AFRO.

Each block must elect a block inspector, who will see that no trash accumulates anywhere in the block.

Each block must elect a marshall, who will call out the cleanup brigade at a definite time each day.

MEETINGS

The captain or advisor must attend the weekly meetings. You must be sure to sign the attendance sheet.

At least three other members from the block should attend weekly meetings.

Beware the tick that bites!

By Pamela B. King

Blood suckers! Ticks, like tiny "vampires," will suck your blood if given the chance. In doing so they may also transmit disease. Although there are probably not as many ticks in urban areas as out in the country, it is important to be aware of the potential danger and learn how to protect yourself and your family.

Ticks are small, round, flattened animals with very tough, leathery "skin." They are not true insects, for they have eight legs, like spiders, in the adult stage.

"Seed ticks," smaller than pinheads, hatch from clumps of eggs. They crawl up grass blades or weeds and usually attach to small mammals such as mice, then feed on their blood. They then shed their skins and feed one more time on mice, and finally become adults. The adult ticks mate and the female takes a final blood meal, usually on a larger animal like a dog, before she lays her eggs. At this last feeding the female becomes a fat, engorged sack of blood. If a human happens to come along, before another animal, he can become a meal for a tick.

Wood ticks that can carry Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever and tiny Deer ticks that can carry Lyme disease are most active during the summer. These diseases can be very serious so it is important to use good sense out of doors.

* Avoid tick infested areas. Weedy areas, especially with low shrubs, that give cover to mice, are likely habitants.

* Wear long pants with the cuffs tucked into your socks, when in areas where ticks may be found. Wear light colored clothing so ticks will be easier to spot.

* Insect repellants can be used on shoes, socks and legs. Use tick collars on pets, as dogs may also get Lyme Disease.

* Undress and check for ticks at least twice a day if ticks are in the area. Ticks crawl and attach painlessly, so you may not know they are there unless you look. Check and shower before bed.

* Keep the lawn mowed and prevent dogs from establishing paths through yards. Extensive use of pesticides is not generally recommended.

* Remove attached ticks immediately using tweezers with a very fine tip to grasp the barbed mouthparts imbedded in the skin. Use slow, steady pull. Do not squeeze or burn the tick as it may release infectious organisms into the bite. Apply antiseptic. Save the tick in a jar for future reference. Label the jar with the date of the bite, body site, and geographic area where you got it.

* SEE A DOCTOR if a rash or illness develops.

The most characteristic symptoms of Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever usually occur two to five days after infection and include: a rash on the wrists and ankles, aching in the lower back, headache around and above the eyes, fatigue, and fevers of 104-106 degrees. In mild cases symptoms may occur at later times.

Lyme Disease is often mistaken for other illnesses. One characteristic symptom is a red welt that develops at the site of the bite and spreads. Flu-like symptoms may accompany this rash. later, infected individuals may experience recurrent bouts of arthritis, especially in the knee joints.

No one should try to diagnose a dangerous disease without medical advice, so if you have been bitten by a tick or been in tick infested areas and develop these, or other symptoms, SEE YOUR DOCTOR IMMEDIATELY.

Be aware and protect yourself from ticks. If you have questions concerning insect pests, contact the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, whose programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, handicap, religion, age or national origin.
