GOES AFTER BRUCE The Sun (1837-1985); Feb 17, 1912; ProQuest Historical Newspapers The Baltimore Sun (1837-1985)

Plans To Become A Candidate For Congress."

[From THE SUN Bureau.] Annapolis, Md., Feb. 16.—Senator Maloy, of Baltimore city, in a series of "whereases" preceding a resolution calling for information from the Public Service Commission, goes after members of the com-mission and its employes hammer and tongs. It seems from these whereases that some of them have taken part in politics. and, worst of all, they lined up against the organization. That is the serious part of The general counsel of the commisft. sion, William Cabell Bruce, seems to have been the principal offender against Senator Maloy's idea of the proprieties, and he is charged with a number of things, in addition to being suspected of having Congressional aspirations.

The preamble to Mr. Maloy's resolution states that "it was in the legislative mind at the creation of the Public Service Commission that the great public service cor-porations should be removed from all connection with, regulation by or participation in politics; that to a body divorced from politics was being committed the regulation of these aggregations of capital which it was thought had played too prominent a part in conventions, primaries and elections, and that such was the talk of the time in both the legislative halls and corridors and in the public press.

halls and corridors and in the public press. Most Powerful Man In State. "In recent political contests it is report-ed that one of the members of the com-mission appeared on the hustings and in the recent primary election preceding the Mayoralty campaign the general coursel (William Cabeli Bruce), the assistant coun-sel (Albert C. Ritchie) and the secretary (Louis M. Duvall) were active partisans; that under the view of the law creating the commission and entertained by the com-mission the general coursel seems to be the adviser, interpreter of the laws and dictator of its jurisdiction, and hence is the most powerful individual in the State of Maryland, being the dominating force of a body to which is committed the broadest powers over companies with a capital of nearly one and a half billions of dollars. The Offenses Of Bruce. "We find this official in the short time that he has been in office a leading spirit in a Mayoralty primary neoundent that he has been in office a leading spirit in a Mayoralty primary, prominent in a Gubernatorial primary, at the present time at the head of the campaign committee in this State of a Presidential aspirant, tak-ing part in a movement admittedly aimed to brisinte out of office an elected official ing part in a movement admittedly almed to legislate out of office an elected official of Baltimore, and, if signs do not fail, lay-ing his plans to become a candidate for Congress while still holding the position of general counsel to the Public Service Com-mission; and all this without public com-ment, while the newspapers have teemed with disapproval of the political activity of a petty police magistrate." of a petty police magistrate.

Mr. Maloy Wants To Know.

The commission is asked to answer the following inquiries and give its reasons therefor :

"With a view of practicing economy in the public expenditures would it not be advisable to abolish the offices of general counsel and assistant counsel to the com-mission or both and impose these duties on the Attorney-General, and could not on the Attorney-General, and could not this be done without impairing the useful-ness of the commission? "Wby should not the general counsel and ness

nt coun: sista sel act s st orn have not been put in possesion of," said be. "Although we are now in the middle of our session the only thing we have from the Fublic Utilities Board is a report that is so involved and tabulated that I must is so involved and tabulated that I must confess I can make nothing out of it." He further charged that the people now know that the Utilities Commission had been uniformly ruling against them in cases brought before it, and said that the petitioner in every case had been put in a position where he had to elicit the in-formation to make his case out and which ought to have been furnished by the ex-perts and the counsel to the board. The resolution was finally made the spe-cial order of the day for 1.30 o'clock next Wednesday, on motion of Senator Lee. Mr. Bruce Has Nothing To Say. Mr. Bruce was asked yesterday if he

Mr. Bruce was asked yesterday if he would make a statement in explanation of the charges against him. He replied that he had nothing whatever to say, that the Senate had a right to any information it desired, which the members of the commis-sion, its counsel, officers or employes could give, and if the Senate asked for the infor-mation he would be glad to give it. mation he would be glad to give it.

the individual complainant when his com-The individual complainant when his com-plaint seems well founded, as attorney for the consumer when his ineritorious com-plaints against the public service corpora-tion, or as attorney for the city of Balti-more in the Gas Company case? "It legislation be required to enable the coursel to the commission to act as the people's coursel and to permit the services of engineers and experts in the pay of the of engineers and experts in the pay of the -commission to be availed of by the com-plainant, what legislation with this end in view would the commission recommend? "If an act be now on the statute books, which act applies to certain classes of in-dividuals or objects and it is proposed by the purview and application of the act, would such action on the part of the Legis-lature be deemed an interference with the powers now delegated to the commission? "Would the amendment of the Full Crew law, as proposed by the appended bill, in any way interfere with the commission in the performance of its duties?

Will The Counsel Help?

"If complaints be lodged with the com mission as to the condition of the railroad trackage at certain points, as to the hours of labor and the conditions under which railroad employes labor, will the counsel to the commission represent the complain-ants and will the complainants have the co-operation and help of the experts em-ployed by the commission; and upon the filing of an impersonal application in the name of an organization of railroad men would the commission consider that it was called upon to investigate of its own ac-cord, and if conditions were found to war-rant, would it order changes?

Frant, would it order changes. What explanation has the commission of the fact that not one (except an order spassed after an accident had occurred) anong the many orders passed by it can be classed among those generally regarded as for the direct benefit of the laborers and employes of public service corporations, as distinguished from the consumer on the one hand and the investor on the other?

to offer of the participation of its mem-bers and of its coursel in primary elec-tions, and, in the opinion of the com-mission, should not such active participa-tion in politics be prohibited by law?

No Blow Intended.

In speaking of the order that he intro-duced in the Senate today, Senator Maloy said: "I want to disclaim any intention of aiming a blow at either the commission or Mr. Bruce. On the contrary, I was very much in favor of the creation of the commission and am now a strong advocate of the board. When the Attorney-General was preparing the draft of the Public Util-ties law I procured copies of the Wisconsin the board. was preparing the draft of the Fublic Uni-ties law I procured copies of the Wisconsin and New York laws, studled the provisions of the acts, read the reports and publica-tions of the commissions of these States, considered how they would operate in Maryland and made suggestions to the At-torney. General some of which he embed.

Maryland and made suggestions to the At-torney-General, some of which he embod-led in the act as presented and passed. "It also want to disavow any antagonism to Mr. Bruce. I have been a candidate for office in four primary elections and in two general elections, and also have taken an active part in the management of two Con-gressional and three Mayoralty elections, and it is not likely that with such experiand it is not likely that with such experiwhere 1 might incur the ill will of such an inducatial man as the general counsel of the commission, simply for the purpose of annoying him.

"They truth of the matter is that 1 be-lieve Mr. Bruce has misconceived the na-ture of his official duties and misunderture of his official duties and misunder-atood the province of the commission, and by reason of his force and ability molded the commission according to his ideas. The filling of a complaint, the counsel and the molecular and the employe need the assisttions can take care or inemserves, out the consumer and the employe need the assist-ance of these officials paid by the public (and intended by the Legislature to be at the service of the humblest complainant. "I am in carnest-about this matter and have official will result in method hope that my efforts will result in making the Public Service Commission the useful institution that it was designed to be, and that it will be in fact as well as in theory a commission entirely divorced from politics and partisanship.

Connected With Train Crew Bill. Senator Maloy told the Senate that his resolution was in connection with the bill for a "full crew" provision on all trains introduced by him yesterday, and stated that the order was designed to open the question of whether or not this provision for a full crew did not come under the jurisdiction of the commission. Senator Hammond in seconding the mo-Senator Hammond in seconding the mo-tion of Senator Maloy for immediate con-aideration of his order took the stand that feither branch of the Legislature is en-titled to have such information as it may desire turnished it by this or any State board. There is a great deal of informa-pion which we should have, but which we Reproduced with permission of the copyright owner. Further reproduction prohibited without permission.