—Crusade

The support group sets its goal as meeting the needs of young people. Age groups included range from 8 to 30 years old.

Elder Donald Gresham, an associate minister and youth leader said youth need to know that withstanding the pressures is possible. "With peer pressure, drugs, alcohol, teen pregnancy, and illicit sex causing temptation we need to find a way to help youth see that they can withstand the pressures," he said.

The group bases its belief upon Phillipians 4:13—"I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."

In addition to evening worship, the crusade will also have day sessions to counsel the youth on problems they face.

"We feel that it is time to take a stand for Christ," Gresham said.

"We believe this crusade will help strengthen our youth before they start back to school."

are trying to preserve racism refuse to take the Bible at its word. In other words, if there is something they like, OK, they'll take it.

On the other hand if there is a doctrine that teaches racial equality they have problems with that, and that may very well be the case with those who say that, the curse placed on the Canaanites, is referring to the black race.

As long as this type of thinking is present among those who teach in our seminaries, and institutes there will be problems that lead to separation in worship to the Creator.

In examining the Bible closely, you will note that all variation in color occurred after the flood. People adapted to climatic conditions and thus their skin color was formed.

The truth is this: Blacks are descendants of Ham, who was a son of Noah. From Ham came the Africans and Asians and some of the Asians had very light skin, discounting again what racist theologians claim - blackness is a result of the curse.

Canaan was a son of Ham who saw his grandfather Noah drunk and made mockery of him. As a result judgement was pronounced on the line of Canaan, the Canaanites.

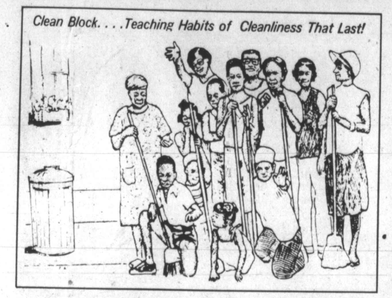
But in closely examining the account in the Bible, Book of Genesis, we can conclude that the pronouncement of judgment was prophetic, that is, it would affect the Canaanites for their un-godly practices, not because of any other condition.

The black race is no more cursed than any other race. In fact, we have fared far better than most any other race of people whose subjection to adversity comes anywhere close to ours.

We have been, and continue to be a courageous people. We continue to do more with less, so much without hardly anything, that now - through our understanding of the Word of God - we can do anything that is within the scope and power of God's will.

In God's sight, we are no different than any other race of people, He created all people and He loves us all. The Bible says: He doesn't want any of his people to perish. What comforting words! Noah's other sons, Japheth descended the Europeans while Shem descended the peoples of the Near East. All Gods People, yes, created all by God, yes. Different in God's sight, no! I hope those who perpetuate such false doctrine would take a closer look at what the Bible really says, for all our sakes.

★1988 CLEAN BLOCK CAMPAIGN★



It's inspection weekend!

By Elyn Garrett
Director, AFRO Charities, Inc.

Alright, ready or not — here we come! Yes this is inspection weekend and it is time to show off all of the accomplishments you have made in your block since the beginning of the Campaign.

Our judges will be coming around on both Saturday and Sunday (August 6th and 7th) and we will be checking to see if alleys have been cleaned, if bushes and weeds have been taken care of, if trash and debris have been removed, if flowers and shrubbery have been planted and if you have made good use of the paint we supplied.

We will be judging the city blocks on Saturday and will get started at 8:00 that morning. There is no way to be sure exactly what time we will be in your block so BE READY!

We will tour the high rise buildings and public housing facilities on Sunday, also starting at 8:00 in the morning.

As always, we will be escorted by a marked city police patrol car and the judges will ride in a limousine behind the patrol car. When we enter your block, the police car will sound the siren, so we expect everyone to come out for the inspection and to get their picture taken for the paper.

We were fortunate enough to have the Mid-Atlantic Coca-Cola Bottling Company to provide us with CLEAN BLOCK Flags this year, so if your block received one of them, please make sure you have it out and at the entrance or in the middle of your blocks for all to see.

We are sure that this inspection tour will show us some of the most beautiful blocks in the city and we can hardly wait to reward you for your efforts and your accomplishments. We are looking forward to seeing your entire block down at the War Memorial Plaza, (across the street from City Hall), on August 13th, at 12 noon. This will be when our award ceremony will be held. We will be presenting prizes to all of our participating blocks. We look forward to seeing you and your block on inspection day and then on Saturday, August 13th to receive your award.

Hot and dry? Mites! Oh my!

By Pamela B. King
Extension Agent
Charles County

Hot, dry weather conditions encourage the development of large populations of spider mites. Mites are not insects. The adults have one sack-like body region and 8 legs, unlike insects that usually have 3 distinct body regions and 6 legs.

Spider mites are tiny, about the size of a period on this page. Some types are red, while others are yellowish green, and still others gray-brown.

They feed on a wide range of plants, including houseplants, vegetables, flowers, shrubs and trees, even conifers. The mites suck out the green chlorophyll in leaves causing tiny white spots called stipples. While feeding they may inject toxins which can cause leaf discoloration and distortion. After continuous feeding by many mites leaves begin to yellow, then brown and die. Spider mites may also make webs over leaves and stems.

Every 1-2 weeks plants should be checked for early signs of feeding, such as stippling. Top and bottom leaf surfaces of a few leaves should be checked with a magnifying glass. Look for active mites, eggs, and shed skins. Tap a few leaves over a piece of white paper. Look for dislodged mites crawling on the paper.

If mites are found on indoor plants, they can be hosed off in the sink once a week until mites are no longer detected. Wash both the tops and bottoms of leaves.

Outdoor plants can also be hosed down periodically with a strong spray of water, giving special attention to the undersides of leaves. If mite populations are high, pesticides may be needed. ALWAYS READ AND FOLLOW ALL LABEL DIRECTIONS. Insecticidal soap or horticultural oil can be used as long as it is labeled for the type of plant you want to spray. These materials are short lived and good control depends on thorough coverage of infested plants.

Mites can be insidious and their damage can sneak up on you. If you need more information on pest control and using pesticides effectively and safely call your local University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service office, whose programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, handicap, religion, age or national origin.

Narda Terry (right) presents a $100.00 check to Director Elyn Garrett. The money will be added to this year's prize fund. Terry will also be one of the judges touring blocks this weekend. The $100 donation is a contribution from the Baltimore Branch of the NAACP.
