Smile Orchids

Smile orchids to this year's high school grads who are headed for interesting careers. Typical of them are the 182 Dunbar High grads who received diplomas on Friday.

Orchids to ranking students, Tiffany Harrison, with a 92.0 average who will enroll in Morgan U. this fall; Shantel Watson, with a 91.1 average, who's headed for University of Maryland; Jonathan Johns, with 89.0 average, who's going to Johns Hopkins to become a biomedical engineer.

And orchids to Dunbar principal, Dr. Elzee Gladden. Students and faculty members praise his leadership and credit him for inspiring them. He's proud of them, too.

More smile orchids to these Dunbar achievers–

Malcom Franklin, another of this year's grads, applied for and was awarded a full four-year scholarship, in excess of $45,000 to Clark College in Atlanta.

Jaconda Wagner, a 1986 Dunbar grad, who was among 1990 Hopkins University grades this past May, has been accepted at U of Md. Law School.

Anthony McFarlane, a 1982 Dunbar grad, was graduated from Hopkins Medical School this month.

And, orchids to 10 members of this year's Dunbar class who have been certified by the state as emergency medical technicians, and will begin their training this summer on city ambulances.

More Orchids

Smile orchids to the 160 Douglass High School students who received diplomas on Sunday and to Principal Jean B. Owens.

No. 1 grad, Bryan Thomas, has been accepted at Morehouse College in Atlanta. No. 2, Tanya Ringgold, goes to Coppin State to major in nursing and computer science.

No. 3, Reginald Oliver, a star music pupil, goes to Morgan State to pursue studies in business administration and music.

No. 4 and 5 students, Tanya Cornish and Mei Xue Wang, business administration majors, have been accepted at Community College of Baltimore and Essex Community College.

Cuff note: Orchids to No. 6 ranking grad, Jacqueline Anthony. She's been awarded a full 4-year scholarship ($40,000 plus), by the U. of Md. to pursue studies in radiology.

Orchids to personable Ms. Jan M. Carroll. She's vice president of Technical Resources and Services ASF Systems Inc. That's the minority-owned computer integration firm headed by Anthony S. Fugett, which is into providing information systems solutions for government and commercial customers.

She hails from Alexandria, Va., is a graduate of Marymount College, and a former IBM systems engineer:

Love Note

Big wedding this Saturday at noon (June 16), unites Sarah L. Garrett, the attorney, and Gregory J. Sanders, the Wall St. broker.

Event is at All Saints Catholic Church on Liberty Heights Ave., where the bride and groom will be surrounded by 23 attendants, and where Mayor Kurt Schmoke will do a gospel reading. So will Barbara Bostick, the City Jail Commissioner.

The famous church choir will provide liturgical music during the ceremony under the direction of Bill Cummings.

Cuff notes: The bride-to-be has been a soloist with the choir since its inception 17 years ago. Last summer, she was with the choir when it performed in Rome and gave a special concert for the Pope.

The couple's honeymoon plans include a European trip this summer when they will join the choir for concerts in Paris and London.

Deacon Everett Logan and Rev. Charles Coger who is currently serving as State Dean of Christian Education.

In 1980, the Baptist Sunday School and Baptist Training Union received its current name of the Baptist Congress of Christian Education and in the years that followed, Mrs. Jacqueline (Gwaltney) Holmes and;

Rev. Lester Hamrick joined the ranks of past Congress Presidents who left legacies of strong christian leadership for future christian leaders to emulate.

Enlisting and training workers continues to be the top priority for the present leadership. Many of the workers throughout the State of Maryland have been certified to establish Boards of Christian Education in local churches after completing the accredited Congress courses.

The Congress teaching literature is developed by the Publishing Board of the National Baptist Convention, USA, INC.

Other ongoing programs sponsored under the motto "Inspiration - Information - Fellowship" by the State group are the Retreat ministries, Vacation Bible School, Scholarships and Mass Meetings.

Originally from Birmingham, AL, Rev. Keels, 40, said he has grown fond of Baltimore in the 11 years he has lived here and described the city as his "adopted home town."

"I have seen the spirit of the Lord moving in this city but there is an urgent need in Washington, especially with the drug crisis," he said. "I am humble to follow in the footsteps of Rev. E. W. Stevenson Sr., founder of Shaw United Methodist Church."

Shaw has a congregation of more than 2,000 members and is an important church in the district's ministry, Rev. Keels said.

Radio talk show enthusiasts may be familiar with Rev. Keels. For the past seven years he has hosted the "Bernard Keels Show," formerly called "Black Journey" on WBAL Radio.

"This show deals with political and cultural issues facing Baltimore from the Afro-American perspective," according to Rev. Keels.

He also hosted a program on WIYY, 98 Rock called "Taking It To The Street." It was a public affairs program appealing to a broader audience, he said.

Also on hand at the banquet were many of his co-workers at WBAL Radio and Television, where Rev. Keels spent five years as a television features reporter, including WBAL's president and general manager David Barrett.

Although he and his wife of 13 years, Christine, are moving to the District of Columbia, Rev. Keels said he intends to continue hosting the two radio programs.
