CHANGES IN ACTIVITIES FUNDED UNDER THE CDBG-12 THROUGH CDBG-14 FINAL STATEMENTS AND THE PROPOSED CDBG-15 FINAL STATEMENT
The City of Baltimore is proposing to adopt changes to the CDBG-12, 13 and 14 Final Statements and the proposed CDBG-15 Final Statement. The changes proposed for the CDBG-15 draft Statement include: (1) increasing the entitlement amount from $1,894,000 to $22,775,000 and allocating these additional funds ($881,000) to the Nehemiah Housing Opportunity Grand program; (2) providing funding for certain activities resulting from comments received at the October 27, 1988 public hearing; and (3) transferring various items from CDBG-15 to CDBG-13, effecting a change in the funding source.
The CDBG-13 Statement will include additional funds of $183,309 and $24,492.70. It is proposed that these funds be allocated to Transitional Housing, the Vacant House Initiative and the Deferred Loan Programs. CDBG-14 and the CDBG-12 Final Statements will include additional program income of $266,800 and $55,600, respectively. These funds are proposed to be allocated to various CDBG-approved activities.
Other changes proposed to be incorporated into the CDBG-12 through 14 statements include:
(1) deleting certain activities which cannot be completed at this time or for which other funding sources are available;
(2) reallocating funds from item (1) above to other activities and increasing funding for certain other activities to reflect the actual amounts required;
(3) switching the funding source for certain activities (e.g. City Bond funds to community development block grant funds);
(4) specifying that a portion of the Vacant House Initiative allocation (an additional $20,000) be used to allow for a CDBG Float and to drop 1 float activity; and
(5) making minor technical corrections.
In addition to the above, the City has adopted a plan relative to residential antidisplacement and relocation assistance. This plan provides for one-for-one replacement of all low/moderate-income housing units that are converted or demolished to a use other than low/moderate-income housing as a direct result of CDBG/UDAG assistance and a relocation assistance component.
For further information concerning the above, telephone 396-4207 or visit 417 E. Fayette Street, Suite 355, where copies of the proposed amended Statements and a copy of the Residential Antidisplacement and Relocation Assistance Plan are available. Any comments concerning these changes must be submitted in writing to Michael Seipp, Deputy Commissioner, Suite 1346, 417 E. Fayette Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21202. The deadline for written comments is Tuesday, January 31, 1989.

You can help us raise the colorectal cancer cure rate.

"If everyone over 50 had checkups for colorectal cancer, the cure rate could be as high as 75%," says Dr. LaSalle D. Leffall, Jr., past president, American Cancer Society. "You can't cure it if you don't know you have it." But if it's detected early, the cure rate for colorectal cancer is very high. Your doctor can perform the digital and proctoscopic exams, and you take care of the simple stool blood test at home.
Since men and women are equally affected by this disease, we urge everyone over 50 to get regularcheckups.
The warning signs for colorectal cancer are a change in bowel habits and blood in the stool.
People with a family history of colon or rectal cancer or ulcerative colitis are at higher risk and are urged to be doubly cautious.

Checkup Guidelines for men and women over 50 without symptoms:
• digital exam annually.
• stool blood test annually
• proctoexam every 3 to 5 years after 2 negative tests 1 year apart.

Stats on basketballers

At the beginning of the year, Towson State University guard Kurk Lee (Dunbar) was leading the ECC (East Coast Conference) in three categories. He leads the conference with a 24.7 scoring average with 4.6 steals per game. Lee is shooting .911 from the free throw line and is among the national leaders in same three categories.

Although Baltimore basketball players aren't getting a lot of playing time at Old Dominion University, senior Bernard Royster (Cardinal Gibbons) and freshman Terrance Jacobs (Southern) are playing enough to make a contribution to the team that was (10-3) at the end of the second week in January. Royster is averaging eight minutes a game (2pts/2 rebounds) and Jacobs is averaging twelve minutes a game (3 pts/3 rebounds).

Flores a Terp

While James Flores (Poly) has made an oral commitment to the University of Maryland to play football in the Fall, the 6'3, 220 pound, All-Met, defensive lineman is but one of several grid specialists who want to be a part of the Terps winning tradition, but unlike Flores, others do not have the grades to qualify for admission.

Minority Golfers are Needed

This week-end will mark the Seventh Annual East/West Golf Classic, sponsored by the National Minority Junior Golf Scholarship Association at the Arizona Golf Resort and The Gold Canyon Golf Club.

Although the event is open to all amateurs, it is primarily geared to helping minorities pursue a career in golf. The non-profit NMJGSA is offering scholarships for minority high school golfers throughout the country to the college of their choice. Interested golfers should contact Bill Dickey at (602) 258-7851, for more information.

Prop. 42 Reaction

While the furor still rages over the toughening of the Proposition 48 provision, approved last week by Division 1 schools at the NCAA Convention, in San Francisco, coaches in the Baltimore area are scrambling to understand its purpose.

Proposition 42, an amendment to its standard bearer, will "deny an athletic scholarship or any form of university administered aid (not including the federal Pell grants or students loans) to those student-athletes who failed to score 700 or better on the S.A.T. (Scholastic Aptitude Test) and who fail to achieve a 2.0 base grade point average in a core curriculum of eleven high school academic courses."

Previously, athletes who had reached one of the two requirements could receive a scholarship but could not compete or practice as freshman and would subsequently lose a year's eligibility.

As Georgetown University's John Thompson dramatically illustrated his displeasure with the NCAA law, by walking out on the Boston College game, Southern High coach Meredith Smith offers his response to the new provision.

Coach Smith has the top high school basketball player in the City, in Craig Tyson, who may or may not be effected by the measure, has not taken the S.A.T., but other Southern basketball players, such as, Corey Beasley, (Boston College) Everett Cooper (Towson State) and Terrance Jacobs (Old Dominion) have and Smith shares his concern for future athletes.

"I don't want to give the wrong impression on academics," Smith said. "Academics are very important, but it is difficult for me to understand the real intent of Proposition 42.

It was my general belief that the NCAA was there to help the student-athlete and not hinder them. From my point of view, Prop. 42 is definitely discriminatory."

The feeling for many coaches around the area is that the S.A.T. is not a valid measuring barometer for gaining a sense of a student's overall academic abilities.

Yet, the overtones of Prop. 42 suggest an even greater attempt to keep young athletes from attending college, who without their athletic skills would possibly never have an opportunity for higher education, and most of these tend to be black.

"I feel that the new NCAA rule will handicap those students who are economically and socially deprived," Smith said. "They (NCAA) are discriminating because it will deny opportunities to those students without the resources to attend college."

While other coaches concede that racial discrimination may be to harsh a term for intercollegiate administrators, there does appear to be some insensitivity to the minority athlete.

"We say we want kids to have college degrees and be productive citizens," says Coppin State basketball coach Ron Mitchell," how can they, if they never get the opportunity to show what they can really do. Everybody should have a chance."

Proposition 42, which goes in effect in August, 1990, is said to warrant another look after the controversy it has caused, but Smith says it goes beyond that.

"I think changes in the entire scholarship process needs to be made," Smith said. "There should be a longer scholarship period. Those who don't meet the minimum standard should be given five years on a regular scholarship, with the first year excluded from the participation of competition. It should contain a minimum academic schedule with remedial help, if needed."

"Further," adds Smith, "The public schools have limited resources to deal with the masses of socially - economically deprived students. Major universities have more resources.

College sports is big business and while the university gets rich and the NCAA gets rich, the student gets very little, comparatively, so why not give the student more, whether it is money or academic help."

Harvey Schiller, the Southeastern Conference Commissioner, who lobbied hard for the passage of Prop. 42, said recently after the furor that there may be a need to make the legislation more sensitive because they (NCAA) was in the business of "creating opportunities and not diminishing them" and the possibility of a rehearing on the measure may be imminent.

"I am 100 percent in favor of the intellectual and academic development of the culturally disadvantaged student," Smith said. "At the same time, I am very concern by the apparent denial of opportunity that may come from this.

We have worked very hard at Southern to prepare our kids for their academic future and we have had some successes, but nothing is guaranteed. If this measure is maintained, it is going to mean a lot less for a lot of kids."
