

...at the great importance of the integrity and ability with which he has conducted the business of the Court.

...to the Court, to the public, and to the world, that the Court is not only a tribunal of law, but a tribunal of justice, and that the Court is not only a tribunal of justice, but a tribunal of wisdom.

...and that the Court is not only a tribunal of wisdom, but a tribunal of courage, and that the Court is not only a tribunal of courage, but a tribunal of honor.

...and that the Court is not only a tribunal of honor, but a tribunal of glory, and that the Court is not only a tribunal of glory, but a tribunal of fame.

...and that the Court is not only a tribunal of fame, but a tribunal of power, and that the Court is not only a tribunal of power, but a tribunal of influence.

...and that the Court is not only a tribunal of influence, but a tribunal of respect, and that the Court is not only a tribunal of respect, but a tribunal of reverence.

...and that the Court is not only a tribunal of reverence, but a tribunal of awe, and that the Court is not only a tribunal of awe, but a tribunal of fear.

...and that the Court is not only a tribunal of fear, but a tribunal of terror, and that the Court is not only a tribunal of terror, but a tribunal of horror.

...and that the Court is not only a tribunal of horror, but a tribunal of despair, and that the Court is not only a tribunal of despair, but a tribunal of hope.
