Hanover Street Bridge closes temporarily

The entire span of the north and southbound Hanover Street bridge (Waterview Ave. to Dickman St.) will be closed for inspection from 7 a.m.-5 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, November 19 & 20.

Northbound traffic will be detoured west on Waterview Avenue to the Russell Street ramp, then east on Pratt Street to Hanover Street.

Southbound motorists will be detoured to southbound I-95 via the Dickman St. loop. Motorists will exit at McComas Street, head south on Russell Street to the Westport exit, take Annapolis Road into Waterview Avenue, then head south on Potee Street to Hanover Street.

Signs will be posted.

Villa Julie introduces program for kids

An open house to introduce a new program for five-year-olds will be held at Child's World, Villa Julie College, on Sunday, November 20, from 3 to 5 p.m.

Parents are invited to see the newly-constructed building for this program, located in an idyllic setting on the college campus and rated as one of the most modern and best equipped child development facilities in the state.

Visitors will meet the staff and learn about the curriculum offered. Computer games will be available for the children while parents tour the center.

Child's World, which also offers a program for three- and four-year-olds, and hourly care for children of adult students and working mothers, is operated under the auspices of Villa Julie's Child Development Department, headed by Janis Ellis.

Call Villa Julie College, 486-7002. Ask for Ms. Ellis.

Homewood Museum extends hours

The Homewood Museum, located on the Homewood campus of The Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, will hold an open house for visitors in town during the Thanksgiving weekend on Sunday, November 27.

The museum, which normally is open to visitors by appointment only Monday through Thursday, will conduct the Sunday guided tours of the Mansion from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m. Admission to the museum is $4 and visitors need not make an appointment for a tour.

Homewood, a National Historic Landmark, recently was restored to its original splendor as the 1801 country home of Charles Carroll, Jr. and his family. The Federal period home has been furnished and decorated with authentic pieces from the University's collection and others on loan from the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation and the Baltimore Museum of Art at 338-5589.

Fourth Annual All School Salute coming

On Sunday, November 20, the fourth annual All School Salute will take place at the Convention Center (Halls C & D) from 1-5 p.m. The Salute will showcase the achievements, talents and spirit of the Baltimore City Schools in keeping with this year's theme, "Baltimore City Public Schools — A Rainbow of Excellence."

The afternoon will consist of a variety of creative events. Presentations to outstanding students (one per school) will be made by such dignitaries as Mayor Kurt L. Schmoke, Baltimore City Public Schools Superintendent of Public Instruction, Dr. Richard C. Hunter and City Council President, Mary Pat Clarke.

There will be continuous entertainment by school performing groups, exhibits by over 150 elementary, middle and senior high schools, and presentations by the winners of a talent contest. These performances will include an opening ceremony with the Frederick Douglass Band. In addition, there will be vocal groups, dance presentations, cheerleaders, a drum crops and a jazz ensemble.

The admission includes a free Esskay hot dog and a McDonald's coupon redeemable at a cooperating McDonald's restaurant for a soft drink, hamburger and french fries.

Holiday help for eating disorder victims

Thanksgiving, America's favorite "pig-out" holiday, poses real problems for victims of anorexia and bulimia (eating disorders). Counselors at Mercy ABtec, one of the state's largest eating disorder units, can provide advice on how to cope with holiday pressure.

Interviews with staff, possible video with former patients if scheduled in advance.

National Adoption Week

National Adoption Week is being celebrated November 20-26, 1988. BARN (Black Adoption Recruitment Network) is having a Musical Extravaganza on Friday, November 18, 1988 at Bibleway Freewill Baptist Church located at 4412 Maine Avenue at 7:00 p.m.

At this time, we plan to honor our families who have adopted our special needs children and those prospective adoptive families who can provide permanency to our waiting special needs children.

A reception honoring our adoptive families and choir friends will be held in the lower auditorium at the close of the service. If there are any questions concerning this, please call Pauline Brogden, 361-3911 or Jean Richardson, 333-0252 or 486-4160.

American Legion Christmas Tree Sale

November 26 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the east lot of the stadium, more than 300 Legionnaires will unload approximately 8,000 trees including pines, firs and other varieties. On hand to help with the unloading and join in the festivities will be Frosty the Snowman, Santa Claus, a clown, the Eye Bank staff and the members of the Eye Bank's Advisory Board.

The public is welcome to usher in the 1988 holiday season by attending the unloading day activities. Proceeds from the Tree Sale are pledged to Medical Eye Bank of Maryland to help in its fight against blindness. The sale has become an annual tradition and a most successful fundraising event to benefit the Eye Bank.
