Eric A. Johnson

Funeral services were performed for Eric A. Johnson on December 2, in the chapel of March Funeral Homes-East. Mr. Johnson died on November 21.

The son of Avon Johnson and Jane Johnson-Smith, Eric Johnson was born on September 7, 1949. "Ricky", as he was referred to by his friends attended Edmondson High School until seventeen when he joined the Army and served as a medic in Vietnam.

After returning from duty Mr. Johnson met and married Gloria Green. Together the two had one child, Tae Damon. Johnson moved his family to California soon after his son's birth where they remained for 10 years.

Mr. Johnson warm personality earned him many friends during his travels and his love for the arts sparked his imagination and led to creative and unique ideas.

Mr. Johnson strove for the best in all that he did and memories of special times remain with the friends who shared them.

He leaves to mourn: his wife, Gloria Johnson of Los Angeles; two sons, Tae Damon and Kenneth of Baltimore; his mother, Jane Smith of Baltimore; his father, Avon Johnson of Los Angeles; grandparents, Pearl Tucker and James Brooks, of Baltimore; sisters, Elizabeth, Lilsa, Shawn and Paula of Baltimore and Kelly and Terri of Los Angeles; one aunt, Rosetta Frederick of Baltimore; one uncle, Melvin Johnson of Fremont, California; a loving and devoted friend, D'Anne Brown.

Harrison L. Bailey

Services for Harrison Lee Bailey were 7:30 p.m. Dec. 16 at the Mt. Sinai Baptist Church on East Preston Street. He died Dec. 12 after a long illness.

Mr. Bailey, 63, was an employee for Bethlehem Steel Corp. in Baltimore for over 30 years.

In March 1948, Mr. Bailey married Flora Mae (Clark) and the couple had four sons.

Mr. Bailey of Greenbay, Va., came to Baltimore at an early age. His parents were Ernest and Louise Bailey.

Mr. Bailey is survived by his wife, Flora; sons, Maurice, Harrison, Jr., Kevin and David Bailey; brother, Sterling Bailey; aunt, Lillie Fowlkes; sister-in-law, Kathy Bailey; three daughters-in-law, five grandchildren and a host of nieces and nephews.

Education
UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE
Department of Electrical Engineering
Faculty Positions
The Electrical Engineering Department of the University of Delaware seeks qualified applicants for tenure-track faculty positions in several areas:
* An exceptional senior faculty member to be hired at the associate or full professor level in the area of communications. This person is expected to assume a leadership role in the development of a research program in the general area of digital communications, and to complement the strengths we have in image/signal processing and computer communications. Candidates should have an established research and funding record.
* Junior faculty in all areas of signal processing.
* Junior faculty person in the area of electro-opticsystems. We are especially interested in a person with an interest in systems integration to interact with present faculty who is engaged in electro-optic device design and fabrication.
* Junior and senior faculty in the areas of solid state devices and materials. The areas of interest include microelectronic devices, coupled device systems (electro-optic, acousto-optic, magnetostatic, etc.), and high speed devices.
* A junior faculty person interested in crystalline, photovoltaic devices and associated systems.
* Junior and senior faculty in computer engineering. We are especially interested in adding faculty in the areas of computer networking and architecture, although all areas of computer engineering will be considered Faculty responsibilities include undergraduate and graduate teaching and the development of strong, funded research programs.
The Electrical Engineering Department has about 300 students in the undergraduate program and 75 graudate students with a strong emphasis on the PhD program. There are currently 18 faculty positions with University plans for significant further growth.
Present faculty has active research programs in all of the above areas. Current research projects in the signals and the systems area include: statistical signal processing with non-linear and robust techniques for signal and image restoration, image processing and compression, visual communications, spectral estimation, neural networks, and fault tolerant digital communications. There is research collaboration within the department in the areas of computer communications networks VLSI architectures for signal processing, and with the Mathematics Department and the Remote Sensing Program in the College of Marine Studies.
Research in the devices, materials and optics area includes: crystalline III-V and silicon solar cells, microwave-frequency optical modulators, optical interconnects for VLSI. Applications of lasers and holography, optical integrated circuits, coherent imaging systems, semiconductor lasers and photodetectors, and laser assisted semiconductor processing. There are collaborative activities with the University's Institute for Energy Conversion and with the electronic materials processing activity in Chemical Engineering.
Research in computer engineering includes computer communications networks and their performance, and special purpose computer architectures. The Department maintains close ties with the Computer and Information Sciences Department and operates a joint laboratory to provide research computer support for both departments.
There are excellent facilities for the support of research in all areas. Departmental computer facilities shared with Computer and Information Sciences include several VAX - 11/780 computers, a VAX 8530, a Sequent 581 parallel, more than 20 work stations (SUN, DECand IBM) with associated file servers and other support facilities. The departmental network also includes special facilities for supporting image research. Extensive facilities are available for network research, including an 80-Mbps campus network with gateways to ARPANET and NSFNET. Campus computer facilities available to faculty and students include several large Unixmachines and a three processor IBM 3090 with associated vector facility. Facilities for device research includes 300 square foot class 10 clean room and a 500 square foot class 1000 clean room with standard processing systems for use in the fabrication of micron sized semiconductor devices and optical structures. Extensive liquid phase epitaxy facilities are available and Molecular Beam Epitaxy is to be added. There is an extensive electron microcopy facility and well equipped laboratories are available for optical measurements and device evaluation. Applicants should have PhD in Electrical Engineering (or Physics or Optical Science for appropriate positions). Rank and salary will depend on qualifications and experience. Please send curriculum vitae to Search Committee, Department, Newark, DE 19716. Applications will be considered until positions are filled. The University of Delaware is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer which encourages applications from minority groups and women.
