

The Women of the Court of Special Appeals Make History

On September 3, for the first time in the history of Maryland courts, an all-female appellate panel heard arguments in Annapolis. All three judges wore pearls to mark the occasion. From left to right are the Court of Special Appeals Judges Deborah S. Byrnes, Ellen L. Hollander and Sally D. Adkins, the newest member of the state's 13-judge intermediate court.