YWCA launches Campaign

The one-hundred-and-three-year-old Druid Hill YMCA launched its $30,000 annual "giving campaign" Feb. 6 at its Druid Hill headquarters to raise money for its poorer families and children who visit the facility and programs for its teen and elderly.

"We have raised about $10,000 or 33 percent of our goal so far," said Kacy Conley, the organization's executive director.

Last year the agency raised $25,000 in pledges.

This year's money will fund summer, holiday and after school programs for children and swimming, gymnastics and other sporting fun for the children.

DISCUSSING STRATEGY is Warren Weaver, Harlow Fullwood, Alice Pinderhughes and Paul Beckman, at the kickoff meeting.

YOUNGSTERS enjoy chicken as fundraising matters are gone over by committee members.

Learning Bank fights illiteracy

One in six Marylanders cannot read this sentence.

The United Way of Central Maryland, through its funding of the Learning Bank, is helping to change this.

The Learning Bank provides free instruction for non-reading and non-writing adults.

It is the literacy program of Communities to Improve Life (COIL(, a coalition associations, churches and organizations dedicated to upgrading living conditions in Baltimore.

Almost half of the state's illiterate population lives in Baltimore.

The Learning Bank offers one-on-one tutoring and classroom sessions to people 16 years of age or older who are not enrolled in school.

In addition, the learning resource center offers instructional work on computers, directed independent study, and the opportunity for students to continue in math studies and pre-GED instruction.

"The Learning Bank is the best thing that ever happened to me," said Albert Mills, a 48-year-old former street person who began free remedial reading and writing classes under the direction of Sister Mary Judith Schmelz two years ago.

"It gave me the confidence I needed to look for a job and get off the streets."

Two months ago Mills applied for a job as a housekeeper at the Peabody Court Hotel by "filling out the application all by myself." He was hired and has since been named the hotel's employee of the month.

Today, Mills still attends classes at the Learning Bank, where he is working toward obtaining his GED.

The Learning Bank opened at its present 1223 West Baltimore Street location last year after COIL leased the vacant Maryland National Bank building at the site.

Maryland National has since presented the Learning Bank with the deed to the property.

IN MEMORIAM

FORD — A tribute to the memory of our dear beloved sister, HELEN INEZ FORD, who passed away February 7, 1942.
Some say time heals an aching heart,
But no that is not true,
Since you have been gone, dear sister,
Our hearts still ache for you.
Even though it has been forty-seven long years since you went away,
But we remember you as though it was yesterday,
God blessed us with a ruby rare,
He blessed us with you, sister, dear.
You were so sweet, loving and kind
A sweeter, dearer sister, no one could ever find.
You were so good in all your ways,
Helping and doing for others throughout your days.
Even though you are gone,
In our hearts you will always live on.
Forever In Our Hearts,
Devoted Sisters,
MISS DORIS FORD
MISS MARLENE FORD

FOREHAND — In memory of our loved one, LLOYD, who passed away February 14, 1988:
SINCERELY LOVED AND MISSED
