Coppin holds its 5th Academic fair

Nationally and locally the public school system has been maligned, abused and short-changed.

With all the negatives that the public hears about schools, one wonders if there is any hope left for the country.

Will there be leaders, thinkers, and workers springing forth to blaze new trails into the 20th Century?

Coppin State College held it's fifth Annual Academic Fair for Baltimore City high school juniors and seniors, February 23.

It proved that the future is not all lost.

Students had an opportunity to compete academically in English, speech, history, mathematics, biology and chemistry.

During the second faze of the Academic Fair, three students from three schools competed in a more comprehensive Academic Bowl, modeled after the television show, "It's Academic."

There were two winning categories. The first category was for the individual competition winners.

Some of these included Erica Owensby and Pamela Mintz both of City College won in the biology category.

Bala K. Ambati of City College and Garnett Hall of Forest Park High School won first and second place in mathematics.

Cleveland Friday of Walbrook High School took first place in chemistry. Awards in English were in creative writing and dramatic competition.

Two students from Walbrook, Erlessa Garner and Reginald Johnson, won first and second in creative writing.

Dramatic competition first and second place was won by four other Walbrook students, Michael Bennett and Bruce Evans won first and Lisa Morris and Bruce Evans won second.

Competition ended with the Academic Bowl. Walbrook High School took first place and Baltimore City College was second.

CITY COLLEGE, WALBROOK AND FOREST PARK — High schools prepare to match wits at the Coppin States College Academic Bowl.
