

Ans.—Yes, sir; I asked for information, and circulated it, and I rode out to the neighbors to advise them not to vote, before having seen the Governor's proclamation.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

Ques.—Did any Democrats go to the polls that day?

Ans.—There were 110 Democrat votes.

Ques.—Do you recollect how many Democrat votes were polled in 1861 in the Trappe District?

Ans.—Looking at the returns for 1861, I find that the vote was 93, and I believe that to be right. That was the smallest Democrat vote that had been cast for some years previously.

Ques.—How many soldiers were at the polls?

Ans.—Five.

Ques.—Did they stay all day?

Ans.—They were there when I arrived, between 8 and 9, and I believe they left a little before 6 P. M., just before the polls closed.

Ques.—Do you mean to say, that you saw every one of them, twenty-one Democrats, on the morning of election day?

Ans.—I did not see every one of the twenty-one; I saw all that I have mentioned.

Ques.—How many of these twenty-one can you swear that you certainly saw on election day; who told you that they would go in the afternoon?

Ans.—I will not say positively; I cannot swear to more than twelve or thirteen. I was out all night, circulating the Governor's proclamation, and between 12 o'clock at night and the opening of the polls in the morning, I saw all those that I have named. I saw them between midnight and nine o'clock on Wednesday morning.

Ques.—When did you get the Governor's proclamation?

Ans.—About dark on Tuesday night.

Ques.—How many did you see between dark and 12 o'clock?

Ans.—A great number.

Ques.—Was there any sort of interference by the soldiers during the whole day?

Ans.—No, sir. The Governor's proclamation was observed, and there was peace and quiet during the entire day.
