On motion by Mr. Kennedy, the following message was read:

By the House of Delegates, Feb. 27, 1826.

Gentlemen of the Senate,

We proposed some time ago, to adjourn on the first day of March next, but there is still much business before us, and some questions to be decided of great importance to the citizens of the state generally, so that we cannot, consistently with the duties we owe to our constituents, be ready to adjourn before Saturday the eleventh day of March.

We were sent here to do public business, and it will be a dereliction of our duty, if we return to our homes before we do that business, and
