Remember

Remember, please the family of Miss Olive Janice Williams. She was the retired Baltimore City school music teacher who died May 6 at Baltimore County General Hospital. She was 84.

Memorial services are set for 10 a.m. Saturday, May 26, at St. James Episcopal Church, Lafayette and Arlington Aves.

Miss Williams was a 65-year member of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, which she joined at Howard University in 1925. Sorority rites will be at 9:30 a.m. preceding the service.

A native of Harrisburg, Pa., Miss Williams was the daughter of James H. and Carrie Scott Williams. She enrolled in Harrisburg public schools, studied music and was an energetic basketball player.

She graduated with honors at Howard University, where she majored in music. Later, she opened a music studio in Harrisburg, taught at N.C. State and a college in Ala., where one of her pupils was Coretta Scott King.

When her parents moved to Baltimore in 1952, Miss Williams settled here and began teaching in city elementary schools No. 7, 148 and 107.

She also taught music privately and arranged spirituals and original compositions which were performed by the Dougls Memorial Community Church Choir, directed by Spencer Hammond.

A number of her compositions are published in the book, "Look Away."

* * *

Miss Williams held graduate degrees from Columbia University, the Juilliard School of Music and Pa. State University. She was active in a number of organizations, including the Wilson Park Improvement Association, Howard University Alumni Association, Music Educators' Association, Baltimore Alumnae Chapter, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

She was known for her generosity and caring for overseas students to whom she was known as "Aunt Olive." She opened her heart and her doors to them, providing food, shelter and moral support.

She was generous in helping other organizations, becoming keyed to the betterment of children.

Note: Graveside services for Miss Williams are 11 a.m. today (Friday, May 18), at Lincoln Memorial Cemetery in Harrisburg. The memorial service here in Baltimore is next Saturday (May 26) at St. James as mentioned above.

The family suggests that in lieu of flowers, contributions be made to the Maryland Diabetics Association, 3701 Old Court Rd., Baltimore, Md., 21208, c/o of the deceased's sister-in-law, Dr. Beryl W. Williams.

Survivors: a nephew, Dr. Scott W. Williams; grandnieces, Rachael, Rebecca and Eve Williams, all of Buffalo, NY, sisters-in-law, Mrs. Otto Williams of Columbia, S.C. and Mrs. Sallie D. Williams of Columbia, S.C. and Mrs. Sallie D. Williams, of Greensboro, N.C.; and niece-in-law, Mrs. Karen H. Williams of Buffalo. Another sister-in-law, Dr. Beryl Williams, mentioned above is the widow of Dr. Roger K. Williams, the Morgan U beloved prof., who died last year.

Christmas baskets.

A Hypertension Screening Program which is operated by a certified Blood Pressure Measurement Specialist.

John Wesley is working with the "Office of Life Long Learning," a Baltimore City agency. The city agency is holding classes in library branches for those who want to earn their GED.

Most of the students who attend are women with small children. It was found, that a lot of mothers who attended the class would drop out of the class; by the end of the semester, there were no students left.

Bonnie Edington's heart was touched by this and decided to do something about it. She, a volunteer, was able to form a group of volunteers who baby sit in the libraries while the mothers had class.

Some of the mothers have to bring two or three children to class in order to attend.

One day two babies began to cry and the librarian told Bonnie that the children had to go. Bonnie took the two babies outside and sat on the bench, as she looked around, she saw John Wesley, an "oasis" so she calls it.

Bonnie went to the church and told them of how she could no longer take the mothers children to the library for baby sitting while the mothers were in class, and John Wesley immediately took them in.

This act of Christ helped to save the GED program at the Walbrook site. At times bonnie said there are as many as 15 or 16 children cared for at John Wesley while their mothers are in class trying to better themselves.

John Wesley not only provides a place for children, they gave them access to toys and gave them storage space in the church.

John Wesley along with Mr. Earl Mathews of Easy Transportation, and Mr. Reginald Hill of Hill Transportation, provide bus service making it possible for the mothers and children to get to class, saved this GED program.

John Wesley has always been led by Pastors with a vision and a heart for the people. Rev. Crosson is no different.

John Wesley is a church which has no problem helping.

Danielle Greene (center), receives congratulations from Dr. Sandye Jean McIntyre, II (right), Distinguished Professor Emeritus and Advisor to the Fulbright Program at Morgan, and Dr. Carleen Leggett, Assistant Advisor to the Fulbright Program.

Fulbright Scholar

Danielle Greene, a Morgan physics major, received some exciting correspondence this week.

When she went to her mailbox, she found a letter notifying her that she is the 75th Morgan student to receive a Fulbright Scholarship to study abroad.

The letter was from the Institute of International Education, the New York City based organization that administers the Fulbright program.

Ms. Greene will travel to the Marshall Islands after she graduates from Morgan on May 20, where she will spend a year studying science education.

Born in Queens, New York, Danielle has distinguished herself as a scholar and has been active as a leader in numerous organizations. She is the current president of the Society of Physics Students and holds membership in the Chemistry Society, Biology Club, Promethean Kappa Tau Honor Society, NAACP, and many other organizations.

Responding to the news about Ms. Greene's award, Dr. Sandye Jean McIntyre, II, Coordinator of Morgan's Fulbright Program, states "... I'm elated to learn that Danielle has become Morgan's 75th Fulbright Scholar.

She has been a diligent student and I'm positive that she will be a fantastic representative of the University as she pursues her goals in the Fulbright Program.
