

...of the Ministry, may retard the progress of that question. At the sitting of the Council on the 14th of February, a Royal Order was issued appointing M. De Montaigne, a French Commissioner for the discussion of the American Treaty. This is the only mention we find of the American Treaty. This appointment had excited some surprise, as heretofore it had not been usual for a committee to choose a reporter, until they were agreed upon the questions upon which they were to decide, and arranged the basis of the report which they may have to submit. It appears that in the present case, the committee have divided the labour among all the members, each one having a special question given to him to discuss, and after they have all got through their business are to be submitted to M. De Montaigne, who collected and presented to the committee. It was supposed that the committee would meet through before the middle or latter part of March.

The Paris Monitor, the official paper of the French Government, contains a number of interesting articles on the subject of the American Treaty. The first article is a translation of the report of the French Commissioner, M. De Montaigne, on the subject of the American Treaty. The second article is a translation of the report of the American Commissioner, M. De Montaigne, on the subject of the American Treaty. The third article is a translation of the report of the French Commissioner, M. De Montaigne, on the subject of the American Treaty. The fourth article is a translation of the report of the American Commissioner, M. De Montaigne, on the subject of the American Treaty.

OBITUARY.
Died, on Saturday last in this city, Benjamin Harwood, of Truss, Adjutant-General of Maryland, in the 61st year of his age, leaving a large and amiable family, and an extensive circle of friends and relatives to mourn his loss. He was educated with a liberal education, with which he imbibed the principles of integrity and honour. His virtues were many, his faults few. Never was he known to turn away from a spectacle of pity—never did he shut his ears to the cries of distress—never by a reproach silenced the cries of poverty, nor denied his bounty to the necessitous. The numerous concourses of citizens and soldiers who attended his remains to the grave, best attest the estimation in which he was held by his fellow-citizens.

Departed this life on Friday morning last, 30 instant, at his residence in Cambridge, Dorchester county, adored, honored and beloved by all who knew him, the Honourable WILLIAM BOND MARTIN, Chief Justice of the 4th Judicial District in Maryland, in the 60th year of his age.

ENLARGED SERIES OF THE MUSEUM.

MR. LITTELL has much pleasure in announcing to the patrons of the Museum, that he has made arrangements for the future publication of the work in a style much superior to the present—and nearly approaching what he has always desired that it should appear in. The circulation of the work is now so large, as to make it important to the proprietor that he should be able to give his whole attention to it. This has hitherto been prevented by the care and intense attendance upon a multifarious and widely extended business. With the view of completing more quickly the publication of Lodge's Portraits and Memoirs of Illustrious and Noble Characters, a splendid work now in hand, and effecting a settlement of accounts, extending over a large part of the United States—a necessary and important business in all parts of the country for the vigorous prosecution of the publication of the Museum, he has made a contract with Mr. Adam Walden of this city to print the work, attend to its distribution, and manage all the financial concerns appertaining to it after the present year.

Mr. Walden is a practical printer, not surpassed in taste by any other in the country, and as he is a man of great industry and skill, it is believed that the Museum will be published with more interest than ever before. The terms of sale of the Museum are as follows:—
