LIFESTYLE

Social Notes

By Paula Brooks
Lifestyle Editor

Iota exhibits

The officers and members of Iota Phi Lambda Sorority, Inc.-Kappa Chapter will have an exhibit at Soper Library, Morgan State University and at the Library of Coppin State College during the month of February.

Kappa Chapter has distinguished itself in the Baltimore community since 1940 by providing scholarship assistance to hundreds of young women graduating from public high schools. Annually, the chapter provides follow-up assistance to scholarship recipients as well as to first-time recipients and to the United Negro College Fund.

The chapter exposes high school girls to the cultural experience of the Miss Iota Scholarship Pageant, a major feature in the Business Week Luncheon during the month of April.

Excitement is mounting high as Baltimore members plan to celebrate the Chapter's Fiftieth Anniversary in July.

Omega leadership seminar

The Tau Pi Chapter, Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Inc., Columbia, Maryland, announced today that it will sponsor its fifth annual youth leadership development seminar (YLDS). According to Mr. A. Clinton Sellers, Chapter Basileus, the YLDS Program is designed to motivate Howard County minority students to pursue higher education and to prepare for professional careers, particularly in the areas of science and engineering.

Thirty high school students have been involved in workshops relating to developing effective mathematics and communication skills, in addition to critical thinking and leadership skills. Mr. James T. Dixon, Program Manager, indicated that the theme of the weekend retreat at the Guest Quarters Suites Hotel is, "Learn Today, Lead Tomorrow: Preparing for the 21st Century." The weekend program will feature workshops on "Health and Teen Sexuality," "Science Exploration," "Youth and the Law," "The Power Game" the annual "Black History Quiz" and a dinner theater performance featuring the Social Action Drama Group of Washington, D.C.

Zeta news

The ladies of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc. Alpha Zeta Chapter will be sponsoring their second Annual Drug Abuse Awareness Forum at Coppin State College, March 3, in the James Weldon Johnson Auditorium from 10 A.M. to 2 P.M.

Highlights of the forum will be a keynote speaker who will address the need for the Church's involvement in rescuing our communities and youth from the claws of the drug scourge. Conact Betsy Simon for registration information at 333-5383 Mon-Fri. 9-5.

Zeta ladies will also be sponsoring their Second Annual Finerwomanhood Observance Tea at The Epworth United Methodist Church, on Sunday March 11, at 4 P.M.

The sorority will honor the Afro-American Newspapers President, Chief Operating Officer-Mrs. Frances Murphy Draper and other outstanding women in the fields of Business, communications and community involvement.

MSU Presidential ball

Morgan State University will hold its 6th Annual Presidential Scholarship Ball on Friday, March 23, at the Palladium Ballroom. Proceeds from the Ball will be used to benefit deserving Morgan students. Come out to the Ball and dance to the driving rhythms of the Bobby Felder Band, the most popular dance group on the East Coast. Call 444-3080 for additional information.

Woman power honoring two

Dr. Delores C. Hunt, Educator and Ms. Shirley Marcus, Director Baltimore City Social Services will be honored at Woman Power's Annual Membership Tea on Sunday, February 25 from 4-7 P.M. at the Omega House.

Price of admission includes Fashion Show, refreshments and Woman Power Membership. Contact Mrs. Erla McKinnon, President at 383-9281 for more information.

Black nurses day

The Baltimore Black Nurses Association are having a scholarship fundraiser in celebration of Black History Month. It will take place on February 23 at Martin's Champagne Room from 10 P.M. to 2 A.M. Mayor Kurt Schmoke will be the guest speaker. For ticket information call Barbara Crosby, President at 523-6819 or Pearl Whitehurst, Chairperson at 922-6307.

Baltimore, Maryland: Mothers, Left to right, front row: Joyce Daniels, Cherrylann Cragway, Joyce Brooks, Gladys Bragg, Norma Hall, Carol Wright, Margaret Shipley. Second row: Marcia Brown, Allenette Valentine, Donette Green, Pearlette Lansey, Gretchen Styles, Peggy Drayton, Doretha Galloway, Cynthia Webb, Anastasia Benton, Maxine Wood. Third row: Roslyn Boles, Barbara Johnson, Cicely Williams, Sheila Richardson, Rosa Smith, Brenda Willis, Veronica Dixon, Gloria Streat, Roxanne King, Peggy Jones, Shirley Evans, Beverly Brown, Deborah Allen, Laura Byrd, Tony Draper, Carol Carter, Carmen Holmes. Not pictured: Harriette Bannister, Ethel Bynum, Maggie Caples, Beverly Carter, Erica Cryor, Delores Ford, Myra Gray, Arnette hargrove, Wanda Harrison, Jacqueline Hrabowski, Margo Hunter, Miriam Hutchins, Dorye Jackson, Diane Julian, Tyese Layton, Inez Perry, Roberta Scott, Elmeretta Shelton, Cassie Smith, Karen Smith, Fern Stalling, Donna Wallace, Marilyn Washington, Denise Waters, Alice Weaver, Patricia Welch.

Jack & Jill founder's day

Anhually, the Baltimore Chapter of Jack and Jill sponsors a Founders' Day activity. This year, a delicious luncheon was served to more than 160 attendees at the Forum.

Jack and Jill of America is a children's organization, run by mothers. It was developed for the purpose of promoting interaction and growth in children through positive group activities. The organization also provides support for Mothers in helping to foster better parenting skills. Mrs. Marion Turner Stubbs Thomas founded Jack and Jill in Philadelphia, PA in 1938.

The Baltimore Chapter of Jack and Jill of America, Inc., was organized by the Cornelias, a mother's group, initiated by Mrs. Gaynelle Spaulding, in 1946. Mrs. Sadie Douglas, president of the Cornelias, became the first president of the Baltimore Chapter.

In 1985, the Baltimore Chapter of the Associates was formed to provide support for the Baltimore Chapter.

This year's Founders' Day theme, "Strengthening the Black Family — Economically, Educationally, Emotionally and Culturally was brought to life by the children, ages two to 15 and up. Excellent performances, revealing genuine talent and dedication, were enjoyed by all. Presentations included an original cheer depicting EDUCATION as the key to success, beautiful modern dances, songs, a television quiz show, with the audience participating in guessing the answer to questions on Black History, oral readings and skits.

The tremendous amount of thought and hard work that went into delivering the beautifully executed depictions of our rich African - American heritage was indisputable.

We are blessed to have two Charter Members present, Mrs. Charlotte Shervington, Baltimore and Mrs. Frances Hill, Baltimore. Our two youngest members, Amara Hall, Genna Styles presented the Charter members with tokens of appreciation. Our Baltimore Chapter of Associates was very well represented. Mrs. Zelma Brown, Associates President, presented the memoriam.

Baltimore, Maryland: 7 to 8: Left to right, front row: Erin King, Chevonne Smith, Emily Daniels, Katharine Carter. Second row: Brian Boles, Argin Hutchins, Gordon Streat, Geremy Styles, Ryan Galloway, Cleveland Jones. Not pictured: Erin Jackson, Adam Layton, Fern Anita Stallings, Christopher Weaver.

Baltimore, Maryland: 11 to 12: Left to right, front row: Robin Bragg, Kelli Willis, Denise Shipley, Shana Allen, Andrea Williams. Second row: Dale Webb, Devin Johnson, Benjamin King, Eric Richardson, Damon Holmes, Cory Brown, Marc Boles. Not pictured: Kia Harrison, Heather Layton, Leah Perry, Atman Smith, Chelsea Stalling, Simone Stalling.

Fullwood benefit breakfast

Fullwood Foods, Inc. recently held at the Palladium, its Second Annual Breakfast for the benefit of the Baltimore Urban League, The Druid Hill YMCA and the Maryland Women's Committee for the United Negro College Fund.

Harlow and Elnora Fullwood believe in giving.

They say "At Fullwood Foods, Inc., we believe that each dollar we give will enrich our neighbors and come back to us many-fold. We are a Kentucky Fried Chicken franchisee that is committed to the philosophy that an important part of doing business is to give support in volunteer services or cash grants to the community we serve. We donate to educational institutuions, religious organizations, the arts, human services and to cultural groups."

Daughter Paquita Fullwood-Stokes presided over the affair and Dr. Samuel Dewitt Proctor, Pastor Emeritus of Abyssinian Baptist Church, New York, was guest speaker. Among the many presentations made were Distinguished Service Awards to Pastor Leonard Blight, Jr., Calvary Tabernacle; Tony DeLuca, Kentucky Fried Chicken Corp.;

Theodore Losin, Attorney at Law; Allen M. Schiff, CPA Grabush, Newman & Co.; Edwin E. Taylor, Attorney at Law; Unsung Achievement Award to Dr. Calvin Burnett, Coppin State College Prexy;

Bucket Awards were made to Pattie Hodges-Berry, Baltimore Times; Joy Bramble, Baltimore Times; Arthur Bugg, Coppin State College; Daniel Comegys, Lyric baritone; Vernon Dorkins, Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity; Frederick I. Douglass, Morgan State University; Dr. Daphae Harrison, Univ. of Maryland-Balto. Co.;

Horace Holmes, WMAR-TV 2; James Mayo, III, Loyola Middle School; Mae Moody, Baptist Voice; Lisa V. Nash, The Baltimore Gazette; and Debbie Wright, WJZ-TV 13.

IT'S A FAMILY AFFAIR—Harlow Fullwood, III, Harlow Fullwood, Jr., Elnora Fullwood, and Pacquita Fullwood-Stokes work together to achieve family success and community involvement.

ENTERTAINMENT/ LIFESTYLE

Osgood, Jackson head to Broadcast Hall of Fame

RANCHO MIRAGE, CA — CBS News Correspondent Charles Osgood and Inner City Broadcasting Corporation's Hal Jackson have been named radio recipients of the National Association of Broadcasters' "Broadcasting Hall of Fame Award."

"Charles Osgood is regarded by his peers as a broadcaster's broadcaster, a great writer and storyteller, and Hal Jackson's pioneering work as both broadcaster and station owner helped pave the way for minorities in broadcasting today," said NAB Radio Board Chairman William R. Sanders.

The recipients will be inducted at the Sunday radio brunch during NAB's annual convention, March 31 through April 3, at Atlanta's Georgia World Congress Center.

After more than 25 years in broadcasting, Osgood remains one of the busiest newsmen in radio and TV. On the CBS Radio Network, Osgood anchors and writes "The Osgood File," four daily commentaries on headlined or little-known news stories of his choice.

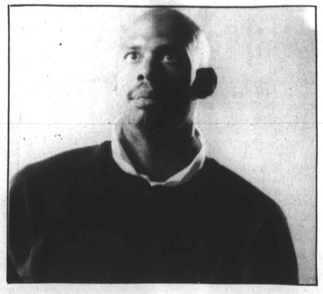
He also produces a television version of the "Osgood File" for "CBS News This Morning," in addition to his frequent contributions for the "CBS Evening News" with Dan Rather and "Sunday Morning" with Charles Kuralt.

Osgood joined CBS News as a New York-based correspondent in 1971 and built a huge following, in part, for his news commentaries delivered in verse and for such collectible quips as "See you on the radio."

A native New Yorker, he was at one time a correspondent for ABC News and honed his skills working for several local radio stations.

Jackson's contributions to radio broadcasting span no less than a half-century. He began his broadcast career as a play-by-play announcer during the 1940's, covering collegiate athletics for Washington's Howard University and other schools, in addition to broadcasting games for the American Negro Baseball League.

As group chairman of the Inner City Broadcasting Corp., New York, NY, Jackson repeatedly distinguished himself as a respected professional and for his good works with America's minority communities. He has raised over $5 million for at least 30 New York charities and has participated as contributing master of ceremonies for Cerebral Palsy telethons for 30 years.



Basketball great Kareem Abdul-Jabbar makes a special guest appearance, playing himself, in "Malcolm Takes a Shot," a new CBS Schoolbreak Special about a high school basketball star stricken with epilepsy. The program is scheduled for broadcast Tuesday, March 6 (4-5 p.m.) on the CBS Television Network.

Spike Lee, Melba Moore to judge contest

NEW YORK — Filmmaker Spike Lee and vocalist Melba Moore are among a panel of distinguished judges who will select finalists in the 1990 Sony Innovators Awards Program, which honors talented African-American filmmakers and musicians.

The 1990 Sony Innovators "call for entries" garnered more than four times the response of past competitions. The Innovators will make their national debut during a gala awards ceremony March 15 in New York City, featuring 1990 Master Film/Video Innovator Cicely Tyson and master Music Innovator George Benson.

Hosted by Charlayne Hunter-Gault, national correspondent, McNeil-Lehrer News Hour, the evening will also feature Savion "Tap" Glover and the Count Basie Orchestra.

Dubbed an arts innovator by Newsweek magazine, Spike Lee was recently noted as one of "25 Americans on the Cutting Edge." The director/producer of "School Daze" and "Do the Right Thing," along with other film judges, will review the entries received in the film/video category.

Actor Glynn Turman of "A Different World" and Neema Barnett, director of "Laura Is My Name," soon to air on American Playhouse, will also serve as judges in the film category.

'Soul' awards telecast nears

BEVERLY HILLS, CA — Recording stars Dionne Warwick, Patti LaBelle and Luther Vandross are slated to co-host the Fourth Annual Soul Train Music Awards, which will honor the year's top recording artists in R&B, Jazz, Gospel and Rap with a live two-hour telecast from the Los Angeles Shrine Auditorium, Wednesday, March 14.

Warwick, who has hosted the awards program since its inception, will again be joined by Patti LaBelle, who is co-hosting for the second consecutive year, and Vandross, who co-hosted the First Annual Soul Train Music Awards and is also returning for his second time.

"We're fortunate to have the combination of three of contemporary music's most gifted and respected superstars co-hosting the Soul Train Music Awards," said Don Cornelius, the program's creator and co-executive producer.

"We feel Dionne Warwick has played a major role in the program's overall growth and success over the past four years, and we're delighted to have her back again. Patti LaBelle and Luther Vandross have hosted the show before, so we feel we're giving our audience a rare and special treat by getting all three together for this year."

(Capital Chatter will return next week).

" Something is happening in our world. The masses of people are rising up. And wherever they are assembled today.....the cry is always the same..... 'We want to be free'. "

MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR.

Philip Morris Companies Inc.
Philip Morris U.S.A.
Philip Morris International Inc.
Kraft General Foods
Miller Brewing Company
Mission Viejo Company