PARAMEDICS WERE CALLED BUT:

Mis-diagnosed bride dies

By Helen Glover Cook
AFRO Staff Writer

During the same weekend that Mayor Kurt L.Schmoke was complaining of breathing problems, 24-year-old Samantha Johnson Young was also feeling a tightness in her chest that she knew was a heart attack.

Samantha was not as fortunate as Mayor Schmoke.

"Samantha woke up Sunday morning feeling all right," said her husband Ricardo Young. "She ate some chicken livers and grits for breakfast, then she started to feeling slow.

"She went upstairs to the bathroom and I followed behind her. As soon as she reached the top of the steps she started to frantically wave her arms shouting 'Rick call my mother and an ambulance, I'm having a heart attack.' "

WEDDING PHOTO of Samantha and Ricardo Young, taken only two weeks ago.

Rick said, "I called 911 and the paramedics came to the house. They said that what she ate must have given her indigestion, so they asked if we had any baking soda, telling me to mix it in water and give it to Sam. She drank it and laid down, but she still didn't feel any better afterwards.

"Sam had worked overtime at her Fort Meade job. She had borrowed her mom's car. When I called her mom she got someone to drive her to our Braddish Street house to pick up the car.

Mrs. Delores Johnson, mother of Samantha Young said, "I saw that the front door was open and thought to myself why are they still here? I thought they were at the hospital by the time I reached Braddish Street.

"I went inside and Rick was holding Sam. She looked like she was loosing consciousness. Her eyes were rolling back in her head. Just then another paramedic team came in. Rick explained to me what had happened up to that point," said Delores Johnson.

"This team took Sam's blood pressure, vital signs and immediately rushed her

Citizens speakout at brutality forum

An angry Helen Bradford of the Welfare Rights Organization expresses her thoughts on her personal dispute with the police department to city officials and fellow citizens.

They were angry and frustrated, and they came to tell their personal stories of the nightmares they faced while in the hands of Baltimore police.

Due to escalating reports of police brutality in recent months, the NAACP held a public forum on police/community relations Tuesday night at the Palladium.

The agenda set was two-fold, first the NAACP presented its findings of the police and community relations report, released last month, which summarized what they found in a year-long investigation of the department and the communities it serves.

The agenda was also used as a forum by citizens which allowed them to tell their stories which they perceived as brutality or mistreatment by the police department.

The board of officials which held the forum consisted of National NAACP President and Board Chairwoman Enolia Macmillan, Baltimore Branch Executive Secretary George Buntin, and Spokesman Rodney Orange.

BALTIMORE COUNTY:

Probe continues in police beating case

By Joy Tyler
AFRO Staff Reporter

The Baltimore County NAACP contacted the AFRO after reports that a county resident had been allegedly beaten by a white police officer.

After last weekend's burglary attempt by William R. Sparrow, of Spencer Street, several unsuccessful attempts to get the family to state their side of the story were made.

Because of the current ongoing internal investigation of the incident, the family was unable to comment.

Sparrow who was in admitted to Shock Trauma a week ago, after being allegedly beaten by a white police officer in Baltimore County, was released Wednesday on his own recognizance by court commissioner Donadio.

County police are piecing together facts on the case, and conducting interviews with those in the Cedar Street neighborhood who were witnesses in the case, according to spokesman Jay Miller of the county police.

"We are diligently working to get all the information needed to complete the investigation. This department has a good history in dealing with this type of situation, and we do not tolerate this type of behavior," stated Miller.

New leads are developing, despite the refusal of Sparrow to talk with police, on advice of council.

MAYOR SCHMOKE'S PROPOSED:

Prisoner release gains momentum

By Helen Glover Cook
AFRO Staff Writer

Reactions to the executive order issued last week by Mayor Kurt L. Schmoke mandating the release of over 200, low risk, non-violent, Baltimore City Jail inmates, has raised a storm.

Judicial officials who felt that the Mayor did not have the authority to make such a decree, as well as the prisoners and their advocates who view the prisoners inability to post bail as the sole reason for their incarceration have voiced concern.

State Delegates from the 39th district in which the jail is situated, Larry Young, Elijah Cummings and John Jefferies met with City Jail Commissioner, Barbara Bostick, City Jail Attorney, Jim Ruckle and City Jail Board Chairman, James Wiggins on Wednesday.

They discussed effective measures for the early release of prisoners whose lack of income prevents them from having bail money.

Del. Larry Young announced at the meeting the City Board of Estimates approval of an emergency $108,000 grant for the purchase of an additional 200 bracelet monitors needed to monitor pre-trial detainees on the Home Monitoring Program (HMP), bringing the total amount of bracelets and participants to 400.

"The City has approved money which it actually does not have in its coffers," said Del. Young. "We have been in touch with Secretary of Public Safety, Bishop Robinson to inquire about State reimbursement for the $108,000 so that money can be replaced."

Del. Young said, "The problem of low risk inmates who do not have telephones has also been addressed by the 39th delegation. In fact, we were not aware of it at the time but one of own, Del. Elijah Cummings had introduced a bill in the last General Assembly which provides an

Welfare Rights Org. responds to complaints on case workers

By Helen Glover Cook
AFRO Staff Writer

Responding to the large number of grievances expressed by persons alleging mistreatment at the hands of insensitive Department of Social Service caseworkers, the Baltimore Welfare Rights Organization has organized an 11-member task force to investigate these complaints and make recommendations to the Department of Social Services.

WELFARE RIGHTS PRESIDENT—(L) Irving Conway has named Richard Skip (R) Barbee to head task force.

Irving Conway, Welfare Rights President said, "We receive a large number of complaints about specific caseworkers whose behavior is unprofessional and sometimes abusive toward their clients; this is one of the problems the task force will try to solve.

Conway said, "The task force will document the behavior of those workers most complained about. If their behavioral problems are

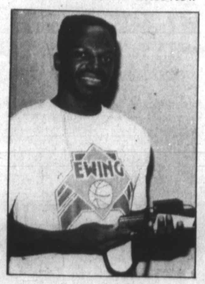
AFRO talks with grateful inmates

By Helen Glover Cook
AFRO Staff Writer

In an Exclusive interview with the AFRO two ex-inmates of the Baltimore City Jail's, Graves Street facility, Louis Randall and Alonzo Hardy express their joy at being chosen to participate in the early release program instituted by Mayor Schmoke's mandate to release low risk prisoners who are unable to post bail because they lack the funds to do so.



Alonzo Hardy

Randall and Hardy were anxious the moment that the Mayor's early release was announced at the Graves Street facility on Wednesday evening.

Randall said, "I had been arrested for theft and was sentenced to 90 days in jail.First we heard the televi-
